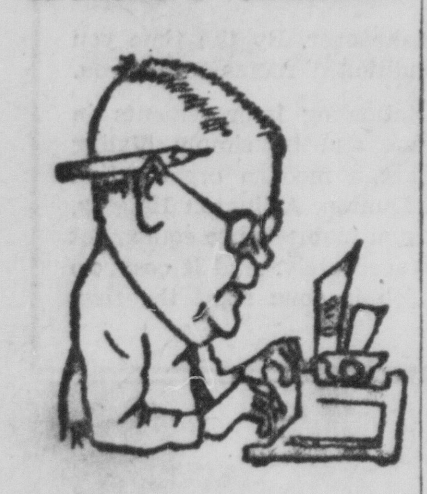
Editor's Column



STUART R. PADDOCK

We always enjoy reading comments by Rev. Martin Marty that appear on the editorial page of this newspaper each week.

We are sorry this column is not long enough to permit us to give a tape of his talk Friday night before the Arlington Heights Historical Society.

The talk was based on the growth and changes in the religious life of the past and present, particularly in the townships of Wheeling and Elk Grove.

He covered a lot of territory from the early days when the Methodists, Presbyterians, Reformed, Lutherans, and in some parts of the country, Episcopalians held the predominant church membership.

The segregation of those of a particular religious faith is becoming less and less. Today, residents of a single block often are representative of a half dozen or more faiths.

During his illuminating talk we received the impression that his audience was hearing extracts from his latest book that is soon to be published.

We chanced last week to meet two old time farmer friends.

The first was William Bauman who has resided the past 30 or 40 years on route 53, a mile north of Palatine. He is not frightened off his property by the encroaching subdivisions. He likes farming and wants to remain a farmer as long as rising taxes do not become too great.

The other farmer friend is Albert Gathman, supervisor of Schaumburg until the last election. He also wants to remain a farmer and he has a son who desires to follow in dad's footsteps. Each will soon be farming on two farms about fifty miles to the west.

Albert posed a question we could not answer, and here it is: When the first World War came to a close his father was selling his wheat at $5 a bushel, while the bakers of that day still only charged five cents for a loaf of bread. How were they able to do it?

Both of these farmers are opposed to Kennedy's new farm program. One reason is that today wheat farmers are able to rent as much as 1,000 acres of wheat land for $5 an acre and earn a profit by accepting $17 an acre from Uncle Sam.

It was at a meeting of the Arlington Heights Historical Society, where we saw Mr. Gathman, that we learned that in addition to being a good farmer, he has a wealth of stories.

We suggest that if he becomes tired of farming he could earn a good living as a TV story teller. After adjournment of the meeting, a group of listeners was kept in gales of laughter by his repertoire of "Will Rogers" type stories.

Relocate Disputed Highway

Meandering route 53 was staked down last Thursday to a permanent location from the Northwest Toll rd. to Blue Bell Estates, a small subdivision on Northwest hwy. between Palatine and Arlington Heights.

And the bitter discontent of property owners along the route's proposed realignment between Palatine rd. and Rand rd. appears to be soothed with proposals of compromise.

A conciliatory solution advanced by Palatine trustee John L. Moodie would relocate the route 400 feet east of where it now is planned to run along Wilke rd.

Roger Nusbaum, deputy chief highway engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, moderated a public hearing in Palatine village hall.

NUSBAUM stated a decision regarding location of that part of the proposed alignment stretching from Palatine rd. to Rand rd. will be made upon the basis of information provided in testimony at the May 25 and February 16 hearings.

Stressing that a decision on alignment of the contested portion of the route will be made with the full knowledge of everyone, Nusbaum said: "Interested parties will be advised of our intentions."

Such a decision should come within the next 30 days, Nusbaum explained.

ESTABLISHING location of the route south of Northwest hwy. will permit the Northwestern industrial Park of Rolling Meadows to proceed with plans for its development. A part of the industrial area has remained vacant while location of the route was arbitrated.

Nusbaum explained that acquiring of land for the established portion of the route is anticipated within the next four months. Engineering details and land plats must be completed first.

As expected, strongest objections against the proposed route were voiced by home owners from Palatine's Winston Park and from the area near the intersection of Rand and Wilke rds.

Winston Park residents, composing the largest single group in the crowd of over 200 that jammed into the village hall, opposed the present plan because it is "too near home sites and will depreciate property values."

Residents from about 20 homes in the Rand and Wilke rds. area protested the uprooting of homes, some of which have been constructed for over 30 years.

BASIC ARGUMENT advanced by the owners in their defense, was that there is sufficient vacant land to the east where the highway can be constructed without causing inconvenience to established homes.

President John G. Woods, toeing the mark for Arlington Heights, commended highway department officials for weighing objections lodged at the February 16 hearing.

A plan shown by the highway department in February had the route slashing across an area recently annexed to Arlington Heights. The village objected to this plan, contending its northern development was being restricted.

Albert J. Miller, president of Miller Builders' Inc., commenting on Palatine's proposal that the route be moved 400 feet east to property he plans to develop into Village Green subdivision, said he would be willing to consider the matter.

"However," Miller added, "I wouldn't want to make any definite statement without knowing more details of such a plan."

WOODS, who said nothing to close the door for a compromise agreeable to Arlington Heights, said he was "very hesitant to agree to anything here without first consulting the village trustees."

It was Woods' willingness to proceed further for a solution, and Palatine's trustee Moodie urging for a compromise with a concrete suggestion that gave the entire meeting importance.

Citizens attending the February public hearing indicated that last Thursday's meeting was far more satisfactory than the one held in February.

Mrs. Richard Hanson, whose home at 1550 Anderson dr., Palatine, is as close to the proposed route as any home which will not be torn down, expressed appreciation for efforts to reconcile objections.

"I BELIEVE the state really understood our problem and that we and they are trying to work out a mutually satisfying solution," she stated.

Mayor of Rolling Meadows, John J. Woods, asked that every consideration be given to making the right-of-way as narrow as possible between Algonquin rd. and Rohlwing rd.

Told that the highway department would make every effort necessary to make the road narrow as possible, Woods told Nusbaum and other members of the engineering staff that; "We are much better advised today than we've been since 1958.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor John J. Woods presents position of his city before officials of the Division of Illinois Highway department officials Thursday in Palatine. Rolling Meadows was satisfied with proposed plans, as was Arlington Heights, whose Mayor John G. Woods sits at left, taking notes. Public hearing ended on sweet note, with compromise hinted as prelude to satisfying unhappy home owners in Palatine's Winston Park.

Trustees Economize In Village Budget

Economy - minded village trustees have cut $216,000 from Arlington Heights' 1961-62 budget in recent weeks.

The budget, as submitted to trustees in May by Village Manager L. A. Hanson, called for the appropriation of $2,261,000 which represented a tentative village tax rate of .496.

After several meetings to discuss the budget, trustees have been successful in lowering the estimate of need to $2,045,013. This figure, still subject to considerable change, reflects a tax rate nearer .450.

TRUSTEES ARE continuing to meet in an effort to arrive at a budget figure providing a "reasonably high level and well-balanced program of municipal services through a financially sound approach."

Twelve of the village's 18 major budget accounts have been given preliminary approval.

They include village board, village manager, police magistrate, finance, village clerk, boards and commissions, police, fire, building and zoning, public works, engineering and planning and public health.

Still undergoing scrutiny are accounts for municipal building, legal, water and sewer, parking utility, parking system and special accounts.

SLICED FROM the finance department budget was $2,000 for printing equipment. A $1,500 pumper-tanker truck was substituted for a $6,000 training tower under the fire department account. Appropriation—for salt was dropped from $8,000 to $5,000 in the public works account.

A request for $1,000 to institute a driver safety school is being studied. So are personnel additions in two or three departments.

Trustees' careful consideration of Hanson's request to hire a license and measures inspector has resulted in the approval of $5,400 for the finance department.

Target date for passage of the budget was first April 19 and then June 1. It now appears adoption will come about sometime in late June or early July. A formal public hearing must be first held.

Policeman Is Treated For Injury

Policeman Walter Schrieber was given a tetanus inoculation last Saturday after he was bitten on the left wrist and right hand while attempting to arrest an Arlington Heights man.

Schrieber and two other officers were called to answer a wife's complaint that her husband was beating her.

THE HUSBAND expressed an unwillingness to be booked, and it was with some difficulty that the officers transported him to the police station, police said. Schrieber was bitten in removing the man from his home.

The man was charged with assault and battery and resisting arrest and released after posting $700 bond. He will appear in court June 7.

Trailer Stolen

Tom Lane, manager of the Shell service station at Rand rd. and Euclid ave., told police a rental trailer was stolen from the station sometime Monday night.

Unruly Pigs Stain Motorist's Record

If it weren't for the 200 pigs owned by Oscar Franson, 67, RR 1, Box 119, Lake Zurich, his driving record would be uncontaminated.

That's what Franson told Elk Grove Police Magistrate Richard Ahlgren in court last week.

When he received a telephone call at his son's home informing him that his pigs had escaped from their pens, Franson sped home. He was given a traffic violation ticket by Elk Grove police officer Roger Clark for driving 43 m.p.h. in a 30 m.p.h. zone on Tonne and Landmeier rds.

"I'VE BEEN driving since 1916 and this is my very first ticket," said Franson.

"So I gave it to my wife for Mother's Day. When you get old like me it's hard to know what to give your wife, so she got my first ticket," and he added as he paid his $10 and $5 court cost fine.

Builder Sponsors Tour

'Prestige' Townhouse Development Proposed

Albert E. Riley, young president of the Hasbrook corporation, took a big step forward Saturday in his quest for a new public image.

The 30-year-old builder sponsored a bus trip to Glenview to show village and school officials a townhouse development he'd like to emulate in Arlington Heights.

According to most of the 16 persons who took the trip, it was a success. That is, they were favorably impressed with the builder's concern that his development plan get full and early airing.

ALSO IMPRESSIVE was the elaborate Carriage Hill townhouse project in Glenview. Its units rent for from $230 to $300 per month.

"The development we proprose would have rentals ranging from $160 to $200 "a month," Riley explained.

He said his corporation has acquired a nine-acre tract of land bounded roughly by Kensington rd., Windsor dr., Miner junior high school and the rear of apartments on Dryden pl.

He'd like to build 125 rental townhouse units in 30 buildings on the tract. The $2 million project would be built in a "park-like setting" similar to the Glenview development, Riley noted.

IN ORDER for the project to proceed, the land must be rezoned from single family to multiple family use. Riley asked local officials and home owners to make the trip to "sell" them on his plan, thereby eliminating possible apprehension when the rezoning is requested.

"The Hasbrook corporation is making this proposal in the belief that it will be a contribution to Arlington Heights," Riley said. He observed that there is a need for a high caliber townhouse development here.

"The appeal of the townhouses will be primarily to two desirable groups: older couples . . . and young career couples," he pointed out.

"The development will serve as a buffer between the business area (Arlington Market) and residential property to the east, and will be accessible from two streets off Kensington rd."

Riley estimated the townhouse occupants would bring over $1 million in buying power into the area annually.

IT WAS generally agreed by those on Saturday's tour that the builder should prepare and make available more detailed plans for the project. Riley promised to put his architects to work.

The personable Harvard graduate, developer of the 532-home Hasbrook subdivision in north Arlington Heights, lost considerable community prestige recently when he suspended contributions to former school district 24.

His yearning for renewed public confidence was aided appreciably by the "Operation Townhouse" trip, those attending concluded.

Take Dad to Ball Game on July 15

Take dad to the ball game—that's the challenge facing mother and the kids as 24 Arlington Heights merchants combine efforts in sending 24 dads as guests to the ball game.

It's another in the line of promotions of the retail mermittee of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce that focus attention on the shopping facilities of the local community.

ALL KIDS need do is drop off a picture of their dad at any of the stores of cooperating merchants listed in a half page ad in this week's paper. Each merchant will select one of the pictures Saturday, June 17, to receive two tickets to the July 15 White Sox game against the Yankees at Comiskey Park.

Chamber of Commerce bus will take dads and guests, just about 50-strong, to the ball game Saturday afternoon, July 15, to watch the New York Yankees test the Chicago White Sox.

THERE'S NOTHING to purchase, nothing to sign. Mothers or the children can just drop off a picture of dad at each of the stores, for just that many more chances to get to the game—on the house.

Pretty green and white posters, starting this weekend, will indicate which stores are cooperating in this promotion. Shoppers are urged to look (and shop) for them.

Salvation Army's Doughnut Day Set

Doughnuts—the paper tag variety—will mark the lapels of residents in Arlington Heights Friday, June 2, as the community observes Doughnut day for the benefit of the Salvation Army.

In Chicago and nearly 150 other suburban communities, Doughnut Day is scheduled for Friday, June 9.

The annual tag day is being held a week earlier in Arlington Heights because of other fund drives which will be held here during the week of June 4-10.

Volunteer taggers will man their appointed posts and exchange the little doughnut-shaped tags for contributions from the public in support of the many services offered by the Salvation Army. The goal of this year's drive is $166,000.

THE FUNDS given to the Salvation Army are used to support partially the program of widespread social services and emergency aid to the distressed. Last year the Salvation Army helped more than 170,000 persons in the greater Chicago area without reference to race or religion.

The help takes many forms: emergency food and shelter to persons temporarily in need; a home and hospital for unmarried mothers and their babies, relief and rehabilitation for physically and emotionally handicapped men, family welfare service, and others.

In Arlington Heights, as in all communities where Salvation Army service unit committees are organized, 20 per cent of the funds raised in the local Doughnut Day drives will remain with the service unit treasurers.

These funds will be available for emergencies or disasters in Arlington Heights and to finance unduplicated programs of health care or other service.

Girl Scouts Bake Sale Is Saturday

Arlington Heights residents interested in Girl Scouting are pooling their culinary talents to help meet the operational deficit in the Girl Scout council budget for 1961.

"Last fall's fund drive fell short of its goal," explained Mrs. Harriet Stark, 538 S. Dryden, south side neighborhood chairman.

"So that the girls can continue to have the quality program they deserve, additional funds must be raised."

SHE INVITED all residents to take part in a Girl Scout bake sale being held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, June 3, in the Pioneer park fieldhouse. The sale is being sponsored by a group of south side parents to raise needed operating funds.

Mothers are contributing a great variety of baked goods, coffee, baked beans, and potato salad for the five-hour sale, Mrs. Stark noted.

Charity Ball Is Reslated for Fall

N. F. (Bud) Sherman, chairman of the 1961 Grand Charity Ball committee, this week announced the ball has been postponed to September 16.

In announcing the postponement, Sherman said: "The committee decided Monday to reschedule the ball because the original date interfered with the success of the other charity activities planned to be held in June."

THE SECOND annual ball was originally scheduled for Saturday, June 10, at the Arlington Jockey Club.

Proceeds from the affair are donated to Northwest Family Service agency, a professional counseling organization serving Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mt. Prospect and Palatine.

SHERMAN pointed out conflicting activities include numerous high school and college graduation exercises, the Infant Welfare association drive, and several other events.

"We can safely predict the change in dates will make the ball a complete sellout," Sherman noted.

Last year more than 1,000 residents enjoyed the unique ball. (AF

3-Firm Syndicate Buys School Bonds

A three-company syndicate has purchased $1,250,000 in school construction bonds approved by voters in March, it was reported this week by Ralph E. Clabaugh, superintendent of school district 25.

The bonds were sold May 22 to the combine of Northern Trust Co., Dean Witter Co. and Stern Brothers Co. at an interest rate of 3.4026.

THE RATE OF interest is the lowest negotiated since June 1, 1956, when the district disposed of bonds for a 3.0364 rate, Clabaugh noted. Highest paid was the 3.9226 in November, 1957.

The district 25 school board will invest bond sale revenue in short term U. S. treasury bills, it was pointed out.

The funds will be used for construction of elementary schools at Patton and Maude sts. and State rd. and Olive st., a 17-room addition to Miner junior high school, and an addition to administrative facilities at South junior high school.

Thousands View Veterans Parade

Arlington Heights citizens—young and old—turned out en masse Tuesday to view a most impressive Memorial Day parade.

Estimates as to the size of the crowds ranged from 5,000 to 8,000. Spectators were lined five-deep along the parade route, chiefly on Dunton st. and Euclid ave.

The hour-long parade featured 32 units of servicemen, Boy and Girl Scouts, village officials, businessmen, floats, bands and war veterans. Also marching were Blue Birds, school children, Cub and Brownie Scouts and drum and bugle corps.

SALUTES to the dead were presented at Memorial park, Memory Gardens cemetery, Arlington Heights cemetery and the Merle Guild grave.

Serving as grand marshal of the parade was 79-year-old Dan W. Helt, an ex-marine and veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Arlington Heights Veterans of Foreign Wars post 981 presented its Citizens Citation to Thelma Carroll, Arlington Heights public nurse. The Memorial Day program was sponsored by the post.

IN ADDITION to many high-ranking former servicemen, distinguished guests leading the parade included John G. Woods, village president; Harvey Carothers, fire chief; Father Adelbert Mayr, OES, Viatorate Novitiate; Pastor Robert O. Bartz, of St. Peter Lutheran church; and L. W. Calderwood, chief of police.

Honored during the day were Walter Kennicott, Aaron Miner and Eli Skinner, all northwest suburban veterans of the Revolutionary war. (AF

Q. Should a woman call on a new neighbor in the same apartment building?

A. An offer of friendship is never out of place. In fact, the fine old custom of calling on new neighbors is done too infrequently these days, and I'm heartily in back of anyone who tries to revive it.

Lesson in English—Standing

Do not say, "I dislike those kind of books." "Kind" is singular. Say, "I dislike THAT kind of books."

Distinguish between ALL WAYS (every manner possible) and ALWAYS (at all times). Thus: "He was ALWAYS kind and generous," and, "He was in ALL WAYS kind and generous."

Drown Proofing Is Offered Swimmers

You can be drown-proofed, reports Bill Appleby, recreation supervisor of the Arlington Heights park district.

"Through a newly devised method of teaching water survival, persons can learn to stay in deep water for long extended periods of time," Appleby explained.

Drown proofing is the system which enables persons to suspend themselves in water with very little effort. Many good swimmers have lost their lives because they were unable to conserve their energy in an emergency until help arrived.

THE PARK district is offering classes in drown proofing June 19 to 23. Classes are to be conducted at Recreation and Pioneer park pools from 7 to 8 p.m. Swimmers are eligible to enroll.

Drown proofing is especially recommended for those who do a lot of boating and fishing, Appleby pointed out. Interested residents may register by visiting the parks or by phoning CL 3-1620 or CL 5-8850. (AF

Migrant Labor Issues Are Linked to Nation, World

FOR WHICH IT STANDS:
ONE NATION UNDER GOD,
JUST

Paul Simon Cites Needs

"When I was in India, I saw a cartoon which showed a huge mount of food with a U.S. Congressman sitting on the top and a Hindu mother and child starving off to the side. Its title was 'Sermon on the Mount.'"

Boyish Paul Simon, 32-year-old state representative from Troy, had a sermon of his own about the migratory worker in Illinois which he delivered Saturday night before 200 northwest suburban residents.

Simon was main speaker at the third annual community dinner sponsored by the Bensenville Council of the League of United Latin-American Citizens (LULAC) and The Opportunity Council, Inc., at the American Legion hall in Des Plaines.

Throughout, the downstate legislator insisted that the problems of the migratory worker were interwoven with those of the country and world.

"You have to take an interest at the federal level in the total agricultural problem. You cannot divorce the problem of the migratory worker from the problem of a sick industry — and agriculture, in spite of production, is a sick industry."

SIMON said the ramifications of the problem could even be linked to such head-scratching problems as tariff revision. "You hear a lot about importation of cheap products from Japan but seldom do you hear that Japan buys more from the United States than we purchase from Japan. Those who would enforce a higher tariff would force Japan to trade more with Communist China, with the resultant political impact. They would purchase less from us. Their leading purchases from the United States are agricultural products."

The representative, who is publisher of seven downstate newspapers, also questioned on moral grounds what has become the standard oratory staple of both political parties during campaigns.

HE CALLED for a re-evaluation of agriculture in terms of present parity programs. "Both political parties have pretty much accepted the idea of the federal farm problem solution by restricting production. This limits the demand for the agricultural worker.

"Its implications are broader than that. It is a real question of whether we should restrict food production in a world that is starving. When you enjoy your meal here tonight there is two-thirds of the world going to bed hungry."

Simon said present solutions were based on false economic premises, and that there was also political error in pursuing this course. "I had a chance to visit farms in the Soviet Union. If they had the production, they would be using it to the fullest for political impact on the world. We should do the same."

Simon said the U.S. should be encouraging sound economic programs south of the border to anticipate "other Cubas," and called Cuba itself "a tragedy."

AT THE federal level, he told his audience it should work for federal minimum wage laws for agriculture, and federal legislation which would encourage farmers to build decent migrant labor camps. At the state level, he noted that passage of House Bills 669 and 920 would regulate migrant labor camps so that anyone employing six or more persons who were housed on the farmer's property would be licensed as operating a migrant labor camp in order that adequate housing facilities would be provided.

"The American Farm Bureau which I have frequently criticized is responsible for this legislation, and I give them credit."

He also suggested a state minimum wage law "for any industry not covered by federal law," noting that the national average for agricultural workers is 68 cents an hour.

Extension of unemployment compensation and disability insurance for agriculture, the use of the state's labor force instead of drawing it from other countries, and enforcement of fair employment practices were also touched on by the Troy legislator as areas of needed action.

HE TOLD his listeners that they could alleviate some of the burdens of the migratory worker at a local level by:

—providing summer schools for children of migrants with state and federal aid to raise their low educational levels;

—seeing that the migrants are protected by enforcement of local health standards through local medical societies;

—acting as watchdog on enforcement of zoning and building regulations;

—encouraging membership by migrants in such organizations as LULAC, The Opportunity Council, and unions;

—personal contact. "You of Mexican background, invite people here to your homes. Give them some real Mexican food, but do not make it too hot. You others, when have you had people of Latin-American background for a meal in your home?

"I do not fear really the hate monger — the man actively hostile," he pointed out. "I do fear the indifference and lethargy of most people who sit back and do nothing."

SIMON was introduced by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications and vice-president of the Opportunity Council, who noted that "His integrity, his sincerity of conviction, and his independence of action have earned him the respect and admiration of Republican and Democrat alike in the legislature. Three times he has been winner of the 'Illinois Best Legislator' award."

Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications and president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, viewed both sponsoring organizations as "concerned with a common purpose which underscores much of your interest and activity. That purpose, which you share in common with all suburbanites, is the advancement and preservation of family and community life."

Paddock said this preservation depended on the development of better understanding between the existing community and its newcomers, planning for expanded health, recreational and general welfare facilities, a "bootstrap lifting" operation to assimilate newcomers, and communication of the problems and need for action to the rest of the community.

PRESIDENT of the Opportunity Council, Mrs. Delores Bricker, said the organization was established "in an effort to concern the community with the 'invisible wall' which barred Mexican-Americans from enoying equal opportunities for a decent way of life."

She added: "We have worked diligently to make it possible for our Mexican-American population to realize the promise of their American citizenship. Much is yet to be done."

Simon was accompanied by his wife, the former State Representative Jeanne Hurley of Wilmette. (A14

Q. Is it ever proper to use the knife for cutting the salad when dining?

A. If you can manage it easily, use just your fork. However, there are times when lettuce proves too tough for the fork and, in that case, it is quite all right to call upon your knife.

Migrant Labor Issues Are Linked to Nation, World

FOR WHICH IT STANDS:
JUST

Paul Simon Cites Needs

"When I was in India, I saw a cartoon which showed a huge mount of food with a U.S. Congressman sitting on the top and a Hindu mother and child starving off to the side. Its title was 'Sermon on the Mount.'"

Boyish Paul Simon, 32-year-old state representative from Troy, had a sermon of his own about the migratory worker in Illinois which he delivered Saturday night before 200 northwest suburban residents.

Simon was main speaker at the third annual community dinner sponsored by the Bensenville Council of the League of United Latin-American Citizens (LULAC) and The Opportunity Council, Inc., at the American Legion hall in Des Plaines.

Throughout, the downstate legislator insisted that the problems of the migratory worker were interwoven with those of the country and world.

"You have to take an interest at the federal level in the total agricultural problem. You cannot divorce the problem of the migratory worker from the problem of a sick industry — and agriculture, in spite of production, is a sick industry."

SIMON said the ramifications of the problem could even be linked to such head-scratching problems as tariff revision. "You hear a lot about importation of cheap products from Japan but seldom do you hear that Japan buys more from the United States than we purchase from Japan. Those who would enforce a higher tariff would force Japan to trade more with Communist China, with the resultant political impact. They would purchase less from us. Their leading purchases from the United States are agricultural products."

The representative, who is publisher of seven downstate newspapers, also questioned on moral grounds what has become the standard oratory staple of both political parties during campaigns.

HE CALLED for a re-evaluation of agriculture in terms of present parity programs. "Both political parties have pretty much accepted the idea of the federal farm problem solution by restricting production. This limits the demand for the agricultural worker.

"Its implications are broader than that. It is a real question of whether we should restrict food production in a world that is starving. When you enjoy your meal here tonight there is two-thirds of the world going to bed hungry."

Simon said present solutions were based on false economic premises, and that there was also political error in pursuing this course. "I had a chance to visit farms in the Soviet Union. If they had the production, they would be using it to the fullest for political impact on the world. We should do the same."

Simon said the U.S. should be encouraging sound economic programs south of the border to anticipate "other Cubas," and called Cuba itself "a tragedy."

AT THE federal level, he told his audience it should work for federal minimum wage laws for agriculture, and federal legislation which would encourage farmers to build decent migrant labor camps. At the state level, he noted that passage of House Bills 669 and 920 would regulate migrant labor camps so that anyone employing six or more persons who were housed on the farmer's property would be licensed as operating a migrant labor camp in order that adequate housing facilities would be provided. "The American Farm Bureau which I have frequently criticized is responsible for this legislation, and I give them credit."

He also suggested a state minimum wage law "for any industry not covered by federal law," noting that the national average for agricultural workers is 68 cents an hour.

Extension of unemployment compensation and disability insurance for agriculture, the use of the state's labor force instead of drawing it from other countries, and enforcement of fair employment practices were also touched on by the Troy legislator as areas of needed action.

HE TOLD his listeners that they could alleviate some of the burdens of the migratory worker at a local level by:

—providing summer schools for children of migrants with state and federal aid to raise their low educational levels;

—seeing that the migrants are protected by enforcement of local health standards through local medical societies;

—acting as watchdog on enforcement of zoning and building regulations;

—encouraging membership by migrants in such organizations as LULAC, The Opportunity Council, and unions;

—personal contact. "You of Mexican background, invite people here to your homes. Give them some real Mexican food, but do not make it too hot. You others, when have you had people of Latin-American background for a meal in your home?

"I do not fear really the hate monger — the man actively hostile," he pointed out. "I do fear the indifference and lethargy of most people who sit back and do nothing."

SIMON was introduced by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications and vice-president of the Opportunity Council, who noted that "His integrity, his sincerity of conviction, and his independence of action have earned him the respect and admiration of Republican and Democrat alike in the legislature. Three times he has been winner of the 'Illinois Best Legislator' award."

Robert Y. Paddock, vice-president of Paddock Publications and president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, viewed both sponsoring organizations as "concerned with a common purpose which underscores much of your interest and activity. That purpose, which you share in common with all suburbanites, is the advancement and preservation of family and community life."

Paddock said this preservation depended on the development of better understanding between the existing community and its newcomers, planning for expanded health, recreational and general welfare facilities, a "bootstrap lifting" operation to assimilate newcomers, and communication of the problems and need for action to the rest of the community.

PRESIDENT of the Opportunity Council, Mrs. Delores Bricker, said the organization was established "in an effort to concern the community with the 'invisible wall' which barred Mexican-Americans from enoying equal opportunities for a decent way of life."

She added: "We have worked diligently to make it possible for our Mexican-American population to realize the promise of their American citizenship. Much is yet to be done."

Simon was accompanied by his wife, the former State Representative Jeanne Hurley of Wilmette. (A14

Appalling Emasculation

Suburbanite Supports Unified Zone Control

By JACK SIPE

After a half dozen years in the suburbs, I have reached a conclusion.

Our biggest worry is the appaling emasculation of our beautiful countryside. We seem to be going in several directions—all at a very rapid clip—without a general goal in mind.

Our regulatory agencies seem so ineffective; no unity of purpose, no overall program, no firm controls.

Why?

I GUESS the answer is simple, but why should we be so apathetic that we're willing to settle for simpleness?

I'm thinking of the group that meets to plan highways. They take their darned-good time, draw a few symmetric lines on a blue print and submit their findings to superiors who seem to be guided by political clout. If all the important people are satisfied, in goes the road. If not, it's held up.

I'm also thinking of housing developments that spring up in the middle of a cornfield—developments where the builder has obtained a chunk of land because "it's the cheapest in a sure-fire section."

These developments soon become communities and are represented by spokesmen who want some incorporated area to give them what their developer didn't.

And, oddly enough, the developer doesn't deed the community land for schools because the law doesn't require him to. But this planner can protest loud at a zoning hearing when industry is proposed near one of his chunks of land.

INDIVIDUALISTIC? Yes, and to heck with the people who have put up with this industry for years and years.

I'm also thinking of the builders who are permitted to erect low-cost housing below standards set by adjoining communities.

And then there's the rush to annex land that might produce taxes for a suburb. Naturally, that's good sense but what about the northwest suburb that stretched itself out to include a planned recreation and shopping center that went phoof before it got off the drawing board?

We know all these things. Let's not kid ourselves. But why don't we act?

I'M ALMOST positive that a politician with dreams of becoming a state senator from our district could assure himself a landslide victory if he campaigned for unified zoning control.

This, if ever passed, would be a monumental undertaking, one requiring many months to put into practice. But what's a few months if it will spare us a hetrogeneous mass with uncontrollable problems from which there would be no turning back?

We simply couldn't tear down what had already been put up.

Now, and only now, is the time to pull the zoning boards, agencies and judges responsible for zoning and state and city planning groups into one central group.

I'M SURE THE members of the zoning boards feel this is needed. They must be frustrated by limitations. They are all good people with good intentions. But they haven't the power to do what they know is right.

Anyone for senator?

P. S.—Now that all the highways leading to Arlington Park have been widened and resurfaced, can the patient people of Elk Grove and Arlington Heights please look forward to some progress on the long-promised improvement of State rd., south of Arlington?

Ministry Is Topic For Sunday Sermon

"Are Ministers Necessary?" is Rev. Don Thompson's topic for this Sunday's service at Countryside Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

The Unitarian and Universalist churches both have traditionally had a Sunday each year at which they discuss the meaning of the ministry. This is the first time the merged Unitarian Universalist church has done this. The new denomination has been re-thinking the whole problem both on local and national levels.

"It has become a more important question in recent years because of the growing number of fellowships that exist without ministers," said Rev. Thompson. There has been recent discussion of the problem in the Liberal Ministers' Association of Chicago, of which Rev. Thompson is secretary. The Continental committee of the Unitarian Universalist Association has also been studying the question with special intensity this year.

"Perhaps one conclusion will be that the minister is still important, but in a different way, and that the laity also has different responsibilities than in the earlier history of our denominations," speculated Pat King, of Countryside Fellowship. The Fellowship meets at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at Countryside Meeting House, on Ela road in Palatine township. (B8

Doughnut Day Merits Help

The other day I heard a man say, "You don't see much of The Salvation Army any more."

I wanted to tell him . . . "Go down the dark side streets and alleys. Walk along Skid Row, visit the jails and hospitals and orphanages. Go into the slums and blighted areas. You'll see The Salvation Army wherever trouble lives."

Trouble has been the business of The Salvation Army for over three-quarters of a century here, and the dedicated men and women officers of this fine organization are still on the job seven days a week.

If we don't see them very often, it's because we haven't any real problems. But in the Chicago area last year, more than 170,000 people learned from personal experience that The Salvation Army is always just down the block, ready to offer kindly help. Any one of these people will tell you all about it and praise The Salvation Army as long as you'll listen.

The real question isn't how often we see The Salvation Army, but how often does The Salvation Army see us. How often do we seek out an officer to hand him our contribution?

Friday, June 9 is Doubhnut Day. Simply by buying and wearing one of these little paper doughnuts, you can say, "Here's my little bit. Keep up the good work."

Be generous. Beating that big bass drum so that everyone in trouble can hear it isn't a one man job.

'Itch' May Be Last Scratch for Players

by Charlotte Shaughnessy

After 14 years of producing more than 30 three-act plays, Palatine Players "Seven Year Itch" may be their last curtain call. If this is their "swan song," I wish they could have chosen a better play to enhance their talents for a finale.

"The Seven Year Itch" by George Axelrod was presented by the Players Friday and Saturday nights, May 26-27 at Cutting hall, Palatine, and will be re-enacted this coming weekend, June 2-3.

A BROADWAY hit of several years ago, this sophisticated comedy does not adapt well for non-professional groups. It is too long and too talky, and must be carried in its entirety by its two lead characters. "Practacically" is a word coined by its heroine, and its "practically" impossible to enchant an audience from 8:30 to 11:30!

Directer Jim Hughes should have cut the play or livened its tempo.

The dream sequences and flights into the past and future, with all their accompanying light effects, are ambitious undertakings and to be believable have to be accomplished quickly. A long-time darkened theatre does not create magic.

DON HEYDEN, as Richard Sherman, whose wife leaves for a summer vacation, was on the stage for the complete play, and did a creditable job in this difficult role.

Pat Brandt as "The Girl" was adorable and made Mr. Sherman's "Itch" understandable.

Costuming of Miss Brandt and all the girls in the dream sequences was glamorous. One of the most effective scenes of the play showed all the girls in Richard Sherman's life discussing him over their teacups. The dialogue and action was quick, practically staccato.

Jane Hansen was an attractive Helen Sherman; her speeches clear and more audible to the audience than most of the cast. Ray Hula as Dr. Brubaker certainly looked his part, but his German accent made it hard to understand him. The clearest lines of the play were spoken by the unseen members of the cast — Don Buick as the voice of Richard's conscience and Virginia Hula as the voice of The Girl's conscience.

THE SETTING of "Seven Year Itch" was well executed, with fine detailing of the patio and the stairs leading to The Girl's apartment.

Stepping up the tempo and faster lighting in the dream sequences will add much to "Seven Year Itch."

It is hoped that the final curtain has not rung down for Palatine Players. Through the years, they have added much to the cultural and civic betterment of our community.

Red Cross Warning

Learning to Swim Prevents Drowning

Summer is almost here, and to thousands of Chicagoland families this means hours of enjoyment at our many pools and beaches. But a happy beach outing can end in a drowning tragedy, warns the Chicago Red Cross.

Drowning prevention is better than drowning cure—but it's best to know both, says the Red Cross.

Prevention starts with learning to swim, and by following basic water safety rules.

The 17th annual Learn-to-Swim program [illegible]ted and instructed by the Red Cross Water Safety department—gets under way in a few weeks, and people may get full details by calling their nearest pool, or Red Cross, WA 2-7850.

PREVENTION:

Once you have mastered swimming skills, follow these basic swimming rules:

1. Swim in a safe place where there is a lifeguard. Most Chicagoland beaches and all swimming pools are properly suppervised by Red Cross trained lifeguards.

2. Always swim with another person. Make sure someone is near to help you if you get into trouble.

3. Know the swimming area. Before diving, make sure the water is deep enough and that it is free of submerged rocks and other obstructions.

4. Use discretion. Don't swim right after eating, when overtired, or overheated.

5. Respect the water and know your limitations. Don't go beyond safe limits or your ability.

6. Try to stay calm in case of trouble. Assume a face-up, floating position, keep your hands under the water, and slowly move your hands and feet.

CURE:

Cure lies in knowing how to give emergency aid until a physician arrives. In the event you are confronted with a drowning victim, you should know at least one method of artificial respiration. Red Cross has found mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to be the most effective in reviving a person of any age who has stopped breathing.

Following are the steps to be taken:

1. If there is foreign matter in the mouth, wipe it out quickly with your fingers. Then tilt the head back so the chin is pointed upward. Pull or push the jaw into a jutting-out position. These maneuvers should clear the airway by moving the base of the tongue away from the back of the throat.

2. Open your mouth wide and place it tightly over the victim's mouth. At the same time pinch the victim's nostrils shut or close the nostrils with your cheek. Blow into the victim's mouth, (air may be blown through victim's teeth, even if clenched.)

3. Remove your mouth, turn your head to the side, and listen for the return of air that indicates air exchange. Repeat the blowing effort. For an adult, blow vigorously at the rate of 12 breaths per minute. For a child, take shallow breaths appropriate for the child's size, at the rate of about 20 per minute.

4. If you are not getting air exchange, recheck the head and jaw position. If there is still no air exchange, quickly turn the victim on his side and strike him sharply between the shoulder blades in hope of dislodging foreign matter. Sweep your fingers through the victim's mouth to remove the foreign matter.

Those who do not wish to come in contact with the person may hold a cloth over the victim's mouth and breathe trhough it. The cloth does not greatly affect the change of air.

Rep. Church Wins Service Award

Representative Marguerite Stitt Church of the 13th District of Illinois last week rceived the Distinguished Service Award of Americans for Constitutional Action, popularly known as ACA. The award was presented by Admiral Ben Moreell, USN (retired), chairman of the board of trustees.

ACA is a non-partisan, non-profit, political-action and educational group which was organized in late 1958.

The Distinguished Service Award of ACA was established to honor Senators and Representatives whose voting records during the past several years have been substantially in support of legislation which, in the opinion of ACA, would serve to sustain, strengthen and defend the spirit and principles of the Constitution of the United States.

IN CONFERRING the Distinguished Service Award, Admiral Moreell said: "Congresswoman Church, on behalf of the board of trustees, it gives me great pleasure to bestow upon you the Distinguished Service Award of Americans for Constitutional Action.

"Your voting record on vital issues which have a bearing upon the integrity of the Constitution of the United States has earned for you this recognition as a distinguished American statesman and public servant."

Admiral Moreell stated that the conferring of the award was in recognition of the recipient's actual voting record over a specified period of years and did not imply that the recipient is in complete agreement with all of the principles enunciated by ACA, nor does it imply any commitment to support those principles in the future.

'Itch' May Be Last Scratch for Players

by Charlotte Shaughnessy

After 14 years of producing more than 30 three-act plays, Palatine Players "Seven Year Itch" may be their last curtain call. If this is their "swan song," I wish they could have chosen a better play to enhance their talents for a finale.

"The Seven Year Itch" by George Axelrod was presented by the Players Friday and Saturday nights, May 26-27 at Cutting hall, Palatine, and will be re-enacted this coming weekend, June 2-3.

A BROADWAY hit of several years ago, this sophisticated comedy does not adapt well for non-professional groups. It is too long and too talky, and must be carried in its entirety by its two lead characters. "Practacically" is a word coined by its heroine, and its "practically" impossible to enchant an audience from 8:30 to 11:30!

Directer Jim Hughes should have cut the play or livened its tempo.

The dream sequences and flights into the past and future, with all their accompanying light effects, are ambitious undertakings and to be believable have to be accomplished quickly. A long-time darkened theatre does not create magic.

DON HEYDEN, as Richard Sherman, whose wife leaves for a summer vacation, was on the stage for the complete play, and did a creditable job in this difficult role.

Pat Brandt as "The Girl" was adorable and made Mr. Sherman's "Itch" understandable.

Costuming of Miss Brandt and all the girls in the dream sequences was glamorous. One of the most effective scenes of the play showed all the girls in Richard Sherman's life discussing him over their teacups. The dialogue and action was quick, practically staccato.

Jane Hansen was an attractive Helen Sherman; her speeches clear and more audible to the audience than most of the cast. Ray Hula as Dr. Brubaker certainly looked his part, but his German accent made it hard to understand him. The clearest lines of the play were spoken by the unseen members of the cast — Don Buick as the voice of Richard's conscience and Virginia Hula as the voice of The Girl's conscience.

THE SETTING of "Seven Year Itch" was well executed, with fine detailing of the patio and the stairs leading to The Girl's apartment.

County Board Prexy Colorful Leader

Meet Democrat John J. Duffy

by DICK HOFFMANN

As a boy, John J. Duffy used to endure references on neighborhood ball diamonds about the thrust of his chin, which juts out like the knot on a shillelagh.

Duffy, the new president of the Cook county board of commissioners, says fellow ball players enjoyed drawing the parallel between the prow of his chin and one belonging to John Evers of the Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance combination of the Chicago Cubs of that day.

Duffy never graduated from sandlot baseball; but his adeptness in the political infield has gained the respect of teammates and opponents. White-haired, erect (6 ft.) and glib-tongued, Duffy looks as if he were drawn life-size from "The Last Hurrah."

STILL sensitive about the prominent landmark on his mobile Irish face, Duffy won't permit photographers a profile view. But its architecture gives emphasis to a pugnacious and persistent personality.

His capacity for work and his skill in political battle are two attributes repeated often among acquaintances.

"I don't know of any man who loves his job night and day like he does," says his secretary of six years, Mary Dunn.

Duffy concedes, "I can't have work pile up on me; it makes me nervous." As a balm, the commissioner will take work home with him. His new duties as president of the county board impose further on his time. Characteristically he comments: "The banquets and dinners are fine as long as it doesn't interfere with getting the work done."

A COLLEAGUE agrees. Pointing out how Duffy differs from his predecessor, the late Daniel Ryan, he notes: "Ryan was very sociable and genial, a man about town. His second headquarters were the Pump Room. I doubt if Duffy would be caught dead there."

Ryan, the confident added, would avoid strife while Duffy thrives on it. "Ryan would often push controversial matters into committee. Duffy? He'll fight about anything, anytime, anywhere."

In fact, the fights were more than vocal on occasion. Duffy at one time was a traditional Irish imbiber, said another acquaintance. After a bout with the gargle, others were usually forthcoming. "He would fight anyone in sight," remarked the informant.

"He's a teetotaler now, and work seems to be a substitute," he speculated.

BUT WHERE Ryan and his successor differed in some respects, in other ways there was a notable likeness. Ryan's twinkling wit became legend, and he had a peer in Duffy.

County Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin (R., Northbrook) still gloats over the time "I hung one on both of them." Chaplin related that since Charles G. Sauers, Forest Preserve District superintendent, would never accept a raise, Duffy, as chairman of the finance committee, proposed the transfer of funds for some new equipment to another item which in reality was Sauers' salary.

President Ryan turned to Chaplin and said with a grin: "We'll give you one minute for rebuttal."

Chaplin said he didn't wish to dispute the figure juggling. "In fact, I'd like to compliment Mr. Duffy for the way in which he is taking money out of new equipment and investing it in old equipment."

DUFFY approached Chaplin after the meeting and twanged: "Charley, I wish I'd thought of that first."

He usually does. "He's quicker than H —," Chaplin confessed. (Sauers, incidentally, still takes a ribbing from other forest preserve personnel about getting his oil changed.)

Duffy, 62, has always enjoyed access to the inner sanctums of the Democratic party. He served in the Chicago city council for 16 years, first being elected in 1935 from what was then a "rock-ribbed" bed of Republicanism in the city's southwest 19th Ward.

H headed the council's finance committee from 1947 to December 1950, when he moved onto the county board, assuming the chairmanship of the county's finance committee in 1954.

He was one of the authors of the county's new comprehensive zoning ordinance as chairman of the committee which drafted the measure, and he recently saw adoption of a new county subdivision control manual as chairman of the code and ordinance revision committee.

DUFFY heads a governmental unit whose employes number 14,000 and whose expenditures figure in the vicinity of a million a day. Its influence is felt throughout the city and suburbs.

This is an area in which Duffy has been criticized for placing party loyalty over public need. "He's an extremely able old-school politician, but he's a party politician," said an opponent. "In his eyes, no Democrat is wrong and no Republican is right. The commissioners elected in the city can impose their will in zoning matters on the suburbs, but the people in, say, Palatine can never get back at them by expressing disapproval at the polls."

Duffy, however, pleads innocent. "After election day, I forget about politics." He thinks more cooperation between city and suburbs is essential. "After all, it is one metropolitan area."

The county board president also observed: "I feel that these municipalities will eventually annex the balance of unincorporated area in the county. They should keep informed as to what the county board is doing so that they won't be buying a 'pig in a poke.' "

ON THE subject of a metropolitan government to serve the whole area eventually, Duffy said: "It depends on the attitude of the people in suburban areas; it's up to them to make that decision. I don't believe in attempting to force them to do anything not to their advantage."

Wheeling township Democratic committeeman James Stavros pays Duffy this tribute: "You've never heard of a scandal in county finances. I think Duffy was a great contributor as finance chairman to Dan Ryan's record."

A ranking Republican remarked: "Duffy's word is absolutely good once he gives it."

A widower, Duffy's family includes two sons and two daughters, two of whom are married. John, Jr., 31, manages the Duffy Floral shop his father opened in 1921. The county board president resides at 9033 Hoyne ave. in the city.

NEW COOK county board president, John J. Duffy, stresses that there is a need for more cooperation between county, city and suburban officials. Duffy is shown here being interviewed by Dick Hoffmann, associate editor of Paddock Publications.

OVER THE years, softball, basketball and bowling teams wearing the Duffy floral colors have been collecting trophies. "I managed the ball club for a while until I discovered they needed someone who wasn't so excitable," Duffy said.

He explained that he became involved in politics by interceding with politicians he knew for people in his neighborhood in need of help. "Thousands of people need help, counsel, advice, but they can't always afford lawyers or they don't know public officials," Duffy observed. The county board president still serves as Democratic committeeman in the 19th Ward.

Between 30 to 35 callers to Duff's office on the third and-one-half floor of the county building and twice as many telephone calls occupy his average day, although he is always accessible, often filling his appointment book at home.

MISS DUNN, his secretary, admits he has an Irish temper, which is quick to flare but subsides as fast as it makes an appearance.

In money matters, he can be as economy-minded as a budget-conscious housewife, it is reported. At a recent party gathering, he is said to have stressed that it was necessary to evlove some way of cutting taxes.

Duffy is also the man who is supposed to have vetoed the suggestion that Sheriff Frank Sain's highway police be equipped with tow trucks, allegedly snapping that the county had no reason to enter the towing business.

Duffy apparently will stand for reelection to his newly acquired office. He implied as much in a recent conversation when he asked Commissioner Chaplin if he was going to run for county board president. When Chaplin replied negatively, Duffy said, "Well, there's one (candidate) I don't have to worry about."

REPORTS are that Commissioner William N. Erickson (R., Evanston) will seek the Republican nod for the county presidency. Erickson, who served as president from 1946 to 1954, however, can expect opposition from within his party, go the reports.

Commissioner John Mackler, Jr. (R., Chicago Heights), one of five suburban Republicans who serves on the board with 10 ity Democrats, has indicated he does not covet another term. Being mentioned as possible candidates for this vacancy are Hayes Robertson, former Republican state senator from Flossmoor, and Robert Merriam, who switched parties to run as a Republican against Mayor Richard Daley.

It would appear that someone of this prestigious stripe would be needed to unseat John Duffy, who it seems is destined to continue for some time yet before hearing his last hurrah. (B8

County Board Prexy Colorful Leader

by DICK HOFFMANN

As a boy, John J. Duffy used to endure references on neighborhood ball diamonds about the thrust of his chin, which juts out like the knot on a shillelagh.

Duffy, the new president of the Cook county board of commissioners, says fellow ball players enjoyed drawing the parallel between the prow of his chin and one belonging to John Evers of the Tinkers-to-Evers-to-Chance combination of the Chicago Cubs of that day.

Duffy never graduated from sandlot baseball; but his adeptness in the political infield has gained the respect of teammates and opponents. White-haired, erect (6 ft.) and glib-tongued, Duffy looks as if he were drawn life-size from "The Last Hurrah."

STILL sensitive about the prominent landmark on his mobile Irish face, Duffy won't permit photographers a profile view. But its architecture gives emphasis to a pugnacious and persistent personality.

His capacity for work and his skill in political battle are two attributes repeated often among acquaintances.

"I don't know of any man who loves his job night and day like he does," says his secretary of six years, Mary Dunn.

Duffy concedes, "I can't have work pile up on me; it makes me nervous." As a balm, the commissioner will take work home with him. His new duties as president of the county board impose further on his time. Characteristically he comments: "The banquets and dinners are fine as long as it doesn't interfere with getting the work done."

A COLLEAGUE agrees. Pointing out how Duffy differs from his predecessor, the late Daniel Ryan, he notes: "Ryan was very sociable and genial, a man about town. His second headquarters were the Pump Room. I doubt if Duffy would be caught dead there."

Ryan, the confident added, would avoid strife while Duffy thrives on it. "Ryan would often push controversial matters into committee. Duffy? He'll fight about anything, anytime, anywhere."

In fact, the fights were more than vocal on occasion. Duffy at one time was a traditional Irish imbiber, said another acquaintance. After a bout with the gargle, others were usually forthcoming. "He would fight anyone in sight," remarked the informant.

"He's a teetotaler now, and work seems to be a substitute," he speculated.

BUT WHERE Ryan and his successor differed in some respects, in other ways there was a notable likeness. Ryan's twinkling wit became legend, and he had a peer in Duffy.

County Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin (R., Northbrook) still gloats over the time "I hung one on both of them." Chaplin related that since Charles G. Sauers, Forest Preserve District superintendent, would never accept a raise, Duffy, as chairman of the finance committee, proposed the transfer of funds for some new equipment to another item which in reality was Sauers' salary.

President Ryan turned to Chaplin and said with a grin: "We'll give you one minute for rebuttal."

Chaplin said he didn't wish to dispute the figure juggling. "In fact, I'd like to compliment Mr. Duffy for the way in which he is taking money out of new equipment and investing it in old equipment."

DUFFY approached Chaplin after the meeting and twanged: "Charley, I wish I'd thought of that first."

He usually does. "He's quicker than H —," Chaplin confessed. (Sauers, incidentally, still takes a ribbing from other forest preserve personnel about getting his oil changed.)

Duffy, 62, has always enjoyed access to the inner sanctums of the Democratic party. He served in the Chicago city council for 16 years, first being elected in 1935 from what was then a "rock-ribbed" bed of Republicanism in the city's southwest 19th Ward.

H headed the council's finance committee from 1947 to December 1950, when he moved onto the county board, assuming the chairmanship of the county's finance committee in 1954.

He was one of the authors of the county's new comprehensive zoning ordinance as chairman of the committee which drafted the measure, and he recently saw adoption of a new county subdivision control manual as chairman of the code and ordinance revision committee.

DUFFY heads a governmental unit whose employes number 14,000 and whose expenditures figure in the vicinity of a million a day. Its influence is felt throughout the city and suburbs.

This is an area in which Duffy has been criticized for placing party loyalty over public need. "He's an extremely able old-school politician, but he's a party politician," said an opponent. "In his eyes, no Democrat is wrong and no Republican is right. The commissioners elected in the city can impose their will in zoning matters on the suburbs, but the people in, say, Palatine can never get back at them by expressing disapproval at the polls."

Duffy, however, pleads innocent. "After election day, I forget about politics." He thinks more cooperation between city and suburbs is essential. "After all, it is one metropolitan area."

The county board president also observed: "I feel that these municipalities will eventually annex the balance of unincorporated area in the county. They should keep informed as to what the county board is doing so that they won't be buying a 'pig in a poke.'"

ON THE subject of a metropolitan government to serve the whole area eventually, Duffy said: "It depends on the attitude of the people in suburban areas; it's up to them to make that decision. I don't believe in attempting to force them to do anything not to their advantage."

Wheeling township Democratic committeeman James Stavros pays Duffy this tribute: "You've never heard of a scandal in county finances. I think Duffy was a great contributor as finance chairman to Dan Ryan's record."

A ranking Republican remarked: "Duffy's word is absolutely good once he gives it."

A widower, Duffy's family includes two sons and two daughters, two of whom are married. John, Jr., 31, manages the Duffy Floral shop his father opened in 1921. The county board president resides at 9033 Hoyne ave. in the city.

OVER THE years, softball, basketball and bowling teams wearing the Duffy floral colors have been collecting trophies. "I managed the ball club for a while until I discovered they needed someone who wasn't so excitable," Duffy said.

He explained that he became involved in politics by interceding with politicians he knew for people in his neighborhood in need of help. "Thousands of people need help, counsel, advice, but they can't always afford lawyers or they don't know public officials," Duffy observed. The county board president still serves as Democratic committeeman in the 19th Ward.

Between 30 to 35 callers to Duff's office on the third and-one-half floor of the county building and twice as many telephone calls occupy his average day, although he is always accessible, often filling his appointment book at home.

MISS DUNN, his secretary, admits he has an Irish temper, which is quick to flare but subsides as fast as it makes an appearance.

In money matters, he can be as economy-minded as a budget-conscious housewife, it is reported. At a recent party gathering, he is said to have stressed that it was necessary to evlove some way of cutting taxes.

Duffy is also the man who is supposed to have vetoed the suggestion that Sheriff Frank Sain's highway police be equipped with tow trucks, allegedly snapping that the county had no reason to enter the towing business.

Duffy apparently will stand for reelection to his newly acquired office. He implied as much in a recent conversation when he asked Commissioner Chaplin if he was going to run for county board president. When Chaplin replied negatively, Duffy said, "Well, there's one (candidate) I don't have to worry about."

REPORTS are that Commissioner William N. Erickson (R., Evanston) will seek the Republican nod for the county presidency. Erickson, who served as president from 1946 to 1954, however, can expect opposition from within his party, go the reports.

Commissioner John Mackler, Jr. (R., Chicago Heights), one of five suburban Republicans who serves on the board with 10 ity Democrats, has indicated he does not covet another term. Being mentioned as possible candidates for this vacancy are Hayes Robertson, former Republican state senator from Flossmoor, and Robert Merriam, who switched parties to run as a Republican against Mayor Richard Daley.

It would appear that someone of this prestigious stripe would be needed to unseat John Duffy, who it seems is destined to continue for some time yet before hearing his last hurrah. (B8

NEW COOK county board president, John J. Duffy, stresses that there is a need for more cooperation between county, city and suburban officials. Duffy is shown here being interviewed by Dick Hoffmann, associate editor of Paddock Publications.

Your garden will get an earlier, healthier start—you'll be picking more and better tomatoes one to three weeks ahead of your neighbors.

WHY? Jiffy-Pots are made of molded peat moss impregnated with a special fertilizer. This means sturdier plants to start with.

Since the roots grow right through the pot walls, you simply plant Jiffy-Pot and all. Plants suffer no damaging setback, start right off—bloom earlier, bear heavier.

That's the Law

Complex Law of Checks Is Mystery to Most Citizens

(This is the first in a series of special articles offered to readers of Paddock Publications as a public service of Illinois State Bar association.

These articles are written to inform and not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without consulting his attorney. Even a slight difference in the facts may change the result under the law.)

Mary Evans drew a $6 check, payable to "Cash," and used it to pay for some groceries. When the bank returned the check with the monthly bank statement, Mary was shocked to find that someone had raised the amount to $60. She told her husband John, and he immediately notified the bank of the alteration.

A quick investigation established that the bank had cashed the check, and had paid $60, so that the alteration was made before the check was presented for payment by the unknown defrauder.

Several days later, John discovered that another of the checks returned with the bank statement was a complete forgery. It was apparent that an imposter had drawn a check for $100 on John's bank, and had signed John's name to it. John called the bank again to tell them of the second fraud, and again he was told that the bank had paid the full amount of the check.

DO YOU know the state of accounts between the Evans and their bank? Many people are surprised to learn that under Illinois law the bank cannot charge the Evans for money it paid by reason of the frauds.

As to the $100 forgery, the law required the bank to know the signature of its own depositors, and this duty prevails as against the most clever forgeries. Since John was a depositor, the bank wrongfully paid the check.

As to Mary's $6 check, which was raised to $60, Illinois law provides that the bank must pay checks drawn on it according to the original "tenor" of the instrument — the amount for which the check was originally drawn.

THEREFORE, unless it can be shown that Mary's negligence led to the alteration, the bank must stand the loss. The bank is authorized to charge the Evans' account only with the $6 for which the check was originally drawn.

Under Illinois law, the Evans could not recover from the bank if more than one year elapsed from the time the cancelled checks were returned to them before they notified the bank of the raising and forgery.

A check is simply a written order directed to a bank to pay a stated sum of money to the person named in the check. The one who writes and signs the check is called the "drawer," the bank that is to pay the money is called the "drawee," and the person named to receive the money is called the "payee." If you sign on the back of the check you are known as an "endorser."

Some checks are almost the same as cash, and if lost can be negotiated by anyone who obtains possession. For example, checks payable to "Cash," or which are endorsed with the payee's signature, and nothing else, are almost equivalent to cash. They can be negotiated without endorsement, and it is easy for unauthorized persons to cash them.

FOR THIS reason, it is wise to draw checks to "Cash" only when you are ready to use them. For example, if a check is made payable to you and you want to send it by mail write on the back words such as "Pay to John Jones," and then sign your name beneath. By doing this, the check cannot be validly transferred unless Jones' signature is endorsed on the check.

It is always the safest procedure to draw and endorse checks to a named person. If you want to deposit in your bank account a check made payable to you, write "For deposit only" above your signature. Having done this, you can safely mail the check to your bank, and the money can be credited only to your account.

Many business transactions are closed on the basis of a certified check, so that the parties are certain the check is good. When a check is presented for certification, the bank looks at the drawer's account to ascertain whether there are sufficient funds to cover the check. Then, money is set aside from the account in a special fund for the payment of that particular check.

Although most of us use checks from day to day, few realize the complicated character of what lawyers call "the law of negotiable instruments." (A14

No Fatal Mishaps In School Buses

George T. Wilkins, superintendent of public instruction, this week announced that according to reports received in his office there were no fatal accidents of pupils who were being transported by school vehicles under the supervision of his office during the current school year.

Wilkins said that this involves the daily transportation of about 400,000 pupils where the state reimburses the local district for a part of the cost. The school buses will during the year travel over 55 million miles in getting the children to and from school.

This mileage is enough to make over 100 round trips to the moon. The pupils mentioned and the mileage travtwo and a half million public transported in conveyances for which the state makes no reimbursement.

Wilkins expressed concern about the safety of all of the two and a half million pubic and private school pupils who will be out of school after the closing of the school year which will take place during the next three weeks. These pupils will appear in new places, follow different roads and seek new ways of spending their time. Various types of motor vehicles—hot rods, jalopies, family cars, and scooters—will be manned by the older students.

He said, "I hope that all parents will realize that they have a responsibility which has been shared up to now by the school. All drivers of motor vehicles should be extra careful. Let us all be aware that school is out for these children and we want them back next year." (A14

Summer Jobs Are Limited

During the next few weeks, hundreds of high school and college students and many teachers in the northwest section of Chicago and suburbs will be looking for summer work, but there will be only a limited number of jobs available, John Brownlee, manger of the northwest office of the Illinois State Empoyment Service located at 5306 W. Lawrence avenue, said this week.

He further added that many students depend on summer employment in order to continue with their education.

Finding jobs for these young people is a difficult problem for the community to solve. "It is important because through summer employment a young person can acquire many of the work habits that apply to all employment; ability to take and follow instructions, punctuality, learning to work with others, and this experience often aids in getting the right start in the right career," Brownlee said.

In addition to high school and college students looking for summer work, the Northwest Employment office has hundreds of high school seniors on file who have been given aptitude and interest tests in order to classify them in the category best fitting their capabilities. "Most of them will be seeking permanent jobs and we are striving to find not just a job for them but a job that will fit into their abilities and interests and lead into a suitable career," he added.

Brownlee said that solving the summer job problem of young people requires the cooperation and help of all employers, employer groups, community organizations and the general public. The staff of the northwest office is anxious to work with any of these groups to attempt to work out a solution, Brownlee said, and urges all interested persons and groups to contact him to discuss various plans. NEW LEADERS of the Beth Tikvah Jewish congregation were installed by Rabbi Hillel Gamoran (left) at special ceremonies following the weekly religious services Friday, May 26. The new officers are David Alter, Men's club president; Seymour Pearlman, congregation president; and Mrs. Joel Meyer, Sisterhood president.

Q. When a man is sitting down in some public place, and a strange woman stops and addresses a question to him, is it necessary that he rise?

A. If he wishes to show any degree of good manners, he will rise.

Q. I recently saw a person, after dining in a restaurant, dip his fingers into his glass of water and then wipe them on his napkin. Is this good manners?

A. Never! If there are no fingerbowls and the fingers are sticky, it is permissible to tip the glass of water into one corner of the napkin, then wipe the fingers with this.

Group Urges A-Ban Talks Be Stopped

The civilian National Strategy Committee last week released its first recommendations to President Kennedy urging that atomic test-ban negotiations at Geneva be discontinued and that underground nuclear tests be resumed immediately.

WRIGHT SAID the recommendations were the first of "many" the committee would send to the White House, Congress and the public on key issues of national security.

He said the National Strategy Committee was formed recently by The American Security Council of Chicago to prepare detailed studies and recommendations on key issues of vital interest to the U. S. and all Americans.

Wright said the next report will deal with the dangers of admitting Red China to the United Nations and will be ready in a few weeks. (A-14

Q. Should clam chowder be served in cups or in soup plates?

A. In soup plates.

Q Some of my girl friends, who have become engaged recently, have given their fiances engagement gifts. Is this a new custom and proper?

A This is neither a new custom nor necessary. Of course, there's nothing improper about it, if the girl really wishes to do so.

Q. My husband and I were guests at dinner in some friends' home recently and, in order to help my hostess, I stacked my used dishes as I finished eating out of them. My husband says this was incorrect. What do you say?

A. Your husband is right. Always leave your dishes as they are when you finish eating.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Chamber of Commerce

Chamber Against Turning Clock Back Month Earlier

A return to statewide confusion and inconvenience was predicted this week by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce if the legislature enacts a bill to end daylight saving time a month earlier than scheduled.

The bill, which has already passed the House and will be sent to the Senate this week, would require that clocks be turned back the last Sunday in September.

"Ending daylight saving time earlier would bring back the statewide chaos which existed before passage of the present law in 1959," said Marc A. Buettell, president of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce. The state chamber in 1959 was one of the prime backers of the present uniform time law which establishes a period of six months during which clocks shall be moved up an hour. It starts with the last Sunday in April and ends on the last Sunday in October.

Prior to passage of the 1959 bill, uniformity, standardization and stability were lacking, Buettell said. "Many hundreds of Illinois communities were divided between central standard and daylight time. Confusion affected everyone — city and rural dwellers, businessmen and farmers alike — and created annoying difficulties in traveling and carrying on everyday activities."

BUETTELL, who is president of Ideal Industries, Inc., Sycamore, listed these reasons for the State Chamber's opposition to changing the present law:

1—Most Illinois citizens simply prefer daylight time six months. We've watched closely letters to editors and other comments from all parts of the state after passage of the bill in 1959 and found almost no negative responses. Before passage of the bill, some 511 communities with a combined population of 6,700,000 used the advanced time for six months. This was 20 times the number that observed it five months.

2—The objection that six months of daylight time causes children to board school buses in the dark is not as serious as sometimes indicated. The U. S. Weather Bureau reports that the sun rose at 7:21 in Chicago on the last Sunday in October. Only a relatively small number board buses before that time. It is also true that there is considerable light well before the actual time of sunrise. On the other hand, the extra month of fast time does result in an extra hour of daylight at night for those students who participate in football practice or are members of the marching band or participate in other extra-curricular activities.

3—Most other big industrial states and major cities have daylight time six months and more are going on it all the time.

4—Sentiment definitely in favor of six months of fast time was expressed by a variety of organizations in 1959, including State AFL-CIO, Illinois Municipal League, Illinois Municipal Problems Commission, Illinois Bankers Association, Citizens Traffic Safety Board and many others.

In addition, the aspects of safety, recreation, and commerce enter into the picture, Buettell added. "An extra hour of daylight for an extra month bears advantages for hundreds of thousands of city dwellers that far outweigh any inconvenience it may cause to relatively few in the rural areas." (A14

'Suburbia Today' Trains Its Spotlight on Summer

Now that he's 80, says famous humorist P. G. Wodehouse (creator of Jeeves and about a hundred other books), he's got to slow his fun down a bit.

His idea of a good time, which includes walking two miles to the post office with his cat every day, leads off the June issue of Suburbia Today, which will drop out of the June 8 editions of Paddock Publications.

In an important study, boating authority Alfred Balk outlines ways that some communities have found to unclog the terrific jam that 40 million pleasure-boatmen —and women and children and dogs —have caused on our waterways.

OUR MOST illustrious commuters are the Kennedys, who weekend at Glen Ora, their "place" in Middleburg, Virginia. Here, this month, is a story on how that sleepy suburban town is taking to the new couple—and how the newcomers are taking to Middleburg.

Morris Ernst, a noted lawyer, speaks out against the neglect of our teachers—not salary-wise, this time, but in terms of our appreciation of their heroic efforts to make human beings out of our children. Let's honor our teachers whenever we feel they deserve it, says Mr. Ernst, and proposes a plan through which grateful student bodies can say, "Thank You, Professor."

"More, More is probably the only reaction possible after meal that includes some of the delicious, kitchen-tested tributes to dairy-cooking offered by Melanie DeProft this month—Celestial Lemon Creme, for instance, or Souffle Mont Blanc, Tomato-Cheese Dip, and Ice Cream Pie Spectacular.

OUR GARDEN editor, John Brimer, wishes every woman had an herb garden of her own, and tells, this month, how anyone can easily have basil, dill, tarragon, borage, chives, mint, and parsley growing beside her kitchen door.

The Frank Griesinger family live in a Gates Mills, Ohio, house that reflects the interests of every member of the family. There's a sewing area, art gallery, music-living room suitable for chamber musicales, and a man-made pond stocked with bass.

In our regular features ("Getting Around" and "Suburbia—Any Day!"), we find a man with six autos, a lady with ants in her plants, and a kid who has a few intresting things to say about geese vs. ganders; while our cartoonists wind up eating out-of-doors. "Bon Appetit," is their innocent introduction. From then on, watch out! (A-14

Special Assessment Notice

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS SPECIAL ASSESSMENT NO. 144

That the roadway of Willow Street from the existing pavement at the West street line of State Road to a line ten (10) feet East of the center line of Highland Avenue be widened to 26 feet, measured from back of curb to back of curb; except the pavement from a point 100 feet West of the West street line of State Road and to the East thereof shall be widened to 32 feet as shown on the plans on file in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Local Improvements. Roadways shall be improved by grading and by constructing combination curb and gutter, sidewalk, pavement of waterbound macadam base course and surface course, resurfacing of existing pavement within the limits of the improvement, and all necessary catch basins, manholes, storm water inlets and connecting pipes to existing sewers, together with all necessary adjustments and appurtenances, including sidewalks along the North and South line of the right-of-way of Willow from the existing pavement at the West street line of State Road to a line ten (10) feet East of the center line of Highland Avenue;

The detailed location, cross sections, elevations, grades, and sizes of all manholes, the storm water inlets, catch basins, connecting pipes, including all estimates, plans and specifications are contained in the ordinance for the improvement on file in the office of the Village Clerk, and having applied to the County Court of Cook County for an assessment of the costs of the improvement according to the benefits, and an assessment therefor having been made and returned to the court, the final hearing thereon will be had on the 19th day of June A.D., 1961 at 10:00 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as the business of the court will permit.

All persons desiring may file objections in that court, before that day and may appear on the hearing and make their demand.

Said assessment will be payable in ten (10) annual installments and each of said installments shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum, according to law, until paid.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

May 29 marked the sixth birthday of Kenny, son of Joan and Kenneth Herrmann, 1443 N. Race, and present last Saturday night at a family dinner party were his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herrmann; aunt and cousins, Mrs. Marcella Prestiano, Carol and Marlene, all of Chicago; aunt, uncle and cousin, Marilyn and Bill Owen and Carol, of the Terrace, as well as his brothers, Robert and Tommy, and sister, Lori. Monday, Kenny's brothers, sister and playmates, Andy and Laura Staubitz, Scott Sucker and Steve Wilson, sang birthday wishes over birthday cake and ice cream. A special after-supper treat for Kenny was a visit to Kiddieland.

Among those invited to share in the fifth birthday celebration of Gary, son of Lois and Gilbert Martin, 1417 N. Chicago, at an afternoon party, May 31, were Brian Leckie, Skipper Fluhrer, Alan Cech, and former Terrace playmates, Cheryl McKey, Arlington Heights, and Shelley Hayes, Glen Ellyn, and, of course, Gary's sister, Barbara. There was a family dinner party the Sunday before, so that Gary's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lamont, and great-grandmother, Mrs. William Fry, Chicago, as well as sister, Beth, and brother, Scott, might share in the occasion.

A CLOWN MOTIF was used at the birthday party held the afternoon of May 25 for Timmy, son of Helen and Virgil Marienau, 1334 N. Illinois, who was 3. Guests were Vicki and Michael Bade, Mike Pircher, Jimmy Charleston, Doug Martin and Jimmy Cocker.

Timmy shares his natal day with his brother, Lenny, 12, so there were two cakes at the buffet supper party Sunday, at which their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nagorny, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagorny, and five cousins, all of Arlington Heights, and Lenny's godmother, Miss Jessie Reichert, Chicago, and brother, Danny, were present.

A third child, first son, Charles Jr., was born to Dorothy and Charles Catlin, 1609 W. Olive, May 18 in Evanston hospital, weighing 5 pounds 9 ounces. His sisters are Virginia May and Susan, and grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wolfe and Mrs. Franklin S. Catlin, Chicago.

His favorite dinner in the company of his sister, Deborah, brother, Robert, maternal grandmother, Mrs. John Wilson, Elmwood Park, and great aunt, Mrs. Frank Hughes, Glen Ellyn, was the order of the day last Saturday marking the fourth birthday of John, son of Shirle and Robert Husted, 1610 W. Olive.

Cocktails and a buffet supper party for friends from Chicago, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights was the manner in which Kathy and Don Munk, 1230 N. Race, celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary. The happy occasion, May 17, was duly honored the following Saturday evening, and among those presenting the Munks with surprise gifts were Jeanne and Art Sadowski, Virginia Terrace.

MARION AND Ed Nielsen, 1252 N. Illinois, spent a gala evening last Saturday in Chicago attending the Tri-County Pistol and Revolver league banquet. After dinner there was the presentation of awards, and highlight of this event for the Nielsens was Ed's being the recipient of same.

May 24 is the natal day of Tommy, son of Pauline and John Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race, and, because a class trip to Hawthorn-Mellody farm had been planned for that day, with Pauline acting as a chaperone, Tommy was content to receive his seventh birthday wishes from his brother, Johnny, and sister, Susan, at a family dinner party that evening.

The Noerenbergs spent last weekend in Milwaukee at the home of Tommy's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Andrew, where he shared birthday festivities with his cousin, Michael, 5. Also present were the boys' maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus Andrew, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christy, and other Gust Andrew children, Patty and Charlotte.

Newest block mother, Shirley Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, was completely surprised last Thursday evening at a post-birth baby shower held in the home of Pat Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, whose co-hostess was Jerri Rix. After having three boys, Shirley's newest addition, Laura Anne, will be spoiled with frills and flounces gifted her by Terrace neighbors Inga Schluntz, Betty Gumz, Shirley Husted, Jackie Koenig, Marion Nilesen, and Carol Clarkson. Another highlight of this shower was the pink frosted cake, decorated with "little girl" baby articles.

MARILOU CROUCH, 1228 N. Chicago, entertained birthday club members Marga Wilmot, Dorothy Ballard, Maisie Sikorski, and Isabel Nottoli, last Thursday at a luncheon honoring Pauline Noerenberg. After lunch they played cards for the remainder of the afternoon.

Marilou's mother, Mrs. Marion Douglass, who lives with the Crouches, returned Friday morning from a 2-month sojourn to the east coast, where she visited Mrs. Helen Bauer in Caldwell, N.J. The ladies particularly enjoyed excursions to New York City, having appeared on live television, seeing the stage play "Carnival," a visit to Coney Island, attending two United Nations sessions, meeting Perry Como and Gary Moore following attendance at their respective television programs, and seeing the usual tourist sights, as well.

Huckleberry Hound was the theme employed the afternoon of May 25 at the party for George, son of Marga and John Wilmot, 1240 N. Race, attended by his cousins, Rick and John McCabe, Kurt Davis, Randy Lechelt, Paul Hacker, Chris McGuire, Rick and Daniel Nieman and Gary Crowe. George was celebrating a fifth birthday.

Mickey Mouse took over the household of [illegible] and Jack Sorensen, 1406 N. Chicago, at the afterschool party held May 18 in honor of their son's sixth birthday. Richard enjoyed entertaining Linda and Alan Cech, Michael and Judy Lindholm, Jimmy Kohler, Kathy Zaucha, Marilyn Donath, Brian Leckie, Skipper Fluhrer and former playmate, Larry Visk, Northfield.

LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, entertained several friends, among whom were Shirlee and Frank Pircher, Doris and Ken Koser and Adelaide and John Fairfield, last Saturday night at a get-together, highlighted by the enactment of a hilarious play written and produced by LaRue. The Reeds discreetly tape-recorded the session, and more laughs and fun were had by all as they listened to the play back, at the same time enjoying a buffet snack.

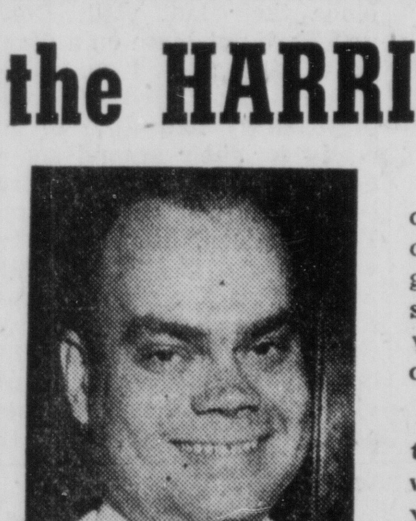
the HARRIS huddle



GEORGE HARRIS

At last Memorial day has come and gone, and I sincerely hope it was peaceful, gay and sober. We can all settle down to some hard work and wait for the Fourth of July.

Speaking of settling down, there is nothing like hard work to get your mind off yourself. Actually, a good hard day's work has never hurt anyone. I sometimes wonder if we don't all take ourselves too seriously. If we could all have the one thing for which we are searching, peace of mind, then most of our troubles would disappear. We spend too much time in self-pity, too much time thinking of how bad off we are instead of counting our blessings. These things we all know, but it is good to see them in print once in awhile — just as a reminder.

So, as I said, while we're all waiting for the Fourth of July, let us settle down to some old fashioned hard work, mind our own business and that ever-elusive peace of mind will seek us out.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

May 29 marked the sixth birthday of Kenny, son of Joan and Kenneth Herrmann, 1443 N. Race, and present last Saturday night at a family dinner party were his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herrmann; aunt and cousins, Mrs. Marcella Prestiano, Carol and Marlene, all of Chicago; aunt, uncle and cousin, Marilyn and Bill Owen and Carol, of the Terrace, as well as his brothers, Robert and Tommy, and sister, Lori. Monday, Kenny's brothers, sister and playmates, Andy and Laura Staubitz, Scott Sucker and Steve Wilson, sang birthday wishes over birthday cake and ice cream. A special after-supper treat for Kenny was a visit to Kiddieland.

Among those invited to share in the fifth birthday celebration of Gary, son of Lois and Gilbert Martin, 1417 N. Chicago, at an afternoon party, May 31, were Brian Leckie, Skipper Fluhrer, Alan Cech, and former Terrace playmates, Cheryl McKey, Arlington Heights, and Shelley Hayes, Glen Ellyn, and, of course, Gary's sister, Barbara. There was a family dinner party the Sunday before, so that Gary's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lamont, and great-grandmother, Mrs. William Fry, Chicago, as well as sister, Beth, and brother, Scott, might share in the occasion.

A CLOWN MOTIF was used at the birthday party held the afternoon of May 25 for Timmy, son of Helen and Virgil Marienau, 1334 N. Illinois, who was 3. Guests were Vicki and Michael Bade, Mike Pircher, Jimmy Charleston, Doug Martin and Jimmy Cocker.

Timmy shares his natal day with his brother, Lenny, 12, so there were two cakes at the buffet supper party Sunday, at which their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nagorny, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagorny, and five cousins, all of Arlington Heights, and Lenny's godmother, Miss Jessie Reichert, Chicago, and brother, Danny, were present.

A third child, first son, Charles Jr., was born to Dorothy and Charles Catlin, 1609 W. Olive, May 18 in Evanston hospital, weighing 5 pounds 9 ounces. His sisters are Virginia May and Susan, and grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wolfe and Mrs. Franklin S. Catlin, Chicago.

His favorite dinner in the company of his sister, Deborah, brother, Robert, maternal grandmother, Mrs. John Wilson, Elmwood Park, and great aunt, Mrs. Frank Hughes, Glen Ellyn, was the order of the day last Saturday marking the fourth birthday of John, son of Shirle and Robert Husted, 1610 W. Olive.

Cocktails and a buffet supper party for friends from Chicago, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights was the manner in which Kathy and Don Munk, 1230 N. Race, celebrated their 17th wedding anniversary. The happy occasion, May 17, was duly honored the following Saturday evening, and among those presenting the Munks with surprise gifts were Jeanne and Art Sadowski, Virginia Terrace.

MARION AND Ed Nielsen, 1252 N. Illinois, spent a gala evening last Saturday in Chicago attending the Tri-County Pistol and Revolver league banquet. After dinner there was the presentation of awards, and highlight of this event for the Nielsens was Ed's being the recipient of same.

May 24 is the natal day of Tommy, son of Pauline and John Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race, and, because a class trip to Hawthorn-Mellody farm had been planned for that day, with Pauline acting as a chaperone, Tommy was content to receive his seventh birthday wishes from his brother, Johnny, and sister, Susan, at a family dinner party that evening.

The Noerenbergs spent last weekend in Milwaukee at the home of Tommy's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Andrew, where he shared birthday festivities with his cousin, Michael, 5. Also present were the boys' maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus Andrew, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christy, and other Gust Andrew children, Patty and Charlotte.

Newest block mother, Shirley Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, was completely surprised last Thursday evening at a post-birth baby shower held in the home of Pat Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, whose co-hostess was Jerri Rix. After having three boys, Shirley's newest addition, Laura Anne, will be spoiled with frills and flounces gifted her by Terrace neighbors Inga Schluntz, Betty Gumz, Shirley Husted, Jackie Koenig, Marion Nilesen, and Carol Clarkson. Another highlight of this shower was the pink frosted cake, decorated with "little girl" baby articles.

MARILOU CROUCH, 1228 N. Chicago, entertained birthday club members Marga Wilmot, Dorothy Ballard, Maisie Sikorski, and Isabel Nottoli, last Thursday at a luncheon honoring Pauline Noerenberg. After lunch they played cards for the remainder of the afternoon.

Marilou's mother, Mrs. Marion Douglass, who lives with the Crouches, returned Friday morning from a 2-month sojourn to the east coast, where she visited Mrs. Helen Bauer in Caldwell, N.J. The ladies particularly enjoyed excursions to New York City, having appeared on live television, seeing the stage play "Carnival," a visit to Coney Island, attending two United Nations sessions, meeting Perry Como and Gary Moore following attendance at their respective television programs, and seeing the usual tourist sights, as well.

Huckleberry Hound was the theme employed the afternoon of May 25 at the party for George, son of Marga and John Wilmot, 1240 N. Race, attended by his cousins, Rick and John McCabe, Kurt Davis, Randy Lechelt, Paul Hacker, Chris McGuire, Rick and Daniel Nieman and Gary Crowe. George was celebrating a fifth birthday.

Mickey Mouse took over the household of [illegible]y and Jack Sorensen, 1406 N. Chicago, at the afterschool party held May 18 in honor of their son's sixth birthday. Richard enjoyed entertaining Linda and Alan Cech, Michael and Judy Lindholm, Jimmy Kohler, Kathy Zaucha, Marilyn Donath, Brian Leckie, Skipper Fluhrer and former playmate, Larry Visk, Northfield.

LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, entertained several friends, among whom were Shirlee and Frank Pircher, Doris and Ken Koser and Adelaide and John Fairfield, last Saturday night at a get-together, highlighted by the enactment of a hilarious play written and produced by LaRue. The Reeds discreetly tape-recorded the session, and more laughs and fun were had by all as they listened to the play back, at the same time enjoying a buffet snack.

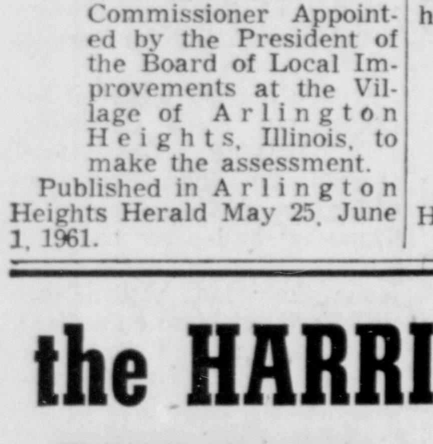
the HARRIS huddle



GEORGE HARRIS

At last Memorial day has come and gone, and I sincerely hope it was peaceful, gay and sober. We can all settle down to some hard work and wait for the Fourth of July.

Speaking of settling down, there is nothing like hard work to get your mind off yourself. Actually, a good hard day's work has never hurt anyone. I sometimes wonder if we don't all take ourselves too seriously. If we could all have the one thing for which we are searching, peace of mind, then most of our troubles would disappear. We spend too much time in self-pity, too much time thinking of how bad off we are instead of counting our blessings. These things we all know, but it is good to see them in print once in awhile — just as a reminder.

So, as I said, while we're all waiting for the Fourth of July, let us settle down to some old fashioned hard work, mind our own business and that ever-elusive peace of mind will seek us out.

Residence Featured In National Magazine

A house in Arlington Heights, accorded a two-page spread in the June issue of a national magazine, is up for sale.

"We've outgrown it," is the simple explanation of Mrs. Joan Larson.

She was speaking of the six-room house at 1245 N. Illinois st. She and her husband, Richard, purchased the modest dwelling in 1955 when their oldest son, Tom, was one year old.

"Doug was born in 1958 and Maryann just two months ago," Mrs. Larson reflected. "Now it's a matter of finding a house with three bedrooms and a little more growing space."

THE LARSON home was featured this month in "Everywoman's Family Circle" magazine.

In an article entitled, "How to Furnish for Family Activities," the story of how the Larsons turned their garage into a cheery family-recreation room was told.

The narrative began a year ago when the Masonite corp., a manufacturing firm, sought an insulated garage to improve with walnut-grain hardboard paneling. The Larson home was chosen.

When work was completed last July, the company had invested $1,800 worth of material into the garage. Larson, a commercial artist for Whitaker and Gurnsey Studio, provided the finishing touches.

"We like Arlington Heights and want to buy another home here," the 32-year-old Larson confided. "But first we must sell this one."

HE FIGURED the house—considering the newly improved attached garage—is worth more, but he's asking $18,500. The house is decorated in Early American style and sits on a 85 by 135 foot lot.

The garage seems equivalent to two extra rooms. It has cabinet space, a sewing area, generous shelves, a study corner, a built-in settee, painted concrete floor and perforated hardboard for hanging things.

"We're just getting used to the new room and will hate to part with it," the Larsons agree. But they'll be happy to entertain prospective home buyers.

Their telephone number is CL 5-1245. (AF

Eastwood Events

The annual awards dinner dance of the Eastwood bridge tournament was a gala affair Saturday night at Villa Venice. Several large cocktail parties preceded the dinner, and outside guests, other than tournament members, were invited to have fun with their bridge playing neighbors. Among out-of-towners present were Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hare, Eileen Anderson's folks who are visiting here from Coral Gables, Fla.

When the awards were presented, Dick and Virginia Vlach proved to be the year's star players with just 140 points separating them from second place June and Bruce McBride. First five high scorers were: Vlaches, 20,450; McBride's, 20,310; Jack and Eileen Anderson, 18,800; Doris and Jack Gavin, 18,770 and Margarite and Bob Scott, 18,630.

BESIDES FIRST place awards, Dick and Virginia also won the privilege of arranging next year's tournament, so anyone desiring to play next fall is asked to contact the Vlaches at CLearbrook 3-8065.

Eastwood was well represented at the Elk's auxiliary luncheon at Inverness country club last Thursday. Nina Hoym is currently president of the group and her neighbors, Vera Mell, Eunice Behm, Pam Schultz, Margarite Scott and Dotty House accompanied her to the affair. Helen Kasper, Casey Mutti and Lor Brinke were among the guests who enthused over the witty presentation of hat making demonstrated after luncheon by Mrs. Elizabeth Ruddy.

Non - professional theatrics are highlighting several residents' weekend activities. Wilbur "Red" Pownall, who is well-known to Village Theatre audiences for his many and varied roles, is appearing as Matthew Brady in "Inherit the Wind" Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Prospect High little theatre. The play is patterned after the Scopes trial of the mid-20's, and Red's role of Brady is in reality that of William Jennings Bryan. Gladys Pownall, who appears as a junior in the play, has been occupied with many backstage activities. Besides being assistant production manager, she has also helped with set construction.

MR. AND MRS. Ed Murphy of N. Dryden, who are active in the Des Plaines theatre guild, will also be performing this weekend. They will have featured roles in the musical comedy revue which is planned for the guild's 15th anniversary celebration dinner Saturday night at Meo's Franklin House in River Grove.

Last Friday night Jack Schuler of 205 N. Dryden was a member of the Illinois Bell Telephone chorus which presented its annual spring music festival at Orchestra hall. (A

OUT WITH THE OLD, on with the new! That is the theme these days for nurses aides at Northwest Community hospital who are sporting perky new aqua-and-white striped uniforms. Modeling the new uniform and cap is Mrs. Robert J. Mors, Meyer rd, Mt. prospect, a nurses aide on the hospital fourth-floor medical section. Helping Mrs. Mors adjust her new cap in front of the attractive hospital building is Mrs. Stanley Norman, 634 S. Dryden, Arlingto Heights, who is still wearing the older yellow cotton unifor and cap. Mrs. Norman is an aide on the third-floor surgic section.

Park Manor Project Reaches an Impasse

Village officials and home owners have reached an apparent impasse in their bargaining over the proposed major improvement program for the 80-acre Arlington Heights Park Manor subdivision.

Another in a growing series of hearings on the contested program was conducted last Thursday by the board of local improvements.

Net result of the session was zero.

MEMBERS of the Park Manor Homeowners association again asked the board to eliminate street paving and storm sewers from the $1 million project. The board again refused.

"We'd hoped our rezoning would have been weighty enough to get the board to agree to a partial program," reflected Donald Burdick, association president.

"It appears now the board will not grant a partial program. It's also apparent we cannot afford the total program."

AS PROPOSED, the improvement would include installation of storm and sanitary sewers, water lines and street paving. Owners of the 50 homes in the subdivision protest they cannot afford the entire program.

"The board has extended itself by bringing the overall cost down as low as possible," explained Harold Klingner, board president. He was referring to elimination of sidewalks from the project and suggested street vacations.

But home owners say they must have a 40 per cent reduction on the total cost. They point out the board has offered a reduction of only 19 per cent, keeping the program out of reach.

BOTH BURDICK and Klingner agree on one thing: it will be a tragedy to have to abandon the work already put into planning the project.

Thursday's hearing was adjourned to June 29. At that time, Klingner noted, it is conceivable the board will consider a motion to authorize the village attorney to draw up a resolution recommending the full program.

Burdick, stressing residents' inability to shoulder the costs, observed some may take the matter to court should the entire program be approved.

THE SUBDIVISION, located in the southeastern corner of the villae, is currently being served by wells and septic tanks. Its home owners originally petitioned the board for the improvements, but had not calculated "excessive" costs.

BOLI member Edwin Culbertson entered a motion Thursday advocating sanitary sewers and water lines only. The motion was defeated 4-1. (AF

Village Board May Okay Oakton Improvement Monday

One of the most controversial projects in Arlington Heights' history — the improvement of Oakton st.—may finally be okayed Monday by the village board of trustees.

At a public hearing last Thursday, the board of local improvements approved a resolution calling for paving and widening of the street from Yale ave. to State rd.

THE RESOLUTION recommends village trustees pass an ordinance giving the improvement board authority to go ahead with the $269,000 project.

Thursday's action brings to an apparent end debate dating back nearly two years.

Many felt the street should be widened to a 40-foot major thoroughfare and extended from Wilke rd. to Rand rd. Others wanted the street left as it is, merely resurfacing it where necessary.

The board of local improvements has now decided the east-west street will have curbs, gutters and sidewalks, and be widened to 30 feet, two inches. There were no residents objecting to these standards Thursday.

MOST RECENT objection to the improvement came from home owners who questioned the need for sidewalks. It was resolved sidewalks would be installed on both sides of the street, with all possible steps being taken to preserve trees.

Tentative spread for the special assessment project has been made by Robert Bishop, a former village trustee. It is available for residents' inspection.

The improvement of Oakton st. is expected to better the flow of traffic on the village's north side and to make the area more accessible to police and fire vehicles. (AF

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

In the Don Vogel home, 724 N. Kaspar, Gale celebrated her 11th birthday last Wednesday and her brother, Donnie, 10, had his turn Saturday. Gale's friend, Susan Myslo, joined the family for a supper party on her birthday and Donnie's cousin spent Friday night with him and was on hand for his family party Saturday.

Jimmy Wojtkiewicz came down with mumps the day before his mother left for the hospital for Mary Alice's arrival. Joan and George brought her home Tuesday morning and once things settled down there was a steady stream of company to see the new Wojtkiewicz. Joan's Aunt Margaret and Uncle Jack came Friday night and were followed Saturday by Joan's brother and his family and her mother. The Wojtkiewiczes live at 920 N. Ridge.

WITH MARLENE Becker's high school graduation only two weeks off, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Becker, came from Northrop, Minn., for a visit which will include the graduation. Marlene and her parents, the Werner Beckers, live at 1004 N. Ridge.

Craig was 14 last Thursday, but his parents, the Harold Jacobs, 931 N. Patton, put off his party until Sunday so his aunts, uncles and cousins could drive down from Burlington, Wis. His grandparents from Hillside and Forest Park completed the party.

When Mr. and Mrs. Don Goetz, 913 N. Harvard, left for the east recently they had in mind picking up Irene and Dudley from Wagner college on Staten Island. They also planned to visit relatives in the vicinity of New York City before returning this weekend.

A note of sympathy is extended to the family of Elmer Schuler, 922 N. Kennicott, in the death of his mother last week.

There were 20 couples at Campbell's Hearthstone restaurant Saturday evening when Ridge Park held its banquet ending a year of bridge. After dinner everyone was engaged in a game of bridge. Mr. and Mrs. Bauman came off with first prize for the evening; Dede and Bob Abbott, second; and Elizabeth and Bronson Barron, third. First prize for high score for the season went to Ruth and Bob McMullen, with Vi and Clair Loechle winning second prize and Dede and Bob, third.

ON THEIR WAY to Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Fox Sr. of Miller Place, L. I., made a stopover for a few days at the home of their daughter and her family, the Kenneth Huggs, 1007 N. Chicao. The Foxes are planning a western vacation with their son and his family, whom they will pick up in one of the Minneapolis suburbs, and will stop again for a visit with the Huggs before returning to Long Island.

By a small coincidence the St. James Holy Name bowling banquet fell on the same day as Marilyn and Thad Ostrowski's 11th wedding anniversary Saturday. Ridge Park was well represented at the banquet which was held at the Union hotel in Wheeling. As the captain of the winning team, Thad has a trophy which he proudly displays in the living room.

Two cars from Ridge Park headed for Plentywood farm last Wednesday for their end-of-the-season luncheon. Shirley Winkelman, Ann Inselberger, Dorothy Cryer and Lu Hostler made up one car and Ruth Platt and Agnes Saidikowski made up the other.

Libby Griffith was 8 May 24, and her mother sent all the fixings for a party to her Bluebird meeting at the home of Dorothy Cryer. Each girl had a Japanese fan at her place, plus a charm for helping organize a new group.

Sunday Libby's parents, Ruth and Bill, 625 N. Kaspar, invited the Howard Richardsons for a picnic which moved into the garage when the thermometer dipped.

ALTHOUGH Claire and Don Port, who lived at 1022 N. Yale until Sunday, had mixed emotions about leaving Arlington Heights and their friends here, they felt if they had to leave, what better place could they be sent but California. They stopped in southern Illinois to say goodbye to her sister and her family and will make another stop in St. Louis before leaving for the west coast.

There were several going-away parties for this popular couple, among which was one given a week ago Saturday and a farewell coffee last Saturday given by Mrs. Peter Spindler, 1206 N. Harvard, attended by Jean Gray, Grace Grey, Betty Black and Lillian Marshall. The night before they left, they were still saying goodbye when they went to the Cotillion dance.

Jimmy Oertel was one last Thursday and celebrated the occasion at a party that inclued his family and the Paul R. Thompsons. Sunday his godmother, Miss Lena Burzig, came out from Chicago to wish him many happy returns of the day. Jimmy is the son of the John Oertels, 708 N. Salem.

It was a busy weekend for Doris and Herb Cornelius, 1108 Watling. Old navy friends, the John Pomeroys of Inglewood, Cal., dropped in Thursday and after catching up on news of each other since their last visit, Doris and Herb put them on a plane at O'Hare field.

Coming home from O'Hare, they barely had time to get ready for their second set of company—the Charles Grahams and their two boys from Fort Madison, Iowa. Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Dix joined the two couples for an evening at the Playwrights in Chicago—a coffee house featuring a 2-hour review. Sunday they picnicked at Lake Michigan. (A BUSY FILLING the 2,000 helium-filled balloons used on the Arlington high school post-prom train ride were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tull, 311 S. Carlyle, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hannum, 1020 N. Fernandez, both of Arlington Heights. Their efforts in the pre-train ride decoration kept the almost 500 teens busy with a "banging good time" during the 5½ hour train ride to the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison.

THE PROM OF 1961

THE DANCE CAR of the Arlington hig school post-prom train ride last Saturda had an elaborate "band stand" for the mus ical groups which entertained the high school couples. Giving final touches with fire-proof- g spray to the dance car are Mr. and M avid Brooke, 315 S. Harvard, Arlingt eights. Mr. and Mrs. Brooke were co-chai ıen of the dance car and its decorations.

500 Teens Breakfast On Wisc. Campus

A rocking-rolling train ride for almost 500 teenagers climaxed the Arlington high school senior prom last Friday, May 26.

Secret destination for the 5½ hour train trip was the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison. There the couples had breakfast and lunch at the Student Union, played games and enjoyed boat rides on the campus lake.

The prom was held at Chevy Chase country club with about 275 couples in attendance. Music for the formal event was supplied by Bobby Christian and his orchestra.

Highlight of the prom was the selection of a Prom Queen. Chosen by the senior boys in attendance, crowning of the Prom Queen is an annual tradition. Queen of the 1961 prom was Patty Peck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Peck Jr., 1141 N. Harvard, Arlington Heights. The queen was crowned by one of the school's foreign-exchange students, Eike Schmitz of Germany.

ELABORATE decorations were used on the train. A special game car was a new feature of the train. The dance car featured the music of Tobin Matthews and the Galaxies.

More than 2,000 helium-filled balloons gave the youngsters a "bang up" time.

The special North Western Ry. train left the Arlington race track siding at 2:10 a.m., arriving in Madison at 7:45 a.m. There was not a minute of quiet during the enthusiastic train trip. In contrast the 106-mile trip home took only two hours, with the exhausted students barely moving from their chairs. (ACM

Residence Featured In National Magazine

A house in Arlington Heights, accorded a two-page spread in the June issue of a national magazine, is up for sale.

"We've outgrown it," is the simple explanation of Mrs. Joan Larson.

She was speaking of the six-room house at 1245 N. Illinois st. She and her husband, Richard, purchased the modest dwelling in 1955 when their oldest son, Tom, was one year old.

"Doug was born in 1958 and Maryann just two months ago," Mrs. Larson reflected. "Now it's a matter of finding a house with three bedrooms and a little more growing space."

THE LARSON home was featured this month in "Everywoman's Family Circle" magazine.

In an article entitled, "How to Furnish for Family Activities," the story of how the Larsons turned their garage into a cheery family-recreation room was told.

The narrative began a year ago when the Masonite corp., a manufacturing firm, sought an insulated garage to improve with walnut-grain hardboard paneling. The Larson home was chosen.

When work was completed last July, the company had invested $1,800 worth of material into the garage. Larson, a commercial artist for Whitaker and Gurnsey Studio, provided the finishing touches.

"We like Arlington Heights and want to buy another home here," the 32-year-old Larson confided. "But first we must sell this one."

HE FIGURED the house—considering the newly improved attached garage—is worth more, but he's asking $18,500. The house is decorated in Early American style and sits on a 85 by 135 foot lot.

The garage seems equivalent to two extra rooms. It has cabinet space, a sewing area, generous shelves, a study corner, a built-in settee, painted concrete floor and perforated hardboard for hanging things.

"We're just getting used to the new room and will hate to part with it," the Larsons agree. But they'll be happy to entertain prospective home buyers.

Their telephone number is CL 5-1245. (AF

Eastwood Events

The annual awards dinner dance of the Eastwood bridge tournament was a gala affair Saturday night at Villa Venice. Several large cocktail parties preceded the dinner, and outside guests, other than tournament members, were invited to have fun with their bridge playing neighbors. Among out-of-towners present were Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hare, Eileen Anderson's folks who are visiting here from Coral Gables, Fla.

When the awards were presented, Dick and Virginia Vlach proved to be the year's star players with just 140 points separating them from second place June and Bruce McBride. First five high scorers were: Vlaches, 20,450; McBride's, 20,310; Jack and Eileen Anderson, 18,800; Doris and Jack Gavin, 18,770 and Margarite and Bob Scott, 18,630.

BESIDES FIRST place awards, Dick and Virginia also won the privilege of arranging next year's tournament, so anyone desiring to play next fall is asked to contact the Vlaches at CLearbrook 3-8065.

Eastwood was well represented at the Elk's auxiliary luncheon at Inverness country club last Thursday. Nina Hoym is currently president of the group and her neighbors, Vera Mell, Eunice Behm, Pam Schultz, Margarite Scott and Dotty House accompanied her to the affair. Helen Kasper, Casey Mutti and Lor Brinke were among the guests who enthused over the witty presentation of hat making demonstrated after luncheon by Mrs. Elizabeth Ruddy.

Non - professional theatrics are highlighting several residents' weekend activities. Wilbur "Red" Pownall, who is well-known to Village Theatre audiences for his many and varied roles, is appearing as Matthew Brady in "Inherit the Wind" Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at Prospect High little theatre. The play is patterned after the Scopes trial of the mid-20's, and Red's role of Brady is in reality that of William Jennings Bryan. Gladys Pownall, who appears as a junior in the play, has been occupied with many backstage activities. Besides being assistant production manager, she has also helped with set construction.

MR. AND MRS. Ed Murphy of N. Dryden, who are active in the Des Plaines theatre guild, will also be performing this weekend. They will have featured roles in the musical comedy revue which is planned for the guild's 15th anniversary celebration dinner Saturday night at Meo's Franklin House in River Grove.

Last Friday night Jack Schuler of 205 N. Dryden was a member of the Illinois Bell Telephone chorus which presented its annual spring music festival at Orchestra hall. (A

OUT WITH THE OLD, on with the new! That is the theme these days for nurses aides at Northwest Community hospital who are sporting perky new aqua-and-white striped uniforms. Modeling the new uniform and cap is Mrs. Robert J. Mors, Meyer rd, Mt. prospect, a nurses aide on the hospital fourth-floor medical section. Helping Mrs. Mors adjust her new cap in front of the attractive hospital building is Mrs. Stanley Norman, 634 S. Dryden, Arlingtor Heights, who is still wearing the older yellow cotton uniforr and cap. Mrs. Norman is an aide on the third-floor surgic section.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

In the Don Vogel home, 724 N. Kaspar, Gale celebrated her 11th birthday last Wednesday and her brother, Donnie, 10, had his turn Saturday. Gale's friend, Susan Myslo, joined the family for a supper party on her birthday and Donnie's cousin spent Friday night with him and was on hand for his family party Saturday.

Jimmy Wojtkiewicz came down with mumps the day before his mother left for the hospital for Mary Alice's arrival. Joan and George brought her home Tuesday morning and once things settled down there was a steady stream of company to see the new Wojtkiewicz. Joan's Aunt Margaret and Uncle Jack came Friday night and were followed Saturday by Joan's brother and his family and her mother. The Wojtkiewiczes live at 920 N. Ridge.

WITH MARLENE Becker's high school graduation only two weeks off, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Becker, came from Northrop, Minn., for a visit which will include the graduation. Marlene and her parents, the Werner Beckers, live at 1004 N. Ridge.

Craig was 14 last Thursday, but his parents, the Harold Jacobs, 931 N. Patton, put off his party until Sunday so his aunts, uncles and cousins could drive down from Burlington, Wis. His grandparents from Hillside and Forest Park completed the party.

When Mr. and Mrs. Don Goetz, 913 N. Harvard, left for the east recently they had in mind picking up Irene and Dudley from Wagner college on Staten Island. They also planned to visit relatives in the vicinity of New York City before returning this weekend.

A note of sympathy is extended to the family of Elmer Schuler, 922 N. Kennicott, in the death of his mother last week.

There were 20 couples at Campbell's Hearthstone restaurant Saturday evening when Ridge Park held its banquet ending a year of bridge. After dinner everyone was engaged in a game of bridge. Mr. and Mrs. Bauman came off with first prize for the evening; Dede and Bob Abbott, second; and Elizabeth and Bronson Barron, third. First prize for high score for the season went to Ruth and Bob McMullen, with Vi and Clair Loechle winning second prize and Dede and Bob, third.

ON THEIR WAY to Minnesota, Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Fox Sr. of Miller Place, L. I., made a stopover for a few days at the home of their daughter and her family, the Kenneth Huggs, 1007 N. Chicao. The Foxes are planning a western vacation with their son and his family, whom they will pick up in one of the Minneapolis suburbs, and will stop again for a visit with the Huggs before returning to Long Island.

By a small coincidence the St. James Holy Name bowling banquet fell on the same day as Marilyn and Thad Ostrowski's 11th wedding anniversary Saturday. Ridge Park was well represented at the banquet which was held at the Union hotel in Wheeling. As the captain of the winning team, Thad has a trophy which he proudly displays in the living room.

Two cars from Ridge Park headed for Plentywood farm last Wednesday for their end-of-the-season luncheon. Shirley Winkelman, Ann Inselberger, Dorothy Cryer and Lu Hostler made up one car and Ruth Platt and Agnes Saidikowski made up the other.

Libby Griffith was 8 May 24, and her mother sent all the fixings for a party to her Bluebird meeting at the home of Dorothy Cryer. Each girl had a Japanese fan at her place, plus a charm for helping organize a new group.

Sunday Libby's parents, Ruth and Bill, 625 N. Kaspar, invited the Howard Richardsons for a picnic which moved into the garage when the thermometer dipped.

ALTHOUGH Claire and Don Port, who lived at 1022 N. Yale until Sunday, had mixed emotions about leaving Arlington Heights and their friends here, they felt if they had to leave, what better place could they be sent but California. They stopped in southern Illinois to say goodbye to her sister and her family and will make another stop in St. Louis before leaving for the west coast.

There were several going-away parties for this popular couple, among which was one given a week ago Saturday and a farewell coffee last Saturday given by Mrs. Peter Spindler, 1206 N. Harvard, attended by Jean Gray, Grace Grey, Betty Black and Lillian Marshall. The night before they left, they were still saying goodbye when they went to the Cotillion dance.

Jimmy Oertel was one last Thursday and celebrated the occasion at a party that inclued his family and the Paul R. Thompsons. Sunday his godmother, Miss Lena Burzig, came out from Chicago to wish him many happy returns of the day. Jimmy is the son of the John Oertels, 708 N. Salem.

It was a busy weekend for Doris and Herb Cornelius, 1108 Watling. Old navy friends, the John Pomeroys of Inglewood, Cal., dropped in Thursday and after catching up on news of each other since their last visit, Doris and Herb put them on a plane at O'Hare field.

Coming home from O'Hare, they barely had time to get ready for their second set of company—the Charles Grahams and their two boys from Fort Madison, Iowa. Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Dix joined the two couples for an evening at the Playwrights in Chicago—a coffee house featuring a 2-hour review. Sunday they picknicked at Lake Michigan. (A

BUSY FILLING the 2,000 helium-filled balloons used on the Arlington high school post-prom train ride were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tull, 311 S. Carlyle, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hannan, 1020 N. Fernandez, both of Arlington Heights. Their efforts in the pre-train ride decoration kept the almost 500 teens busy with a "banging good time" during the 5½ hour train ride to the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison.

Park Manor Project Reaches an Impasse

Village officials and home owners have reached an apparent impasse in their bargaining over the proposed major improvement program for the 80-acre Arlington Heights Park Manor subdivision.

Another in a growing series of hearings on the contested program was conducted last Thursday by the board of local improvements.

Net result of the session was zero.

MEMBERS of the Park Manor Homeowners association again asked the board to eliminate street paving and storm sewers from the $1 million project. The board again refused.

"We'd hoped our rezoning would have been weighty enough to get the board to agree to a partial program," reflected Donald Burdick, association president.

"It appears now the board will not grant a partial program. It's also apparent we cannot afford the total program."

AS PROPOSED, the improvement would include installation of storm and sanitary sewers, water lines and street paving. Owners of the 50 homes in the subdivision protest they cannot afford the entire program.

"The board has extended itself by bringing the overall cost down as low as possible," explained Harold Klingner, board president. He was referring to elimination of sidewalks from the project and suggested street vacations.

But home owners say they must have a 40 per cent reduction on the total cost. They point out the board has offered a reduction of only 19 per cent, keeping the program out of reach.

BOTH BURDICK and Klingner agree on one thing: it will be a tragedy to have to abandon the work already put into planning the project.

Thursday's hearing was adjourned to June 29. At that time, Klingner noted, it is conceivable the board will consider a motion to authorize the village attorney to draw up a resolution recommending the full program.

Burdick, stressing residents' inability to shoulder the costs, observed some may take the matter to court should the entire program be approved.

THE SUBDIVISION, located in the southeastern corner of the villae, is currently being served by wells and septic tanks. Its home owners originally petitioned the board for the improvements, but had not calculated "excessive" costs.

BOLI member Edwin Culbertson entered a motion Thursday advocating sanitary sewers and water lines only. The motion was defeated 4-1. (AF

Village Board May Okay Oakton Improvement Monday

One of the most controversial projects in Arlington Heights' history — the improvement of Oakton st.—may finally be okayed Monday by the village board of trustees.

At a public hearing last Thursday, the board of local improvements approved a resolution calling for paving and widening of the street from Yale ave. to State rd.

THE RESOLUTION recommends village trustees pass an ordinance giving the improvement board authority to go ahead with the $269,000 project.

Thursday's action brings to an apparent end debate dating back nearly two years.

Many felt the street should be widened to a 40-foot major thoroughfare and extended from Wilke rd. to Rand rd. Others wanted the street left as it is, merely resurfacing it where necessary.

The board of local improvements has now decided the east-west street will have curbs, gutters and sidewalks, and be widened to 30 feet, two inches. There were no residents objecting to these standards Thursday.

MOST RECENT objection to the improvement came from home owners who questioned the need for sidewalks. It was resolved sidewalks would be installed on both sides of the street, with all possible steps being taken to preserve trees.

Tentative spread for the special assessment project has been made by Robert Bishop, a former village trustee. It is available for residents' inspection.

The improvement of Oakton st. is expected to better the flow of traffic on the village's north side and to make the area more accessible to police and fire vehicles. (AF

The Christian Way

By Rev. Don L. Jones, Pastor, The Christian Church of Arlington Heights

Albert Einstein once remarked, "The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. The man to whom that emotion is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder or stand rapt in awe is as good as dead!" A great many people have lost this gracious sense of mystery in a conceit of understanding, and thus have impoverished their lives.

For such persons worship is a necessity! Worship restores our capacity for wonder. It renews that spiritual vision which enables us to see back of the appearances and beneath the surface of visible things a Divine Spirit. Worship convinces us that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in a purely materialistic philosophy. It is basic to life, therefore, and they are wise who participate in it regularly.

The Christian Way

By Rev. Don L. Jones, Pastor, The Christian Church of Arlington Heights

Albert Einstein once remarked, "The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. The man to whom that emotion is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder or stand rapt in awe is as good as dead!" A great many people have lost this gracious sense of mystery in a conceit of understanding, and thus have impoverished their lives.

For such persons worship is a necessity! Worship restores our capacity for wonder. It renews that spiritual vision which enables us to see back of the appearances and beneath the surface of visible things a Divine Spirit. Worship convinces us that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in a purely materialistic philosophy. It is basic to life, therefore, and they are wise who participate in it regularly.

Do not say, "Be that as it will," to express possibility. Say, "Be that as it MAY."

Distinguish between ERUPTION (a breaking out) and IRRUPTION (a breaking in). Thus, "The eruption of the volcano brought destruction to the village." "The irruption of the waters destroyed the homes on the coast."

Parades, Picnics, Proms Pre-occupy Party Planners

The traditional parade-and-picnic holiday weekend was prom-and-party time, too, and almost everyone in town was caught in one whirl or the other. Even the weather was busy and the up again-down again antics of mercury and rain clods reshuffled plans for many outdoor events.

A simple family celebration at 411 S. Walnut Sunday was no doubt one of the happiest in town. Although the main purpose was to honor Martin Gabrielsen upon his confirmation in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church, there was thanksgiving, too, for the returning health of Martin's father.

In mid-April Gabrielsen and a neighbor, Thomas Donohue of 709 S. Chestnut, were caught in an explosion in the basement of the Gabrielsen home, 718 S. Chestnut. The blast nearly cost the lives of the two men and so damaged the home that the Gabrielsen family has since been housed in the former rectory on S. Walnut.

After surviving repeated crisis caused by shock, burns and multiple injuries the men have had recent extensive skin grafts which are nearly 100 per cent effective, a condition surgeons are calling miraculous. The families credit this to the spiritual and physical help of local friends who backed up prayers with blood donations and unceasing efforts to ease the lot of the violently displaced Gabrielsens.

Both men are still hospitalized but in fine spirits, knowing that whatever can be done for their families is being done by truly good neighbors. The celebration for young Martin Sunday included his grandparents, the E. J. Martins of Chicago; his sponsor, Tom Sedgwick of Glenview and Tom's parents, and the joy was by courtesy, Mrs. Gabrielsen says, of the best friends anyone ever had.

CLIFFORD Peeke, son of the Richard Peekes, 13 S. Ridge, was also among Sunday's confirmands in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church who were honored at a family celebration. Here from Chicago for the occasion were Clifford's grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Huhnke; his uncle and godfather, Richard Strass with his family; and his sponsor, Uncle James Huhnke. An aunt, Mrs. Stanley Poznan of Arlington Poznan of Arlington Heights is Clifford's godmother and with her family joined the party for her nephew.

In the Jack Guilfoil home, 801 S. Chestnut, a family party Sunday honored Gail, who made her first communion last week, and Colleen who was confirmed Sunday two days after her ninth birthday. Congratulations were doubled and redoubled since the party also commemorated the confirmation of James Wist for whom Mr. Guilfoil was a sponsor.

The Wist family, 837 S. Vail, was part of the celebration that included Gail's and Colleen's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Schneider, and their uncle and aunt who are Colleen's sponsors, the James Gaffneys, all of St. Charles.

FRIDAY NIGHT Colleen was the happy victim of a surprise birthday party given for her by Cindy Vinberg, 825 S. Chestnut. It was a so-called slumber party and Colleen's surprise was matched by that of the man of the house when he returned from a fishing trip early Saturday morning to find his living room floor inhabited.

The greeetings he received from his own daughter were echoed by Barbara Rumatz, Gail Guilfoil, Colleen Kelly, Joan Sterling and the guest of honor. The six giggly insomniacs had enjoyed cake, ice cream, popcorn balls and about five hours of sleep when their host arrived.

Breakfast was the next most logical thing to more sleep and after an attempt at the latter, the former was dispensed and the party was over.

Mr. Vinberg had a week of angling in Cable, Wis. with local friends, John Kitch and Charles Mallon. The men report a near-record catch of pan fish but they are of the frost-formed opinion that the big ones were out looking for warmer water.

Another local field-and-stream enthusiast, Roland Weide, 204 W. Fremont, is trying his luck in one of the Red Lakes of Canada this week.

MARY LEE JACK was 9 years old Thursday, postponed celebrating until Saturday and then entertained neighborhood girl friends and cousins at an afternoon party in her home, 642 S. Evergreen. There were nine guests to wish Mary Lee a happy number nine. Sunday was another big day, beginning with the young lady's attendance at the performance of the celebrated Paulist choir in the old St. Marys church of Chicago.

A festive luncheon hosted by Mary Lee's Grandfather Jack at Henrici's in O'Hare Inn was next and then Mary Lee returned here with the family to prepare for her confirmation in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church in the evening.

CAROLE WRIGHT, with an assist from Joy Metz, was hostess Saturday evening at a surprise birthday party for classmate Gary Holzeck. Gary was 14 and thoroughly caught off guard by the "Surprise!" shout of Peggy Bliss, Joan Bierma, Alice Grisell, Julie Kehe, John Shively, Greg Inman, Bob Brown, Steve Clark and George Wilcox. There was dancing, games and of course lots of food to entertain and nourish the dozen dervishes at 301 N. Derbyshire.

Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

Greetings from the family here were via a timely phone call.

David Grashorn celebrated his seventh birthday with seven local buddies at an afternoon party Saturday in the Grashorn home, 817 S. Walnut.

RECENT activities in the Charles Wrobel household, 616 W. George, included a family dinner celebration of the May 22 birthday of Mr. Wrobel, the return home Saturday of Marquette university scholar, Jerry, and the celebration in Chicago last evening of the senior Mrs. Wrobel's birthday.

Jerry, who missed his Dad's birthday party but not Grandmother Wrobel's, has completed his second year at Marquette and is looking forward to the summertime activities of the local SCUBA club.

Mrs. J. C. Plank of Jamestown, N. Y. arrived here Sunday for a brief stay with her son and daughter-in-law, the Evrell Planks, 609 Catino. She accompanied them Wednesday to Northfield, Minn. to attend baccalaureate services today and the graduation tomorrow of her grandson, Don, from Carleton college. Don will return here with his parents and grandmother immediately following his graduation and begin work in the Crystal Lake research laboratory of the Pure Oil Co.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frieburg, Jr., 1303 E. Eastman, and the senior Frieburgs of Leroy, Ill. attended the American Institute of Banking banquet for its graduates a week ago Tuesday night. The local Mr. Frieburg had completed a 3-year course of study with the institute and was among the graduates. His parents enjoyed the banquet ceremonies in the Morrison hotel with their son and daughter-in-law, then returned here with them for an overnight stay.

SARA JANE Precilio is expected home at 739 S. Dunton tomorrow as the school year ends for her at St. Mary college in Milwaukee.

Unpacking is the vogue, too, in the Edward Hirons household, 1020 N. Chestnut, where two collegiate family members are happily settling down for the summer. Peggy arrived last Thursday from Marycrest college in Davenport and her brother is expected today from Dubuque where he attends Loras college.

Eighteen Windsor Heights couples wound up the round robin bridge season a week ago Saturday evening with a gala dinner party at the Hearthstone in Palatine. Each season's winners become chairmen of the next year's round robin and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schaller, 306 N. Carlyle, have that honor for the 1961-62 bridge-playing year.

The continuity of the sessions just completed was by courtesy of former champions, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cannon, 315 N. Carlyle.

MRS. ROBERT Wright, 301 N. Derbyshire, was the recent guest of honor at a surprise luncheon and baby shower given by 10 neighborhood friends in the Robert Metz home, 412 N. Carlyle. The co-guest of honor will take his or her Wrightful place in the household at 301 N. Derbyshire about mid-July.

A week ago Tuesday afternoon and last Thursday morning neighbors on the 1000 block of S. Dunton said final goodbyes to Mrs. John Nesslar, then of 1006 S. Dunton, now of Dallas. Tuesday in the Alva Roeske home, 1047 S. Dunton, 10 of the women on the block lunched together for the last time and Thursday's "coffee and" for the whole neighborhood in the John Kitch home, 1032 S. Dunton, was the final finale.

The Nesslars departed for Texas next day. Co-guests of honor at both parties were Mrs. W. L. Vinberg, Mrs. Elmer Spain and Mrs. Juanita Boyd, who are also leaving this summer but with no definite leaving-taking dates yet.

MRS. AUGUST Krause, 122 S. Pine, recently returned from three weeks in Sarasota, Fla., bringing with her a former Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Harry Rupple. Mrs. Rupple in recent years has wintered in Florida, returning to the Chicago area for the summer, and Mrs. Krause, a longtime acquaintance, flew to Florida to drive her friend here.

During a sightseeing tour of the famed Jungle Gardens of Sarasota, Mrs. Krause and Mrs. Rupple enjoyed an unplanned reunion with the A. E. Goldthwaites of Scarsdale, former neighbors of Mrs. Rupple whom she hadn't seen for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Schwartz, 205 E. Euclid, and the Harley Ungers, 301 S. Dunton, were recent weekend guests of the Carl Goodsmiths of Michigan and they are since calling one another, "The Islanders."

Their hosts are co-owners with 15 other couples of an island off of Mt. Clemens in Lake St. Clair, and during the gala weekend the local islanders were guests of everyone on the hospitable bit of floating land. A cocktail party awaiting their arrival Friday evening introduced the Schwartzes and Ungers all around and preceded dinner at "Brownies" on the St. Clair shore.

Transportation was via the Goodsmiths' cabin cruiser and Mr. Schwartz, a landlubber from 'way back, announced greenly he'd walk after this. The warm welcome at Brownies which reunited the Schwartzes with Mr. and Mrs. Brown, whom they'd previously met in Florida, restored the landlubber's color. Next evening the group dined at another lake shore restaurant owned by another Florida friend, a man known only and always as "Friendly Freddy." The trip was again by cruiser, co-piloted by Schwartz and one of his hosts, Roy Sandstrom. Dinner was preceded by the christening of "Tug O'War," a cabin cruiser newly acquired by Capt. and Mrs. Padgett, next door neighbors of the Goodsmiths.

The traditional parade-and-picnic holiday weekend was prom-and-party time, too, and almost everyone in town was caught in one whirl or the other. Even the weather was busy and the up again-down again antics of mercury and rain clods reshuffled plans for many outdoor events.

A simple family celebration at 411 S. Walnut Sunday was no doubt one of the happiest in town. Although the main purpose was to honor Martin Gabrielsen upon his confirmation in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church, there was thanksgiving, too, for the returning health of Martin's father.

In mid-April Gabrielsen and a neighbor, Thomas Donohue of 709 S. Chestnut, were caught in an explosion in the basement of the Gabrielsen home, 718 S. Chestnut. The blast nearly cost the lives of the two men and so damaged the home that the Gabrielsen family has since been housed in the former rectory on S. Walnut.

After surviving repeated crisis caused by shock, burns and multiple injuries the men have had recent extensive skin grafts which are nearly 100 per cent effective, a condition surgeons are calling miraculous. The families credit this to the spiritual and physical help of local friends who backed up prayers with blood donations and unceasing efforts to ease the lot of the violently displaced Gabrielsens.

Both men are still hospitalized but in fine spirits, knowing that whatever can be done for their families is being done by truly good neighbors. The celebration for young Martin Sunday included his grandparents, the E. J. Martins of Chicago; his sponsor, Tom Sedgwick of Glenview and Tom's parents, and the joy was by courtesy, Mrs. Gabrielsen says, of the best friends anyone ever had.

CLIFFORD Peeke, son of the Richard Peekes, 13 S. Ridge, was also among Sunday's confirmands in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church who were honored at a family celebration. Here from Chicago for the occasion were Clifford's grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Huhnke; his uncle and godfather, Richard Strass with his family; and his sponsor, Uncle James Huhnke. An aunt, Mrs. Stanley Poznan of Arlington Poznan of Arlington Heights is Clifford's godmother and with her family joined the party for her nephew.

In the Jack Guilfoil home, 801 S. Chestnut, a family party Sunday honored Gail, who made her first communion last week, and Colleen who was confirmed Sunday two days after her ninth birthday. Congratulations were doubled and redoubled since the party also commemorated the confirmation of James Wist for whom Mr. Guilfoil was a sponsor.

The Wist family, 837 S. Vail, was part of the celebration that included Gail's and Colleen's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Schneider, and their uncle and aunt who are Colleen's sponsors, the James Gaffneys, all of St. Charles.

FRIDAY NIGHT Colleen was the happy victim of a surprise birthday party given for her by Cindy Vinberg, 825 S. Chestnut. It was a so-called slumber party and Colleen's surprise was matched by that of the man of the house when he returned from a fishing trip early Saturday morning to find his living room floor inhabited.

The greeetings he received from his own daughter were echoed by Barbara Rumatz, Gail Guilfoil, Colleen Kelly, Joan Sterling and the guest of honor. The six giggly insomniacs had enjoyed cake, ice cream, popcorn balls and about five hours of sleep when their host arrived.

Breakfast was the next most logical thing to more sleep and after an attempt at the latter, the former was dispensed and the party was over.

Mr. Vinberg had a week of angling in Cable, Wis. with local friends, John Kitch and Charles Mallon. The men report a near-record catch of pan fish but they are of the frost-formed opinion that the big ones were out looking for warmer water.

Another local field-and-stream enthusiast, Roland Weide, 204 W. Fremont, is trying his luck in one of the Red Lakes of Canada this week.

MARY LEE JACK was 9 years old Thursday, postponed celebrating until Saturday and then entertained neighborhood girl friends and cousins at an afternoon party in her home, 642 S. Evergreen. There were nine guests to wish Mary Lee a happy number nine. Sunday was another big day, beginning with the young lady's attendance at the performance of the celebrated Paulist choir in the old St. Marys church of Chicago.

A festive luncheon hosted by Mary Lee's Grandfather Jack at Henrici's in O'Hare Inn was next and then Mary Lee returned here with the family to prepare for her confirmation in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church in the evening.

CAROLE WRIGHT, with an assist from Joy Metz, was hostess Saturday evening at a surprise birthday party for classmate Gary Holzeck. Gary was 14 and thoroughly caught off guard by the "Surprise!" shout of Peggy Bliss, Joan Bierma, Alice Grisell, Julie Kehe, John Shively, Greg Inman, Bob Brown, Steve Clark and George Wilcox. There was dancing, games and of course lots of food to entertain and nourish the dozen dervishes at 301 N. Derbyshire.

Greetings from the family here were via a timely phone call.

David Grashorn celebrated his seventh birthday with seven local buddies at an afternoon party Saturday in the Grashorn home, 817 S. Walnut.

RECENT activities in the Charles Wrobel household, 616 W. George, included a family dinner celebration of the May 22 birthday of Mr. Wrobel, the return home Saturday of Marquette university scholar, Jerry, and the celebration in Chicago last evening of the senior Mrs. Wrobel's birthday.

Jerry, who missed his Dad's birthday party but not Grandmother Wrobel's, has completed his second year at Marquette and is looking forward to the summertime activities of the local SCUBA club.

Mrs. J. C. Plank of Jamestown, N. Y. arrived here Sunday for a brief stay with her son and daughter-in-law, the Evrell Planks, 609 Catino. She accompanied them Wednesday to Northfield, Minn. to attend baccalaureate services today and the graduation tomorrow of her grandson, Don, from Carleton college. Don will return here with his parents and grandmother immediately following his graduation and begin work in the Crystal Lake research laboratory of the Pure Oil Co.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frieburg, Jr., 1303 E. Eastman, and the senior Frieburgs of Leroy, Ill. attended the American Institute of Banking banquet for its graduates a week ago Tuesday night. The local Mr. Frieburg had completed a 3-year course of study with the institute and was among the graduates. His parents enjoyed the banquet ceremonies in the Morrison hotel with their son and daughter-in-law, then returned here with them for an overnight stay.

SARA JANE Precilio is expected home at 739 S. Dunton tomorrow as the school year ends for her at St. Mary college in Milwaukee.

Unpacking is the vogue, too, in the Edward Hirons household, 1020 N. Chestnut, where two collegiate family members are happily settling down for the summer. Peggy arrived last Thursday from Marycrest college in Davenport and her brother is expected today from Dubuque where he attends Loras college.

Eighteen Windsor Heights couples wound up the round robin bridge season a week ago Saturday evening with a gala dinner party at the Hearthstone in Palatine. Each season's winners become chairmen of the next year's round robin and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schaller, 306 N. Carlyle, have that honor for the 1961-62 bridge-playing year.

The continuity of the sessions just completed was by courtesy of former champions, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cannon, 315 N. Carlyle.

MRS. ROBERT Wright, 301 N. Derbyshire, was the recent guest of honor at a surprise luncheon and baby shower given by 10 neighborhood friends in the Robert Metz home, 412 N. Carlyle. The co-guest of honor will take his or her Wrightful place in the household at 301 N. Derbyshire about mid-July.

A week ago Tuesday afternoon and last Thursday morning neighbors on the 1000 block of S. Dunton said final goodbyes to Mrs. John Nesslar, then of 1006 S. Dunton, now of Dallas. Tuesday in the Alva Roeske home, 1047 S. Dunton, 10 of the women on the block lunched together for the last time and Thursday's "coffee and" for the whole neighborhood in the John Kitch home, 1032 S. Dunton, was the final finale.

The Nesslars departed for Texas next day. Co-guests of honor at both parties were Mrs. W. L. Vinberg, Mrs. Elmer Spain and Mrs. Juanita Boyd, who are also leaving this summer but with no definite leaving-taking dates yet.

MRS. AUGUST Krause, 122 S. Pine, recently returned from three weeks in Sarasota, Fla., bringing with her a former Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Harry Rupple. Mrs. Rupple in recent years has wintered in Florida, returning to the Chicago area for the summer, and Mrs. Krause, a longtime acquaintance, flew to Florida to drive her friend here.

During a sightseeing tour of the famed Jungle Gardens of Sarasota, Mrs. Krause and Mrs. Rupple enjoyed an unplanned reunion with the A. E. Goldthwaites of Scarsdale, former neighbors of Mrs. Rupple whom she hadn't seen for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Schwartz, 205 E. Euclid, and the Harley Ungers, 301 S. Dunton, were recent weekend guests of the Carl Goodsmiths of Michigan and they are since calling one another, "The Islanders."

Their hosts are co-owners with 15 other couples of an island off of Mt. Clemens in Lake St. Clair, and during the gala weekend the local islanders were guests of everyone on the hospitable bit of floating land. A cocktail party awaiting their arrival Friday evening introduced the Schwartzes and Ungers all around and preceded dinner at "Brownies" on the St. Clair shore.

Transportation was via the Goodsmiths' cabin cruiser and Mr. Schwartz, a landlubber from 'way back, announced greenly he'd walk after this. The warm welcome at Brownies which reunited the Schwartzes with Mr. and Mrs. Brown, whom they'd previously met in Florida, restored the landlubber's color. Next evening the group dined at another lake shore restaurant owned by another Florida friend, a man known only and always as "Friendly Freddy." The trip was again by cruiser, co-piloted by Schwartz and one of his hosts, Roy Sandstrom. Dinner was preceded by the christening of "Tug O'War," a cabin cruiser newly acquired by Capt. and Mrs. Padgett, next door neighbors of the Goodsmiths.

As the weekend ended, the local quartet was completely converted to life on the bounding main, especially after Schwartz determined that Lake St. Clair is quite shallow and he could indeed walk if he was so disposed, or indisposed.

Licensing Solicitors Is Unresolved Problem

Rap Go-Carts In Report By Safety Group

Results of a limited survey by the National Safety Council show go-karts are the chief problem related to miniature motor vehicle accidents.

According to NSC figures, 32 persons have been killed in accidents involving go-karts and 179 individuals reported in 160 mishaps.

Thirteen fatalities occurred while the karts operated on the public thoroughfares and another 13 injured in 11 accidents.

Eight persons were killed in accidents involving go-karts on private property and 18 others injured in 16 accidents.

Only four fatalities were recorded on tracks operated especially for go-karts, the survey shows. Thirty-seven other people were unjured in 20 go-kart mishaps on the special tracks.

The report points out that 15 of the fatal accidents and 15 of the personal injury accidents in which the age of the driver is known involved drivers under normal driver licensing age.

EIGHT of the fatal accidents and 20 of the injury accidents involved drivers over 16 years of age, the report states. The youngest driver involved in a fatal accident was 4 and another fatal accident involved a driver, 5.

There was evidence in the reported accidents that three of the fatals and 8 of the personal injury accidents occurred while the vehicles were being raced.

Seventeen of the fatal accidents occurred while the vehicles were not racing, as did 20 of the personal injuries.

The National Safety Council in 1960 went on record as opposing the use of miniature motor vehicles, go-karts, by drivers below the licensing age.

The recent survey is the result of 400 replies to over 1500 inquiries to state and city traffic inventory representatives and 1800 newspapers.

"It was realized that this was a hit-or-miss procedure and that only partial information would be forthcoming." the report explains. "However, information on a fraction of the accidents would assist in better defining the problems attending use of these vehicles.

SOME 35 police and traffic representatives supplied reports attesting the go-karts create a "nuisance."

While there are some tracks attemping to provide a supervised opportunity for operation of go-karts, the report indicates there are two cases where injured persons instituted civil damage suits against track owners. One suit was for $101,505; the other was for $253,000. (A-14

Villages Ponder Salesmen Control

by BOB CUMMINS

With the coming of warm days, the tramping feet and tinkling bells of vendors and door-to-door salesmen return in force to suburban communities.

They will be greeted with a mixed reaction.

Some housewives, harassed in their chores by the constantly ringing doorbell, will say "No" in a less than gracious manner.

But their children will yell in delight when they hear the seductive music of the ice cream vendor's bell.

Almost every village has an ordinance to regulate the activities of vendors and door-to-door solicitors. Usually these ordinances require that vendors and solicitors be fingerprinted. The fingerprints are sent to state or federal authorities for a check for possible criminal records. After this procedure the vendor or salesman may be issued a license, after payment of a fee.

Each summer usually produces a rash of challenges to this procedure.

Already this year, in Elk Grove Village, the head of a circulation team for a metropolitan newspaper has told the village that his crew will not register, and that his company will fight the law in court if necessary.

LAST WEEK, the Elk Grove Village attorney advised the village board that it would be difficult to force compliance since the newspaper had already won a state Supreme court verdict on the basis that a similar law abridged freedom of the press.

The village of Roselle on May 8 toned down its solicitation ordinance by removing the requirement for fingerprinting. Police Chief George Pieper reported that a dozen solicitors had registered in the village the following week, and opined that "the word had got around" about Roselle's softer ordinance.

Village officials say strict ordinances are [illegible] to protect citizens from fraudulence or worse.

Police Chief Ed Clifford of Elk Grove Village has cited examples taken from state files. One man who applied for a license to solicit for a landscaping firm had a criminal record as a narcotics peddler, the record showed. A fence salesman [illegible] a solicitor's license had been arrested on three occasions on rape charges, had been convicted twice, and had served two prison terms.

Harold Appleby, Mount Prospect village manager, recalls a sad case (it did not happen in Mount Prospect) where a door-to-door solicitor persuaded the father of 16 children to sign purchase papers for an $800 "fire protection" device which had little or no value.

As a result of complaints last winter, Arlington Heights police arrested a solicitor for a pots and pans firm for doing business in the village without a license. The solicitor was fined $200 in justice court.

On the other hand, some of the best known and respected names in American retailing have operated on a door-to-door selling basis, among them Fuller brushes, Realsilk hosiery, Avon cosmetics, and Jewel Tea. Obviously they have large numbers of customers who welcome their visits.

In attempting to steer a course in regulating vending and soliciting, villages run into ticklish questions.

Omar Bakeries, which delivered cakes and pastries to Elk Grove Village customers, convinced the court that its drivers were not peddlers after it refused to apply for a license in 1959. The bakery contended its drivers were not peddlers because they did not hawk their wares and because the company had extensive permanent properties — namely, a bakery in Milwaukee and a distribution center in Libertyville.

Ed Hofert, attorney for Elk Grove Village, says that challenges to village regulations generally come under two broad headings.

One is the challenge that the paragraphs in the state's Cities and Villages act, which give municipalities the power to regulate in this field, do not mention solicitors—that is, persons who go from door to door taking orders for future delivery.

The other area in which laws are challenged is the field of freedoms of the press, religion and politics guaranteed by state and federal constitutions.

The most recent case in which a court upheld the contention that a municipality does not have the power to regulate solicitors was Osborn vs. River Forest.

JAMES Mackin, attorney for the city of Rolling Meadows, has been active in preparing and suggesting an amendment to the cities and villages act which would close this gap.

"The state law goes back to 1872," Mackin says, "It can be argued," he continues, "that the power to regulate solicitors is implied by different sections of the statute, but the addition of a new section specifically dealing with solicitors would be desirable."

A recent case in which freedom of the press was the issue is recalled by Jack Siegel, a member of the Louis Ancel law firm which specializes in municipal law.

Siegel says that in the case of Kozul vs. Blue Island the court ruled that the sale of magazines from door to door by Jehovah's Witnesses could not be licensed by the municipality of Blue Island.

Other difficult questions occur to lawyers concerned with these ordinances. Suppose fingerprints reveal that an applicant has been convicted of some felony? Since he has already served a sentence for his crime, his debt to society presumably has been paid. Can he be punished again by being refused a license? Interestingly, although most ordinances specify fingerprinting and a check for a criminal record, they do not prescribe that licenses be withheld if a criminal record is discovered.

Thus, the problem of regulating street sales provides an echo, in its own particular field, of the general problem of laws—how to protect the welfare of the community while maintaining the rights of the indivudual.

Experience and the search for the answers will surely lead to new laws and changes in the old ones. The final solution has not been provided yet, and may never be. (A-14

Licensing Solicitors Is Unresolved Problem

Rap Go-Carts In Report By Safety Group

Results of a limited survey by the National Safety Council show go-karts are the chief problem related to miniature motor vehicle accidents.

According to NSC figures, 32 persons have been killed in accidents involving go-karts and 179 individuals reported in 160 mishaps.

Thirteen fatalities occurred while the karts operated on the public thoroughfares and another 13 injured in 11 accidents.

Eight persons were killed in accidents involving go-karts on private property and 18 others injured in 16 accidents.

Only four fatalities were recorded on tracks operated especially for go-karts, the survey shows. Thirty-seven other people were unjured in 20 go-kart mishaps on the special tracks.

The report points out that 15 of the fatal accidents and 15 of the personal injury accidents in which the age of the driver is known involved drivers under normal driver licensing age.

EIGHT of the fatal accidents and 20 of the injury accidents involved drivers over 16 years of age, the report states. The youngest driver involved in a fatal accident was 4 and another fatal accident involved a driver, 5.

There was evidence in the reported accidents that three of the fatals and 8 of the personal injury accidents occurred while the vehicles were being raced.

Seventeen of the fatal accidents occurred while the vehicles were not racing, as did 20 of the personal injuries.

The National Safety Council in 1960 went on record as opposing the use of miniature motor vehicles, go-karts, by drivers below the licensing age.

The recent survey is the result of 400 replies to over 1500 inquiries to state and city traffic inventory representatives and 1800 newspapers.

"It was realized that this was a hit-or-miss procedure and that only partial information would be forthcoming." the report explains. "However, information on a fraction of the accidents would assist in better defining the problems attending use of these vehicles.

SOME 35 police and traffic representatives supplied reports attesting the go-karts create a "nuisance."

While there are some tracks attemping to provide a supervised opportunity for operation of go-karts, the report indicates there are two cases where injured persons instituted civil damage suits against track owners. One suit was for $101,505; the other was for $253,000. (A-14

Villages Ponder Salesmen Control

by BOB CUMMINS

With the coming of warm days, the tramping feet and tinkling bells of vendors and door-to-door salesmen return in force to suburban communities.

They will be greeted with a mixed reaction.

But their children will yell in delight when they hear the seductive music of the ice cream vendor's bell.

Almost every village has an ordinance to regulate the activities of vendors and door-to-door solicitors. Usually these ordinances require that vendors and solicitors be fingerprinted. The fingerprints are sent to state or federal authorities for a check for possible criminal records. After this procedure the vendor or salesman may be issued a license, after payment of a fee.

Each summer usually produces a rash of challenges to this procedure.

Already this year, in Elk Grove Village, the head of a circulation team for a metropolitan newspaper has told the village that his crew will not register, and that his company will fight the law in court if necessary.

LAST WEEK, the Elk Grove Village attorney advised the village board that it would be difficult to force compliance since the newspaper had already won a state Supreme court verdict on the basis that a similar law abridged freedom of the press.

The village of Roselle on May 8 toned down its solicitation ordinance by removing the requirement for fingerprinting. Police Chief George Pieper reported that a dozen solicitors had registered in the village the following week, and opined that "the word had got around" about Roselle's softer ordinance.

Village officials say strict ordinances are required to protect citizens from fraudulence or worse.

Police Chief Ed Clifford of Elk Grove Village has cited examples taken from state files. One man who applied for a license to solicit for a landscaping firm had a criminal record as a narcotics peddler, the record showed. A fence salesman seeking a solicitor's license had been arrested on three occasions on rape charges, had been convicted twice, and had served two prison terms.

Harold Appleby, Mount Prospect village manager, recalls a sad case (it did not happen in Mount Prospect) where a door-to-door solicitor persuaded the father of 16 children to sign purchase papers for an $800 "fire protection" device which had little or no value.

As a result of complaints last winter, Arlington Heights police arrested a solicitor for a pots and pans firm for doing business in the village without a license. The solicitor was fined $200 in justice court.

On the other hand, some of the best known and respected names in American retailing have operated on a door-to-door selling basis, among them Fuller brushes, Realsilk hosiery, Avon cosmetics, and Jewel Tea. Obviously they have large numbers of customers who welcome their visits.

In attempting to steer a course in regulating vending and soliciting, villages run into ticklish questions.

Omar Bakeries, which delivered cakes and pastries to Elk Grove Village customers, convinced the court that its drivers were not peddlers after it refused to apply for a license in 1959. The bakery contended its drivers were not peddlers because they did not hawk their wares and because the company had extensive permanent properties — namely, a bakery in Milwaukee and a distribution center in Libertyville.

Ed Hofert, attorney for Elk Grove Village, says that challenges to village regulations generally come under two broad headings.

One is the challenge that the paragraphs in the state's Cities and Villages act, which give municipalities the power to regulate in this field, do not mention solicitors—that is, persons who go from door to door taking orders for future delivery.

The other area in which laws are challenged is the field of freedoms of the press, religion and politics guaranteed by state and federal constitutions.

The most recent case in which a court upheld the contention that a municipality does not have the power to regulate solicitors was Osborn vs. River Forest.

JAMES Mackin, attorney for the city of Rolling Meadows, has been active in preparing and suggesting an amendment to the cities and villages act which would close this gap.

"The state law goes back to 1872," Mackin says, "It can be argued," he continues, "that the power to regulate solicitors is implied by different sections of the statute, but the addition of a new section specifically dealing with solicitors would be desirable."

A recent case in which freedom of the press was the issue is recalled by Jack Siegel, a member of the Louis Ancel law firm which specializes in municipal law.

Siegel says that in the case of Kozul vs. Blue Island the court ruled that the sale of magazines from door to door by Jehovah's Witnesses could not be licensed by the municipality of Blue Island.

Other difficult questions occur to lawyers concerned with these ordinances. Suppose fingerprints reveal that an applicant has been convicted of some felony? Since he has already served a sentence for his crime, his debt to society presumably has been paid. Can he be punished again by being refused a license? Interestingly, although most ordinances specify fingerprinting and a check for a criminal record, they do not prescribe that licenses be withheld if a criminal record is discovered.

Thus, the problem of regulating street sales provides an echo, in its own particular field, of the general problem of laws—how to protect the welfare of the community while maintaining the rights of the indivudual.

Experience and the search for the answers will surely lead to new laws and changes in the old ones. The final solution has not been provided yet, and may never be. (A-14

Answer to Insect Dilemmas?

Suburb Gardener Pits Bug Against Bug

Unleash Horde Of Ladybugs

by TOM EDWARDS

Eradication of insect pests with other insects — a new solution to the troubles of home gardeners and farmers for the infestations of plant lice, aphids, box elder worms and other plant destroying insects?

Such a method is being tried by W. E. Simpson of 1911 E. Dundee rd., just outside Arlington Heights near Buffalo Grove road.

He has purchased from a California firm large numbers of ladybugs and Chinese preying mantises to release about the seven acres he owns surrounding his home.

The sole diet of both of these species of insects is other insects, chiefly the sap sucking and leaf eating varieties which injure plants.

IT IS a new means (actually old to nature but new to man) of insect control, being experimented with extensively in California.

Poison sprays have been practically the only weapon devised by man to date to war against plant depredations by armies of insects.

Simpson is attacking the age-old problem at its own level, creating an army of insects to destroy those that invade man's farm crops, shade trees and flower gardens.

He figures that if it works, it will be a less expensive and troublesome means of eradication than insecticides, and more permanent. Also, the ill effects poison sprays have on beneficial forms of life, birds, helpful insects, small animals—and even on man—will be avoided.

HORDES OF aphids and plant lice last summer descended upon Simpson's numerous willow trees ringing his yard and a large pond behind the house.

"I couldn't use poison sprays because of the fish in the pond," he explained. "It would kill them, as well as the insects."

(Game fish abound in the pond, which is also used for swimming. Fish effectively eliminate the mosquito nuisance, eating the larvae before they become adults, and also eat other water breeding insects. So by riding the trees of aphids through spraying, Simpson would automatically gain a serious mosquito problem. To do away with the mosquitoes would require spraying with DDT, which in turn reduces bird life, which control still other forms of insect pests. Spraying can begin a vicious circle, and necessitate more and more spraying. DDT can also be harmful to humans.)

Last winter Simpson heard of Ladybug Sales Co. in Marysville, Calif., which will furnish hundreds of thousands of insect eating ladybugs and preying mantises. He bought two lots of ladybugs, 100,000 per lot, which measures out to about two quarts of bugs. Cost is $6.50 per 100,000.

Adult preying mantises are not available, but the company collects and sells mantis cocoons, which contain about 250 to 500 eggs and cost $1 per cocoon. They are to be tied to a limb or stake in the spring, and the eggs hatch shortly after.

In addition, the California concern supplies earthworms in lots of 1,000.

LADYBUGS, which are shipped in a straw-filled sack within a wooden crate, are to be released in small quantities several times during the growing season. The remainder are to be kept in the icebox, the cold keeping them in a dormant state. Once in the sunlight, they stretch their wings and take off.

Man and their own voraciousness is about the only enemy of both the ladybug and preying mantis. They have a bitter taste and a disagreeable odor, so are shunned as table morsels by birds and other insects. Neither do the two species prey on each other.

Poison spray is the worst enemy of both bugs. Also, they can never build up to such numbers that they become obnoxious, for they will run out of other insects to eat, then will starve.

Ants are one insect that ladybugs and mantises leave alone, for their taste is as disagreeable as their own.

Mantises aren't at all attractive as are the gracious ladybugs. They also eject a dark but harmless fluid from their mouths.

The Chinese mantis are giants compared to the small native mantises. The female may grow to a length of five inches. They are able to consume large caterpillars, beetles, wasps and even grasshoppers, and therefore, should not be placed near beehives.

As long as there is food available, both predators will remain in the immediate area where they are released.

ANOTHER advantage over spraying, the distributor of the bugs points out, is that they are not washed away by rain as are poison sprays. And they replenish themselves. If there is plenty to eat, 4,000 ladybugs on an acre of ground will multiply to 400,000. Lifespan of the ladybug is one year, and the adult bug hibernates over the winter in compost piles and heaps of leaves.

They come in small packages of 15,000 ($1.25) and 30,000 (2) for the average small vegetable garden or a few rose bushes about the yard.

The distributing company states that the bugs are effective for practically any farm crop, gobbling boll weavil worms, corn borers and leafhoppers, eating the adult bugs and their larvae and eggs. Larger applications are needed for orchards. They should be first applied as soon as there is foliage.

THE BUGS should be released directly on infected plants, or in the case of orchards and grain fields, in their center.

The ladybug (of which there are about 600 species) lays her eggs in clusters under a leaf or stem. The larvae feed on mites for the first few days. After about 21 days, they spin a case around themselves (pupae), from which the adult emerges. Simpson reports that the bugs cannot be raised, but are collected in vast numbers in mountains during hibernation.

Organic gardeners will have the most luck with the ladybug, as it seeks the protection of mulch.

It is in earth containing much organic matter that the "most important of all animals," the earthworm, thrives. "Without them there would be no life on earth," declares the company.

IT'S EXPLAINED that worms "produce a rich, permanent fertilizer with their castings, and loosen and condition the soil."

"Kitchen refuse from a family of two persons will feed thousands of worms. The mature worm sheds a capsule containing up to 20 wormlets every four to six days. They reach maturity between 70 and 90 days and live law years."

There are many other beneficial insects, and it is recommended that gardeners become familiar with them.

It is fascinating that, in an age when man is seeking to conquer the universe, he still finds that he's just beginning to learn how to live on this earth.

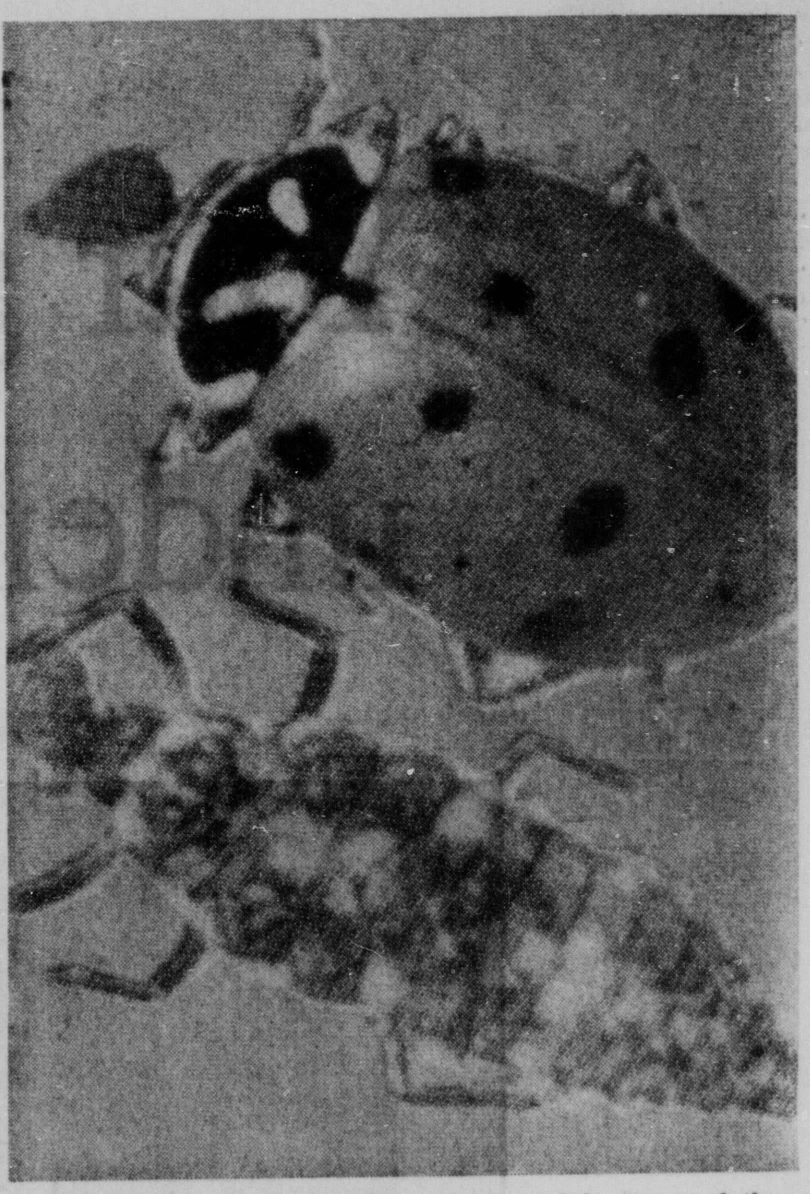
A LARGE POND on the W. E. Simpson place on Dundee road is ringed with willows which are infested with aphids. In an effort to halt their depredations, he is releasing ladybugs and preying mantises, insects which devour plant eating insects in large numbers. Simpson stands on a bridge which connects the shore wtih an island. His home can be seen in the background.



EVERYONE IS FAMILIAR with the adult stage of the ladybug. In the larval stage the insect is long and slender. Both larvae and adults consume other insects as their sole diet.

W. E. Simpson Possesses A Quick, Voracious Mind

W. E. Simpson's interest in using ladybugs to control insect pests (accompanying story) is only one of a great many interests he has.

His mind appears to be a voracious one that hungerly probes into practically everything that comes to his attention.

A CHEMICAL engineer, he owns and manages the Mykroy electronic supply and manufacturing company on Wheeling road in Wheeling's industrial park.

He is a qualified pilot, a skier and garden enthusiast. Also, he collects minerals, sea shells, sponges—and does not smoke or drink.

His three-acre yard contains a large pond in which he keeps ducks and fish. On four adjoining acres he keeps three horses. He gets a kick out of trying to raise exotic plants in his yard.

Most interesting is his business, supplying 10,000 items, including 500 imported ones. Simpson's salesmen call upon 1,000 business concerns in a 400-mile radius of the plant, and he does some exporting.

But besides electronic parts and household equipment, he dabbles in marketing such things as far fetched as horse-drawn buggies. He buys them at auctions, refurbishes and sells them.

In addition, he supplies go-carts, power mowers, backyard utility sheds, and Lone Ranger playtents. And he can even give pony rides.

SIMPSON'S business calling card contains a list of Chicago expressway entrances and exits, originally believed to be about the only such list available to the public. (There aren't even signs directing traffic to the expressway egresses—although there are plenty showing how to get on to the tollway). The card is being copied already.

His friends include persons from as far away as Japan.

Where does he get time? He runs, often not even stopping for lunch. And he has fun doing it. (A-14

Answer to Insect Dilemmas?

Unleash Horde Of Ladybugs

by TOM EDWARDS

Eradication of insect pests with other insects — a new solution to the troubles of home gardeners and farmers for the infestations of plant lice, aphids, box elder worms and other plant destroying insects?

Such a method is being tried by W. E. Simpson of 1911 E. Dundee rd., just outside Arlington Heights near Buffalo Grove road.

He has purchased from a California firm large numbers of ladybugs and Chinese preying mantises to release about the seven acres he owns surrounding his home.

The sole diet of both of these species of insects is other insects, chiefly the sap sucking and leaf eating varieties which injure plants.

IT IS a new means (actually old to nature but new to man) of insect control, being experimented with extensively in California.

Poison sprays have been practically the only weapon devised by man to date to war against plant depredations by armies of insects.

Simpson is attacking the age-old problem at its own level, creating an army of insects to destroy those that invade man's farm crops, shade trees and flower gardens.

He figures that if it works, it will be a less expensive and troublesome means of eradication than insecticides, and more permanent. Also, the ill effects poison sprays have on beneficial forms of life, birds, helpful insects, small animals—and even on man—will be avoided.

HORDES OF aphids and plant lice last summer descended upon Simpson's numerous willow trees ringing his yard and a large pond behind the house.

"I couldn't use poison sprays because of the fish in the pond," he explained. "It would kill them, as well as the insects."

(Game fish abound in the pond, which is also used for swimming. Fish effectively eliminate the mosquito nuisance, eating the larvae before they become adults, and also eat other water breeding insects. So by riding the trees of aphids through spraying, Simpson would automatically gain a serious mosquito problem. To do away with the mosquitoes would require spraying with DDT, which in turn reduces bird life, which control still other forms of insect pests. Spraying can begin a vicious circle, and necessitate more and more spraying. DDT can also be harmful to humans.)

Last winter Simpson heard of Ladybug Sales Co. in Marysville, Calif., which will furnish hundreds of thousands of insect eating ladybugs and preying mantises. He bought two lots of ladybugs, 100,000 per lot, which measures out to about two quarts of bugs. Cost is $6.50 per 100,000.

Adult preying mantises are not available, but the company collects and sells mantis cocoons, which contain about 250 to 500 eggs and cost $1 per cocoon. They are to be tied to a limb or stake in the spring, and the eggs hatch shortly after.

In addition, the California concern supplies earthworms in lots of 1,000.

LADYBUGS, which are shipped in a straw-filled sack within a wooden crate, are to be released in small quantities several times during the growing season. The remainder are to be kept in the icebox, the cold keeping them in a dormant state. Once in the sunlight, they stretch their wings and take off.

Man and their own voraciousness is about the only enemy of both the ladybug and preying mantis. They have a bitter taste and a disagreeable odor, so are shunned as table morsels by birds and other insects. Neither do the two species prey on each other.

Poison spray is the worst enemy of both bugs. Also, they can never build up to such numbers that they become obnoxious, for they will run out of other insects to eat, then will starve.

Ants are one insect that ladybugs and mantises leave alone, for their taste is as disagreeable as their own.

Mantises aren't at all attractive as are the gracious ladybugs. They also eject a dark but harmless fluid from their mouths.

The Chinese mantis are giants compared to the small native mantises. The female may grow to a length of five inches. They are able to consume large caterpillars, beetles, wasps and even grasshoppers, and therefore, should not be placed near beehives.

As long as there is food available, both predators will remain in the immediate area where they are released.

Tax Bills Ruinous to Bonding Power Pass

by REP. BERNARD M. PESKIN

For the second time in as many sessions, the House has passed one of the worst series of bills ever introduced in the Legislature, so far as we in Cook County are concerned. I refer to the so-called Morris Bills sponsored by Representative John K. Morris (D-Chadwick), chairman of the House Revenue committee. The bills were passed by a coalition of downstate Democrats and Chicago and Suburban Republicans.

These bills provide that property shall be assessed at not more than 55 per cent of actual cash value as equalized. At present, property is purportedly assessed at 100 per cent of its actual cash value.

ON THEIR face the Morris Bills seem to be a tax saving measure for the homeowner, since they limit the Department of Revenue in applying County multiplier (or equalization factor) and thereby raising the total of the assessed value of property within the county. If you recall, former Governor Stratton used this device many times in order to reduce the State's contributions by way of state aid to the local school districts. Insofar as rural counties are concerned, that would be the actual effect, since the bulk of the property in those counties consists of farm land and homes, and substantial amounts are raised through personal property taxes on farm equipment, animals and stored grain.

Let me tell you what they do to us, though. We in the urban counties see the application of these bills as ruinous to the base of our bonding power and as much as a 45 per cent raise in the real estate tax on our homes. The only groups in Cook county which would be benefited by these bills are the rairoads, public utilities and Loop property owners.

SMALL WONDER then that the State Chamber of Commerce, Illinois Manufacturers association, Civic Federation and many other business groups are wholeheartedly behind the Morris Bills. This is why: the Cook county assessor has historically classified real property for the purposes of taxation, even though this is contrary to Article 9 of our constitution. Generally, the breakdown of the assessment has been on homes: one third to 40 per cent of fair cash value; on business and commercial property: 60 per cent; commercial Loop property, industrial, railroad and utilities: 80 to 100 per cent of fair cash value. As you can readily see, this last class bears a substantial portion of our entire tax breakdown.

This is the class of property that would be reduced to 55 per cent of fair cash value. The effect of doing this should be obvious to everyone. If these properties are to be reduced to 55 per cent, in order to keep our valuation at its present level the assessment on your home and my home will necessarily have to be raised to 55 per cent. Think you could take a 45 per cent increase in your real estate tax bill?

AND WHAT should happen if raising the assessments on all of the residential property still doesn't bring the valuation to its present level? We now have statutory ceilings on the tax rate. The Morris Bills would put a ceiling on the assessment rate. This would completely slam the door on our school districts and would in all probability result in our being unable to maintain our schools at their present levels. We would necessarily have to cut down on the teaching personnel and all other expenses, in connection with the operation of our schools. The same thing would happen to every other governmental unit within Cook county.

Another effect of the Morris Bills would be a general reduction of assessed valuation throughout the County and a corresonding reduction in the bonding power of each and every school district, most of whom have already reached their constitutional five per cent limitation.

Of course, the argument in favor of these bills is that all property should be assessed on the same basis, since the constitution says it should. I can't, in all good conscience, argue against this, but I do argue that this class of property is given other relief by way of passing on its costs to its users, as the cost of doing business. The homeowner has no way of passing on his real estate tax increase.

We can only hope now that the Senate will do as it did last session - defeat the bills. If they pass the Senate, then our only hope is that Governor Kerner will be made fully aware of the horrendous effect of these bills, and exercise his good judgment in vetoing them. (A14

Name 20 Additional Scholarship Winners

Twenty area graduates were named this week as additional winners of Illinois state scholarships. A total of 998 scholars were announced, bringing the total for the entire state in 1961 to 3,866 students.

In the current winner group 467 will receive financial assistance up to a maximum of $600 per year. An additional 531 will receive honorary scholarships. All winners receive certificates in recognition of their promise as college students.

LOCAL WINNERS include Susan F. Peters, 729 S. Chestnut, and Donna Quigley, 707 E. Davis, both of Arlington Heights. From Bartlett, Myrna Ellen Roth, 400 Oneida ave., was an additional winner. Three Bensenville students were named — Joyce M. Hedges, Thorndale ave.; Kristin Magnuson, 16W692 Crest ave., and Ruth Frieda Rode, 4N035 Church.

Four Mount Prospect students won awards. They are Robert L. Ryan, 410 S. Busse rd.; Thomas J. Salken, 518 S. Elmhurst rd., Sandy Lynn Schult, 808 S. Ioka, and James Edward Shaw, 216 Hi-Lusi ave. James F. Aiman, 403 N. Etowah st., Prospect Heights, was also named as a winner.

In Roselle two students were selected as state scholars. They are Richard A. Glahn, 207 Town Acres lane, and Dianne G. Slavik, 317 Washington.

THE PALATINE list of winners included seven names. The students are Robert W. Gill, 375 Briarwood; Guy Williams Held, Rt. 3; Edward Rogan, 756 E. Chicago ave.; Peter Lee Sides, 1532 Alison dr.; Douglas Verdonck, 1431 S. Norman st.; Allen R. Weitzel, 328 N. Bothwell st.; and Sharon L. Ziemann, 824 S. California.

About two-thirds of the state scholars elect to attend private colleges and universities and the remaining third attend public-supported higher-educational institutions. There are 79 Illinois campuses, approved by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction for students winning state scholarships to attend.

Awards may not exceed the cost of tuition and fees, with a mamixum set at $600. This is true even though students may have need for additional funds to make college attendance possible.

Award winners are selected from semi-finalists who qualified on the results of the American College Testing program examination given November 5, 1960.

A NINE-MEMBER jury chosen for experience, integrity and good judgment assists the scholarship commission in evaluating financial need. They use a detailed system of financial analysis similar to the formula of the College Scholarship service.

The scholarship law insures geographical distribution of awards by providing for at least two scholarships within each Assembly district.

The state scholarships were established by the 1957 session of the general assembly. Awards this year were for the fourth annual competition. (A14

Three Bensenville students were named — Joyce M. Hedges, Thorndale ave.; Kristin Magnuson, 16W692 Crest ave., and Ruth Frieda Rode, 4N035 Church.

Four Mount Prospect students won awards. They are Robert L. Ryan, 410 S. Busse rd.; Thomas J. Salken, 518 S. Elmhurst rd., Sandy Lynn Schult, 808 S. Ioka, and James Edward Shaw, 216 Hi-Lusi ave. James F. Aiman, 403 N. Etowah st., Prospect Heights, was also named as a winner.

In Roselle two students were selected as state scholars. They are Richard A. Glahn, 207 Town Acres lane, and Dianne G. Slavik, 317 Washington.

THE PALATINE list of winners included seven names. The students are Robert W. Gill, 375 Briarwood; Guy Williams Held, Rt. 3; Edward Rogan, 756 E. Chicago ave.; Peter Lee Sides, 1532 Alison dr.; Douglas Verdonck, 1431 S. Norman st.; Allen R. Weitzel, 328 N. Bothwell st.; and Sharon L. Ziemann, 824 S. California.

About two-thirds of the state scholars elect to attend private colleges and universities and the remaining third attend public-supported higher-educational institutions. There are 79 Illinois campuses, approved by the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction for students winning state scholarships to attend.

Awards may not exceed the cost of tuition and fees, with a mamixum set at $600. This is true even though students may have need for additional funds to make college attendance possible.

Award winners are selected from semi-finalists who qualified on the results of the American College Testing program examination given November 5, 1960.

A NINE-MEMBER jury chosen for experience, integrity and good judgment assists the scholarship commission in evaluating financial need. They use a detailed system of financial analysis similar to the formula of the College Scholarship service.

The scholarship law insures geographical distribution of awards by providing for at least two scholarships within each Assembly district.

The state scholarships were established by the 1957 session of the general assembly. Awards this year were for the fourth annual competition. (A14

Couple Are 'Parents' to 20 Problem Boys

Rehabilitation Goal of Program

by HESTER KLINE

Imagine have a family of 20 teenage boys! The very thought is enough to send most grandparents, even parents, scurrying for the tranquilizer pills.

Go a step farther. Pick 20 youths at random, regardless of color or creed, between the ages of 16 and 18, move into a big old farmhouse with them, and work out a family-type life.

Now add a speck of challenge to the venture. Take the boys from poor environments, boys who have gotten into scrapes. Know that you are charged with shaping their lives so they will become useful members of society instead of slipping into habitual delinquency and perhaps subsequent crimes.

THAT'S WHAT Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hastings are trying to accomplish at Kankakee State Boys Camp, one of the ten forestry camps maintained throughout the state by the Illinois Youth Commission.

"It's a faith program," confided Hastings, acting camp director. There are no bars on the windows, no guards, but it's a rare instance if a boy tries to run away.

The Hastings' own children are grown. A son is studying for the ministry, and three them grandparents. married daughters have made

Just as parents talk to teens, the youths are fold the rules when they are assigned to the camp. The old "Mikado" philosophy of letting the punishment suit the crime is the type of discipline observed. "Taking away privileges is the most effective reminder of the rules, we have found," Hastings said.

A VISITOR wouldn't guess that some of these young men grew up in city slums, were gang members, were completely unfamiliar with the inside of a church. They have been taught correct manners.

"Good afternoon, sir," they greet a guest. Heads bow and grace is said before a meal. "Good-bye, and thank you for coming."

There is no evidence of sulleness. These small social graces are readily accepted.

These observations are, of course, generalizations, but they reflect the attitude apparent to a group from Rolling Meadows who visited the camp at Kankakee state park last week.

JOSEPH GUINTA, of the community services division of IYC headquartered in the Rolling Meadows youth office, hosted the trip in appreciation for the city's recent gift of pool tables and sports equipment to the camps.

Chamber of Commerce President Ted Small, Bert Trager, executive secretary, and Mike Sica, chairman of the retail division, took the tour, accompanied by Mrs. William Darnall, city clerk, and Mrs. Stephen Kline, news editor of the Rolling Meadows Herald.

Quarters for the boys are unquestionably drab. The IYC took over this old farmhouse and buildings last August, and campers have worked hard to improve the house and grounds.

A SEPTIC field was installed, the basement converted into a shower room and game room, trees and flowers planted, a sheltered patio constructed. It's beginning to take on a homelike appearance.

Winter months are dull. Bowling once a week and a movie about as often are year-round entertainment. Conduct at public places is above reproach, according to Hastings. "The bowling alley manager apologized to us for the disturbance some high school boys were causing one day," he related with pride.

Most boys at Kankakee camp have dropped out of school, but they welcome the three days a week when teachers from a nearby high school come to give them lessons. "We sure would like some science books," one youth admitted wistfully.

RELIGIOUS instruction and church attendance are a regular part of the program.

Work details are supervised by Maury Runyon and Edwin Boyden, and in winter months the prime chore is chopping wood for state park campers and picnickers. "When I get out," one boy threatened with a broad grin, "I'm coming to Kankakee park and build a great big bonfire. When I think of all that wood I chopped, hmmmm!"

Besides planting and cultivating a huge vegetable garden, the youths are charged with park maintenance work. They clean up after weekend picnickers, chop brush, trim trees.

Each forestry camp is conducted differently, according to age levels, facilities, size and other factors.

One thing is universal. Appetites are enormous. Perishable foods are bought locally, staples through the state purchasing office; beef is raised at the Geneva shool for girls. Average cost per meal is the fantastically low figure of 32 cents.

THE DELICIOUS fragrance of home-made rolls greeted the visitors at Kankakee. And proof that the food is good is the fact the boys tend to gain 25 to 30 pounds during their stay in camp.

The camp period varies with each case, usually six months to a year. Assignments are made on the basis of promise of rehabilitation, and a trained counselor is an important member of the staff.

At Kankakee this post is held by a young colored man, a graduate of Aurora college, where he majored in sociology and had a minor in psychology. "We get the boys for six months or a year, and they learn so much," Louis Taylor mourned, "then they go back to their old environment." It is his hard job to instill high ideals so deep in their thinking, they will be able to rise above that environment.

B8

"YOU'VVE GOT TO GET right down like this to get those weeds," the boy told his colleagues who with rakes and hoes attacked the rows of onions in the vegetable garden. "Did you work in a garden at home?" we asked him curiously. "Oh no, I was lazy before I came here," he replied.

FORESTRY CAMPERS get the biggest kick out of group games, and volley ball is a favorite. The youths at Kankakee asked to put on a demonstration game for visitors, and they were gleeful when Ted Small and Bert Trager got into the game. Sports equipment, records and books are welcome gifts to the camps.

THE BOYS ARE FOND of Maury Runyon, one of their work detail supervisors, who was checking on his crew bound for the nearby state park. Jobs are doled out, and then the supervisor tactfully conceals his close observation, building a feeling of trust and success in the boys under his direction.

Committee Meetings Open to the Public?

by HELENE BRISTOL

Are school board committee meetings open to the public or is the public barred from attendance?

This was the heart of the controversy and discussion during a Finance committee report at the Arlington - Prospect high school district 214 board of education meeting Monday night.

With the public now in attendance at every regular board meeting as the result of recent publicity about board controversy, committee meetings have served as "refuge" for board deliberations to a great extent.

Among the major issues before the board is a discussion on teachers' salaries —an issue with the board, the school administration, teachers, the press and the general public. As a result, Finance committee chairman William Spomer requested a special committee meeting, to be attended by the entire board, to resolve "philosophy of where on the salary schedule emphasis should be placed."

THE MEETING was set for Sunday, June 4, at 2 p.m. at the Arlington high school.

Dr. Eric Gross, chairman of a self-appointed citizens committee working to improve educational standards and teachers' salaries, asked if the meeting would be open to the public. A minute of stunned silence greeted the question, and finally board president Daryl Oldaker informed Dr. Gross that committee meetings never were open to the public.

Dr. Gross countered with the fact that many people in the district were interested in teachers' salaries. He stressed, "Mr. Spomer, the finance committee chairman, does not know the views of interested residents nor has he heard the report made by our committee since he was not present at any of the board meetings where such matters were discussed." He emphasized the general public would be very interested in hearing the views of board members on the subject.

After discussion, and with the emphasis that "this was not setting a precedent," it was decided the Sunday meeting would be open to everyone interested in attending as observers. The decision partly was prompted according to board members because the entire board would be present.

Member Charles Fyfe of Elk Grove Village stated a formal invitation to the public would be extended. Fyfe stressed his viewpoint that the board deliberations could be open to the public at any time as far as he was concerned.

Mrs. Gerald Chapman stated that while she felt there was no legal obligation on the part of the board to invite the public, there was no reason why the public should not be invited to attend such general board committee meetings.

Spomer, in setting up the general board attendance at the finance committee meeting, indicated Superintendent Harold L. Slichenmyer had requested a general directive from the board before preparing his final estimated 1962-63 budget since teachers' salaries account for 70 per cent of the budget expense. Spomer stated he felt Slichenmyer was right in seeking such advice.

Winston Residents Weigh Compromise

Winston Park home owners, the group raising strongest objections to the plan for relocating Rt. 53 along Wilke rd. north of Palatine rd., are willing to discuss a compromise for the route.

John Naples, 1418 S. Norman dr., Palatine, who is president of the Winston Park Northwest Community association, said his organization is willing to discuss compromise, "but our objective still is to have the state adopt plans presented at the February 16 public hearing."

The home owner group does not want the proposed six-lane interstate highway running along Wilke rd. Home owners contend the route should be located through vacant land east of Wilke rd., as called for in the previous proposal that was altered to satisfy objections by Arlington Heights.

PLANS FOR THE route released in February indicated the highway would be situated in a northeastern direction from the intersection of Palatine and Wilke rds., cutting across a 200-acre tract recently annexed by Arlington Heights.

Albert Miller, president of Miller Buiders, Inc., who plans to subdivide the area where the road would go if February plans were used, said he also is willing to discuss a compromise, but that he would make no commitments until informed of details.

Naples said he "really believed something can be worked out to the satisfaction of everyone." He added that he is "happy to see that Arlington Heights now feels willing to comromise."

Arlington Heights mayor John Woods had been adamant about the road's location along Wilke rd., which he and the council had described as a natural boundary. He indicated at the completion of Thursday's public hearing that a reconsideration might be forthcoming.

But Woods told officials of the Illinois Highway Department he could not make any commitments without consulting the Arlington Heights trustees.

NAPLES STRESSED that if there were homes on the east side of Wilke rd., "we would have no moral grounds for objection. But certainly, without homes there, we could morally justify our objections."

Although Naples said his organization of home owners would like to see the new route as far east of Wilke rd. as possible, he emphasized that it should not go so far as to be an inconvenience to other residents.

Deputy Chief Highway Engineer Roger Nusbaum, who conducted the hearing in Palatine Thursday, said those groups affected by a decision would be advised of plans. (AP

Collision Of Car, Cow Injures 3

It was a quiet Saturday morning, sunny and pleasant and peaceful as Melvin Markham drove along Illinois 62.

The time was 8:10 a. m.—the date, May 27. Markham, 18, of RR 1, Box 327, Roselle, was eastbound.

Suddenly, in front of Markham's startled view, a huge moving object appeared in view. North-south traffic came to a halt to allow the large object to pass.

Markham grew frantic as he came over the hill on to the scene, which was two miles west of Illinois 53. He swerved his wheel, attempting to avoid cars on the road.

In front of him, however, big as life and twice as placid was the huge object—a cow. The front wheels of his car struck th cow, and over into a ditch went his car.

Markham and two passengers, Warrent Markham, 13, and Leland Markham, 15, were injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital.

MARKHAM WAS charged with driving despite a suspended driver's license and with having caused $500 damage for the owner of the cow, Norm Ebert, of the Woodview farm, 2103 S. Old Plum Grove, Palatine. His vehicle suffered $800 damage.

A freak chain accident caused damage to nine cars May 20 when Betty J. Seifried, 63, of 421 Melrose, Chicago, tried to back out of a parking lot at O'Hare Inn.

Police say she apparently lost control and sideswiped five cars. These belonged to: Lewis Millhouse, Ft. Wayne; William F. Liebich, 3917 N. Ottawa, Chicago; Ray Elliott, Champaign; Jean Van Treuren, 128 N. Center, Bensenville, and a truck of the American Snowblast Corp., of Denver, Colo.

Then, according to police, the car proceeded to go forward an dstruck three other vehicles. These were owned by Marjorie Ariota, 9759 Franklin, Franklin Park; Angelina Stravos, Berwyn, and Leonard Franklin, 5048 Patterson, Chicago.

Damage to her car was $1,500; to the Millhouse car, $25; to the Liebich car, $100; to the Van Treuren car, $200; to the truck, $250; to the Ariota car, $700; to the Stravos car, $600, and to the Franklin car, $200. She was charged with backing up without safety and driving too fast for conditions.

Three cars were traveling north on State road at 10:15 p. m. May 22, when, according to state police, the first two cars stopped for a red light at Central road, two miles west of 83.

THE THIRD CAR, police said, and driven by Arthur R. Wolf, 16, of 1525 Plum Grove, Palatine, was unable to stop and rammed into the rear of the second car.

This was driven by Edward C. Holmes, 48, of 26 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, and, in turn, rammed into the rear of the car in front of it, driven by Twain Crafton, 25, of 119 W. Robinson, Palatine.

Wolf's car suffered $75 damage; Crafton's, $75 damage. Holmes was injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital.

Wolf was charged with traveling too fast for conditions.

Disregard of a traffic signal, state police said, caused an accident at 2 p. m. May 26 at US 12 at Central road, a half mile north of Illinois 58.

At this time and place, Roselle Wysocki, 42, of 607 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, was traveling eastbound. Joseph R. Stage, 44, of 1225 Mitchell, Arlington Heights was northbound on US 12.

When he ran the signal, his vehicle struck the other car. Both motorists were injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital. Damage to both cars was listed as $700. Stage was charged with disregarding a traffic signal.

Dorothy E. Fruehe, 46, of 910 Kenilworth, Lak Zurich, was charged with failure to yield right-of-way by state police.

Harry Johnson, 56, of 918 E. Main, Barrington, was traveling north on US 12 at Palatine road, two miles south of Illinois 68. The Fruehe car was southbound and making a left turn onto Palatine road.

When she failed to yield the right-of-way, police said, her vehicle struck the Johnson car. Both motorists were injured and taken to Northwest Community hospital. Damage to the Johnson car was $200; to the other, $400.

Joseph P. Mazur, 36, of 335 S. Crescent, Palatine, was unhurt, but two of his passengers were when a second vehicle struck his at Illinois 62 and 58 at 5 p. m. May 27.

POLICE STATE that the secon car, driven by Arline F. Soucek, 46, 805 Jessie, Lake in the Hills, turned left in front of the approaching car driven by Mazur, and struck it headon.

Injured were Mrs. Zofle Mazur, 32, and Anna Mazur, 13, both of whom were taken to the Northwest Community hospital. There was $400 damage to the Mauzur car, $250 damage to the other.

A crane loomed out of the horizon May 29 at 4 a. m., as Paul Urban Depot, of Medinah Country club, Medinah, was driving down Illinois 83, two miles south of Illinois 68.

Depot, police said, failed to see the construction zone on the highway and his car smashed into the crane. Both Depot and a passenger, Martin Crider, 22, of the same address, were injured and taken to the Northwest Community hospital. A total of $700 damage to the car was listed, and Depot was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

CHANGE FOR CHARITY is the plea of Dan Price and Judy Weir during the recent Prospect high school Student council charity fund drive. A total of $420 was raised for seven charities including the Northwest Family Service. Contributing during the cafeteria collection are Laurie Mariash and Gary VanderVoort. Miss Weir was chairman of the fund drive. (ACM

for their big part in the Savings Bond Program

From the very start 20 years ago, the U.S. Savings Bond Program has been lucky in having the dedicated support of thousands of American women. Their wonderful cooperation has ranged from the War Bond tours of Hollywood's brightest stars to helping to operate the Savings Stamp Program for the Nation's small fry.

The special talents of American women

Studies have shown that American women tend to be conservative with dollars. Their long look at future security is apt to be pretty practical. So for them, Bonds and the Savings Bond Program are a natural.

Thousands of husbands and fathers owe their Payroll Savings nest egg to the influence of their wives. Many a boy and girl wouldn't have a full Savings Stamp book, but for Mom. And many a Bond would not be sold, but for the army of women volunteers who put their strength behind the Savings Bond Program.

Why it's worth listening to the ladies

Every U.S. Savings Bond you buy is guaranteed to grow by Uncle Sam. Right now the interest paid you is 3¾%, if Bonds are held to maturity. Bonds are a riskless investment. If they are stolen or destroyed you get new ones free. And you can have your money back anytime you need it with interest.

Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—join the ladies in their work for a stronger Nation in Peace.

A Message from our First Lady:

During this Twentieth Anniversary Year of the U.S. Savings Bond Program we salute the volunteer spirit of the Women of America in bringing the Savings Bond message of thrift into our family lives. By buying bonds and encouraging others to do so, we help build a more secure future for ourselves and for our country. Most important, this self-discipline of regular savings helps build the spiritual strength so essential to our continued growth as individual citizens and as a Nation.

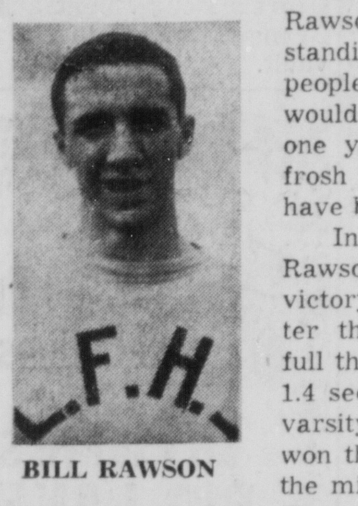
Trackmen Honored on All-State Squad

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

ONE YEAR AGO THIS WEEK Lake Forest high school's Bill Rawson was honored on Paddock Publications' fifth annual All-State track team, one of five boys selected in the 880 yard run.

Rawson was a two-time All-Stater and generally regarded as one of the finest half-milers ever produced in Illinois. The capsule comment read: "This is Rawson's second year on All-State team. He breezed to a 1:56.5 in district meet after a 1:55.1 as a junior. Outstanding college prospect."



BILL RAWSON

It was generally agreed that Rawson would develop into an outstanding collegiate runner, but few people thought the likable All-Stater would make such rapid strides over one year. His performances as a frosh at the University of Missouri have been amazing.

In a dual meet with Kansas Rawson raced to a brilliant 1:51.2 victory in the 880 yard run to shatter the school frosh record by a full three seconds. His clocking was 1.4 seconds faster than the existing varsity mark of 1:52.6. Bill then won the 440 yard dash in :49.5 and the mile run in 4:22.6.

Several weeks later Rawson lowered his quarter-mile time to :48.5 and mile standard to 4:15.6. The latter is remarkable in that he never ran the mile in high school.

Rawson's potential is unlimited. His coach feels that he needs work on his pacing but is understandably excited about the plebe's progress thus far this spring.

Bill's performances illustrate once again why college track coaches are always interested in landing the talented preps from Illinois.

And these coaches should take note of the 1961 All-Staters because this crop of young cinder talent is possibly the best ever turned out in Illinois.

WITH FOUR NEW STATE RECORDS this spring and several other outstanding marks that earned spots on the list of all-time prep bests in Illinois, one wonders just what is responsible for the tremendous improvement in track and field marks.

Shelby Himes, Honorary Referee of the 1961 state track and field meet who was head starter for 20 years, recently passed along some interesting observations.

"It's a combination of things," Hines pointed out. "The boys today are definitely bigger and stronger, and they're physically superior. In addition, the coaching has made a tremendous difference. Now you have men coaching who have the important educational backgrounds. The present status of coaching is at a very high level."

Himes also pointed out that equipment has helped considerably. "Now a track shoe is available which weighs only five ounces. Why, in years past the shoe weighed ten ounces. And the coaches are using weight programs to assist their athletes. This has been an important addition. Finally, it's obvious that the condition of tracks has also greatly improved."

Paddock's 6th Annual Team

by BOB FRISK
SPORTS EDITOR

A perennial producer of exceptional schoolboy track talent, Illinois had another banner year in 1961. Four new state records and a host of other sparkling performances were turned in by the schoolboy athletes.

These outstanding high school trackmen are honored this week on Paddock Publications' sixth annual All-State team, an honor aggregation that brings down the curtain on the prep campaign.

An All-State board headed by Paddock's sports department and Bill Beckman of Prospect high school named boys in each of 12 individual events. Five trackmen are honored in ten of the events with six named in the two events where the balloting was extremely close.

THE ALL-STATE team is based on the consistency of the boys' performance throughout the season rather than one one or two impressive efforts. Placing in the state meet is not a prerequisite for selection. Injuries may occur during the state meet or earlier in the season or an athlete may just tighten up under the strain of the rough state competition.

Certificates and tear sheets are sent to each All-Stater.

Twelve boys are repeaters from the 1960 aggregation. Making the select listing for the second straight year are Alton's B. B. Gater, Gibson City's Glen Cothern, Rock Island's Tommy Thomas, Roanoke-Benson's Bob Wheelwright, New Trier's Weymouth Kirkland and Chuck Mercein, Chicago Taft's Larry Albertson, Evanston's Bob Pickens, LaGrange's Tom Atkinson, Jacksonville's Mal Portee, Kewanee's Ron Fulton, and Sterling's Gary Imel.

PADDOCK'S area is represented by two Palatine thinclads, Andy Merutka and Brad McCreery. Merutka, only a junior, set a new shot put record in surprising New Trier's Mercein in the state meet. McCreery's consistency throughout the season, capped by his tie for third place in the state, earned him a spot on the All-State team.

Another area thinclad, pole vaulter Tom Flynn of Prospect high school, garnered some votes but not enough to merit All-State consideration.

Several other boys just missed making the honor squad, including athletes who did pick up places in their specialties downstate. Chicago Phillips' Ken Cooksey, a selection last spring, and fifth in the state 440, was ousted in his bid for a repeat by York's Rick Anglickis in one of the surprises of the balloting.

ANGLICKIS didn't qualify for the state meet but was handicapped by an injury incurred in the Palatine Relays. Rick had a :50.3 clocking earlier in the season and had been turning in some strong anchor legs on the Dukes' crack mile relay team. The All-State board felt the York athlete was worthy of selection despite his absence from competition for a good part of May.

Gibson City's Cothern earned an All-State berth for the second straight year although he didn't place in the state meet. Cothern was leading the fast heat of the 880 yard run when he fell on the final curve and failed to place.

Alton's B. B. Gater, state champ in 1960 in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, was bothered by a leg injury this spring and couldn't repeat. However, Gater, who had :09.7 and :21.9 clockings to his credit before the injury, was given All-State spots in both events.

TIGHTEST battle resulted in the broad jump where only one boy, state champ Tom Atkinson of LaGrange, was a unanimous selection. In all other events at least two of the All-Staters were unanimous choices.

Presenting the 1961 All-State track team:

120 Yard High Hurdles:

Warren Hampton — state champ and had best time with :14.3 in preliminaries of state finals; consistent honor roll leader.

Al Montalbano — versatile LaGrange athlete; second in state highs and anchored Lions' mile relay team to victory; conference high hurdle champ for two years; Wisconsin-bound.

Michael Shayne — Public champ who finished third in the state; best time of :14.5 this spring.

Gerald Beatty — pride of Proviso West; fourth in state, had :14.6 effort; Interim league champ.

Fred Cosby -- versatile North Chicago standout; runnerup in heavyweight division of state wrestling tourney; scored 19 individual points in Tri-County track meet; best time :14.7; fifth in state.

100 Yard Dash:

Theo Cox — Zion-Benton junior; state century champ; wind-aided :09.6; should have brilliant year in 1962.

Larry Albertson — tremendous college prospect; best race is 220 but did finish fourth in state 100; had :09.8 clocking in qualifying for state.

Jarrett Moore — with Albertson gives Chicago Public league two crack sprinters; second in state 100; had :09.7 as best mark.

B. B. Gater — Alton flash who couldn't defend state sprint titles because of leg injury; had :09.7 100 prior to the injury.

880 Yard Run:

Rick Cunningham — second in state 880; West Suburban champion with record-setting 1:56.7, best time recorded in state for 1961.

Barney Peterson — junior from Proviso West who won state half-mile; also Interim league winner; best time of 1:57.9.

Barry Moore — Glenbard East standout; second in Interim and third in state; his 1:56.8 second best half - mile clocking in state.

Don Weber — district champ, second in West Suburban behind Cunningham, third in state; strong runner.

Glen Cothern — fell in state and failed to place; had 1:57.8 this spring; good college prospect; headed for Northwestern.

440 Yard Dash:

Thom Walters — set Illinois Interscholastic record with sizzling :48.4, best time ever recorded in this state; honor roll leader all spring; brilliant college prospect, headed for Illinois.

Tommy Thomas — state champ in 1961, second this year; also broke state record with a :48.7 clocking; headed for Northwestern where brother Dick starred as quarterback a few years ago.

Dave Becker — versatile Tremont runner; at one time had honor roll spots in 100, 220, and 440; also qualified for state furlong; third in state 440 with :49.2 effort; headed for the University of Illinois.

Bob Wheelwright — second year on team and only a junior; fourth in state for two straight years; could break state mark in 440 as a senior.

Rick Anglickis — would have been one of state's finest but hit by injury in Palatine Relays; did :50.3 early this year and anchored York's mile relay team to a 3:26.8, also early in the season.

180 Yard Low Hurdles:

Randy Burlison — state champ from Herrin; breezed to easy victories in state finals; :19.4 was best effort.

Ken Truelson — Antioch star; third in state; second best time on record in state this year with a :19.3 in Lake County meet; won three events in conference.

Fred Cosby — had :19.4 in lows; second in state; on honor roll all spring.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

ONE YEAR AGO THIS WEEK Lake Forest high school's Bill Rawson was honored on Paddock Publications' fifth annual All-State track team, one of five boys selected in the 880 yard run.

Rawson was a two-time All-Stater and generally regarded as one of the finest half-milers ever produced in Illinois. The capsule comment read: "This is Rawson's second year on All-State team. He breezed to a 1:56.5 in district meet after a 1:55.1 as a junior. Outstanding college prospect."

BILL RAWSON

It was generally agreed that Rawson would develop into an outstanding collegiate runner, but few people thought the likable All-Stater would make such rapid strides over one year. His performances as a frosh at the University of Missouri have been amazing.

In a dual meet with Kansas Rawson raced to a brilliant 1:51.2 victory in the 880 yard run to shatter the school frosh record by a full three seconds. His clocking was 1.4 seconds faster than the existing varsity mark of 1:52.6. Bill then won the 440 yard dash in :49.5 and the mile run in 4:22.6.

Several weeks later Rawson lowered his quarter-mile time to :48.5 and mile standard to 4:15.6. The latter is remarkable in that he never ran the mile in high school.

Rawson's potential is unlimited. His coach feels that he needs work on his pacing but is understandably excited about the plebe's progress thus far this spring.

Bill's performances illustrate once again why college track coaches are always interested in landing the talented preps from Illinois.

And these coaches should take note of the 1961 All-Staters because this crop of young cinder talent is possibly the best ever turned out in Illinois.

WITH FOUR NEW STATE RECORDS this spring and several other outstanding marks that earned spots on the list of all-time prep bests in Illinois, one wonders just what is responsible for the tremendous improvement in track and field marks.

Shelby Himes, Honorary Referee of the 1961 state track and field meet who was head starter for 20 years, recently passed along some interesting observations.

"It's a combination of things," Hines pointed out. "The boys today are definitely bigger and stronger, and they're physically superior. In addition, the coaching has made a tremendous difference. ATHLETICS IN THE North Suburban closed with Crystal Lake beating McHenry to take the baseball title by two games over McHenry and Dundee. Crystal Lake won the basketball title 13-1 while McHenry, Libertyville, and Barrington tied for second with 9-5 marks. Crystal Lake and Libertyville copped the football title in a tie with 7-1 records. Barrington was third by one game. Palatine took the cross country and wrestling titles. Libertyville was second in wrestling and Crystal Lake third. In track it was Crystal Lake with Palatine second and Libertyville, third. In golf Barrington took the champinship while in tennis Zion-Benton and Libertyville shared the crown. In overall class Crystal Lake dominated the conference this past year. Libertyville with a tie for a major and a minor title and seconds in basketball and wrestling had the second best record. Palatine could have had this rating except for below par performances in the track and golf conference meets. Palatine and Barrington, in our opinion, rank third in all-round success for the year, with McHenry next in line.

BRADLEY McCREERY WON THE Palatine Lions award as the outstanding athlete in the senior class. McCreery played on the football team, won 30 matches in wrestling including 4th in the state and took 3rd in the state in the pole vault. McCreery won 100 wrestling matches in his four years on the varsity team. His best pole vault was 12' 3'' and he made 12 feet or better in five meets. The Lions memorial trophy was established in memory of four Palatine high athletes who gave their lives for their country in World War II. They were Francis Reuse, John O'Brien, Thompson, and Wilbert Gieske.

AT THE BASEBALL-GOLF BANQUET at Palatine High last week Coach Gary Clendenny of the golf team stated that the 1961 team had a dual meet record of 15 wins and only two losses for the season which he thought might be the best in the history of the school. We thought so too until we looked back and found that the team of Harold Klapp, Chuck Briggs, Tom Smith, Shelby Stewart Jr., and Chuck James in 1950 had a 14-0 undefeated record. While their dual opponents may not have been as formidable as this year, they did whip Arlington twice and took second in the state district two strokes behind New Trier, scoring better than the other suburban area teams which went to the state. In the district they beat Waukegan, Highland Park, Evanston, McHenry, Niles, Elgin, Northbrook, and Arlington. They also won the conference championship.

John Seehausen of this year's team is the best scoring golfer in Palatine history. Seehausen averaged a score of 76.6 for 17 dual matches plus tournaments and has another year of competition remaining. This year's Palatine team had two outstanding frosh-sophs on the varsity just as did Palatine's undefeated team in 1950. They are Thompson, soph, and Jim Arendt, freshman. Arendt's father is Stan Arendt, the Inverness pro, and Thompson's father is Way Thompson Sr., one of the finest golfers at the club and a former outstanding tackle and baseball pitcher at Dartmouth. The boys come by their talents naturally. Next year might be Palatine's strongest of all time in golf as a boy who consistently shot in the 70s at Inverness, who was ineligible this year, may be available next spring.

10 YEARS AGO

Palatine took their second Northwest golf tournament in a row in a cold windy meet following a heavy rain. Freshman "Tinker" Meyer won first place for Palatine with Chuck Briggs, a sophomore, second, and Rodney of Northbrook, third. All three tied for first with a score of 86 making necessary a sudden death play off. Harold Klapp of Palatine was 4th and Nick Masotti of Bensenville 5th. Inverness proved a rugged test under adverse conditions and no Barrington or Antioch player brook 100 . . . Palatine caught Arlington basking in the glory of a west suburban title and beat them at Inverness 8½ to 6½ as Briggs and Klapp shot 79 and Smith and Meyer carded 81. Dick Hauff, Arlington freshman and West Suburban medalist, shot a 91 and Ron Prellberg an 88 as Smith and Meyer beat them to decide the matches . . . Palatine won the Northwest frosh-soph track meet with 54 points to Wauconda's 47 though the latter took 7 first places including 4 by George Sutko . . . Warren Lattof was named by his Arlington track team mates as most valuable performer for the season. Lattof is an outstanding hurdler, pacing Arlington to victory in the Palatine Relays and competed in the state meet . . . LaGrange won the West Suburban track meet. Arlington finished fourth. Tossman got Arington's only first with a leap of 21' 5'' in the broad jump.

Kersting's Drops Into Three-Way Tie for Third

Kersting's Garden Center, leaders of the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight league since the opening of the season, were dropped into a three-way tie for third place last week after they were smothered by Mt. Prospect State Bank ½-9½. The Gardener's defeat enabled runner-up Mt. Prospect Electric Construction to back into first place by the slimmest of margins as it lost its match, 3½-6½, to Vern's Pure Oil.

Wille Lumber and Fuel, who also lost their first match of the season, 3½-6½, to Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes still managed to squeeze into second place by one-half point, only one-half point out of first.

Tied with Kersting's for third place were its opponents, the victorious Bank team, and Golden's Food Shop who fashioned a very satisfactory victory over Keefer's Pharmacy. Captain Bill Golden starred for his team with a 43 gross 29 net which was good for three points. The 43 was a remarkable reversal of form after his 68 of the week previous.

IN SIXTH place, but only one-and-a-half points out of first place in one of the tighest races in years was the Geo. O'Day Realty team who lost a close one to Carl's Food Shop, 4½-5½.

In the Kersting - State Bank contest, F. Jilek with a 42 gross 34 net and Jim Kutill with a 48 gross 34 net starred for the Bankers with two-and-a-half points each.

Low scorers for the night were F. Jilek, Pat Danna and Gene Raasch all with 42's. Hank Bayliss reported the only birdie, a three on the par four ninth.

Team standings May 23:

Notre Dame Frosh Nine Tops PTHS

Notre Dame's freshman baseball squad took full advantage of a sloppy Palatine defense for 10 unearned runs and a runaway 10-0 victory over the Pirates at Niles Saturday morning.

The loss was the fourth of the season for Coach Mike Curry's nine and dropped the Pirate final plebe mark to 3-4.

Notre Dame picked up four of those runs off Palatine starter Mike Timmins, who was eventually tagged with the loss. Bill Betke took over the fourth and was touched for the Dons' remaining six counters.

The Pirates, on the other hand, were limited to a scant three hits—singles by Ed Hennessey, Ron Fenske and Dick Olson.

Varsity Track Show

LaGrange Lions Win West Suburban Title

The co-champ in the state track and field meet breezed to the West Suburban conference championship last week for the second straight year and 14th time in the history of the loop.

Coach Max Armer's LaGrange Lions experienced little difficulty in wrapping up the varsity title by 14½ markers over runnerup York. Glenbard West and Maine East rounded out the big four with a lot of room between the fourth place Blue Demons and fifth place Downers Grove.

LaGrange's varsity track teams have now picked off eight West Suburban titles since 1950. With 14 WSC crowns in its history LaGrange is six ahead of the closest school, York, which has grabbed eight.

COACH RUSS Attis' Arlington Cardinals, fifth in 1960, slumped to seventh this year with eight points 4½ behind fifth place Downers. Six of the Cards' points were contributed by junior hurdler John Latta. Latta, who qualified for the state meet and reached the semi-finals in the 120 yard highs, placed second behind LaGrange's Al Montalbano in the highs and fourth in the lows.

Senior Jim Clabaugh collected Arlington's two other points with a fourth in the 220 yard dash.

Armer's LaGrange aggregation, co-champ in the state meet with Rock Island's Rocks, picked up eight first places and had double winners in hurdler Montalbano and junior Tom Atkinson. Atkinson, state broad jump champ two years running, won his specialty at 22-7¼ and copped the 100 yard dash in a mediocre :10.4

YORK ALSO had a double winner in husky senior Mike Psaltis. Psaltis ruled both the shot put and discus with marks far below his season bests.

Two new meet records were established, both by Glenbard West performers. Dave Stineback, second as a junior, came back with a first in the mile run in record-setting 4:22.8. Stineback, who had finished third in the state meet, broke the one-year-old mark of 4:31.8 held by Bill Walsh of Hinsdale. Walsh finished third this year, behind Stineback and Jack Kragie of Maine.

Glenbard's Rick Cunningham, second in the state half mile, turned in a brilliant 1:56.7 clocking in his specialty to break the old standard by over one second. Riverside's Jack Hagan held the old mark at 1:57.9

LaGRANGE'S Montalbano flirted with the low hurdle mark when he skimmed over the sticks in :19.6, one-tenth of a second off the record held by Arlington's Dave Schimmel. The Lions' junior Grant Johnstone was just one-fourth inch under the high jump standard of 6-2¼, and Atkinson's winning effort in the broad jump needed 1½ more inches for a new West Suburban record.

Other varsity winners included Glenbard West in both the half-mile and mile relays, LaGrange's Mike Van Skike in the 440 yard dash and Jerry Glashagel in the 220 yard dash, and Downers Grove's Doug Elliott and LaGrange's Rogers in the pole vault.

ATHLETICS IN THE North Suburban closed with Crystal Lake beating McHenry to take the baseball title by two games over McHenry and Dundee. Crystal Lake won the basketball title 13-1 while McHenry, Libertyville, and Barrington tied for second with 9-5 marks. Crystal Lake and Libertyville copped the football title in a tie with 7-1 records. Barrington was third by one game. Palatine took the cross country and wrestling titles. Libertyville was second in wrestling and Crystal Lake third. In track it was Crystal Lake with Palatine second and Libertyville, third. In golf Barrington took the championship while in tennis Zion-Benton and Libertyville shared the crown. In overall class Crystal Lake dominated the conference this past year. Libertyville with a tie for a major and a minor title and seconds in basketball and wrestling had the second best record. Palatine could have had this rating except for below par performances in the track and golf conference meets. Palatine and Barrington, in our opinion, rank third in all-round success for the year, with McHenry next in line.

BRADLEY McCREERY WON THE Palatine Lions award as the outstanding athlete in the senior class. McCreery played on the football team, won 30 matches in wrestling including 4th in the state and took 3rd in the state in the pole vault. McCreery won 100 wrestling matches in his four years on the varsity team. His best pole vault was 12' 3" and he made 12 feet or better in five meets. The Lions memorial trophy was established in memory of four Palatine high athletes who gave their lives for their country in World War II. They were Francis Reuse, John O'Brien, Thompson, and Wilbert Gieske.

AT THE BASEBALL-GOLF BANQUET at Palatine High last week Coach Gary Clendenny of the golf team stated that the 1961 team had a dual meet record of 15 wins and only two losses for the season which he thought might be the best in the history of the school. We thought so too until we looked back and found that the team of Harold Klapp, Chuck Briggs, Tom Smith, Shelby Stewart Jr., and Chuck James in 1950 had a 14-0 undefeated record. While their dual opponents may not have been as formidable as this year, they did whip Arlington twice and took second in the state district two strokes behind New Trier, scoring better than the other suburban area teams which went to the state. In the district they beat Waukegan, Highland Park, Evanston, McHenry, Niles, Elgin, Northbrook, and Arlington. They also won the conference championship.

John Seehausen of this year's team is the best scoring golfer in Palatine history. Seehausen averaged a score of 76.6 for 17 dual matches plus tournaments and has another year of competition remaining. This year's Palatine team had two outstanding frosh-sophs on the varsity just as did Palatine's undefeated team in 1950. They are Thompson, soph, and Jim Arendt, freshman. Arendt's father is Stan Arendt, the Inverness pro, and Thompson's father is Way Thompson Sr., one of the finest golfers at the club and a former outstanding tackle and baseball pitcher at Dartmouth. The boys come by their talents naturally. Next year might be Palatine's strongest of all time in golf as a boy who consistently shot in the 70s at Inverness, who was ineligible this year, may be available next spring.

Palatine took their second Northwest golf tournament in a row in a cold windy meet following a heavy rain. Freshman "Tinker" Meyer won first place for Palatine with Chuck Briggs, a sophomore, second, and Rodney of Northbrook, third. All three tied for first with a score of 86 making necessary a sudden death play off. Harold Klapp of Palatine was 4th and Nick Masotti of Bensenville 5th. Inverness proved a rugged test under adverse conditions and no Barrington or Antioch player brook 100 . . . Palatine caught Arlington basking in the glory of a west suburban title and beat them at Inverness 8½ to 6½ as Briggs and Klapp shot 79 and Smith and Meyer carded 81. Dick Hauff, Arlington freshman and West Suburban medalist, shot a 91 and Ron Prellberg an 88 as Smith and Meyer beat them to decide the matches . . . Palatine won the Northwest frosh-soph track meet with 54 points to Wauconda's 47 though the latter took 7 first places including 4 by George Sutko . . . Warren Lattof was named by his Arlington track team mates as most valuable performer for the season. Lattof is an outstanding hurdler, pacing Arlington to victory in the Palatine Relays and competed in the state meet . . . LaGrange won the West Suburban track meet. Arlington finished fourth. Tossman got Arington's only first with a leap of 21' 5" in the broad jump.

Kersting's Drops Into Three-Way Tie for Third

Kersting's Garden Center, leaders of the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight league since the opening of the season, were dropped into a three-way tie for third place last week after they were smothered by Mt. Prospect State Bank ½-9½. The Gardener's defeat enabled runner-up Mt. Prospect Electric Construction to back into first place by the slimmest of margins as it lost its match, 3½-6½, to Vern's Pure Oil.

Wille Lumber and Fuel, who also lost their first match of the season, 3½-6½, to Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes still managed to squeeze into second place by one-half point, only one-half point out of first.

Tied with Kersting's for third place were its opponents, the victorious Bank team, and Golden's Food Shop who fashioned a very satisfactory victory over Keefer's Pharmacy. Captain Bill Golden starred for his team with a 43 gross 29 net which was good for three points. The 43 was a remarkable reversal of form after his 68 of the week previous.

IN SIXTH place, but only one-and-a-half points out of first place in one of the tighest races in years was the Geo. O'Day Realty team who lost a close one to Carl's Food Shop, 4½-5½.

In the Kersting - State Bank contest, F. Jilek with a 42 gross 34 net and Jim Kutill with a 48 gross 34 net starred for the Bankers with two-and-a-half points each.

Low scorers for the night were F. Jilek, Pat Danna and Gene Raasch all with 42's. Hank Bayliss reported the only birdie, a three on the par four ninth.

Notre Dame Frosh Nine Tops PTHS

Notre Dame's freshman baseball squad took full advantage of a sloppy Palatine defense for 10 unearned runs and a runaway 10-0 victory over the Pirates at Niles Saturday morning.

The loss was the fourth of the season for Coach Mike Curry's nine and dropped the Pirate final plebe mark to 3-4.

Notre Dame picked up four of those runs off Palatine starter Mike Timmins, who was eventually tagged with the loss. Bill Betke took over the fourth and was touched for the Dons' remaining six counters.

The Pirates, on the other hand, were limited to a scant three hits—singles by Ed Hennessey, Ron Fenske and Dick Olson.

Japan's literacy is one of the world's highest. Public education is compulsory through the ninth grade.

Jarrett Moore — second in state 220; had :21.6 this year; good college prospect.

B. B. Gater — didn't qualify for state because of pulled muscle; won furlong in 1960 and had a :21.9 this year.

Jim Carter — third in state; wind-aided :20.9 in district; anchorman on Waukegan's crack half-mile relay team.

Ron Bild — fifth in state; beat Marshall's Moore in furlong semi's :21.3 clocking; also ran on Waukegan's half-mile relay squad that finished fourth in state.

Shot Put:

Chuck Mercein — boasts best toss in state's history at 61-11¾ though disappointed with a third downstate; district champ, second in Suburban league; eight times over 60 feet; also All-State fullback.

Andy Merutka — Palatine's outstanding junior; set state record at 59-5½; amazing progress in one year; top student; appears headed for impressive senior year in both football and track.

Jeff Lundeen — Moline junior; fifth in state; best toss this spring was 56-11½.

Discus:

Jack Honneger — honor roll leader all spring, state champion with impressive 166-5½ toss; good college prospect.

Tom Koenig — Glenbrook standout who won Interim league at 12-8½, second best mark recorded in the state this year; tied for third downstate.

Brad McCreery — Palatine representative; tied for third in state; consistent all spring; also outstanding wrestler, fourth in state.

Varsity Track Show

LaGrange Lions Win West Suburban Title

The co-champ in the state track and field meet breezed to the West Suburban conference championship last week for the second straight year and 14th time in the history of the loop.

Coach Max Armer's LaGrange Lions experienced little difficulty in wrapping up the varsity title by 14½ markers over runnerup York. Glenbard West and Maine East rounded out the big four with a lot of room between the fourth place Blue Demons and fifth place Downers Grove.

LaGrange's varsity track teams have now picked off eight West Suburban titles since 1950. With 14 WSC crowns in its history LaGrange is six ahead of the closest school, York, which has grabbed eight.

COACH RUSS Attis' Arlington Cardinals, fifth in 1960, slumped to seventh this year with eight points 4½ behind fifth place Downers. Six of the Cards' points were contributed by junior hurdler John Latta. Latta, who qualified for the state meet and reached the semi-finals in the 120 yard highs, placed second behind LaGrange's Al Montalbano in the highs and fourth in the lows.

Senior Jim Clabaugh collected Arlington's two other points with a fourth in the 220 yard dash.

Armer's LaGrange aggregation, co-champ in the state meet with Rock Island's Rocks, picked up eight first places and had double winners in hurdler Montalbano and junior Tom Atkinson. Atkinson, state broad jump champ two years running, won his specialty at 22-7¼ and copped the 100 yard dash in a mediocre :10.4

YORK ALSO had a double winner in husky senior Mike Psaltis. Psaltis ruled both the shot put and discus with marks far below his season bests.

Two new meet records were established, both by Glenbard West performers. Dave Stineback, second as a junior, came back with a first in the mile run in record-setting 4:22.8. Stineback, who had finished third in the state meet, broke the one-year-old mark of 4:31.8 held by Bill Walsh of Hinsdale. Walsh finished third this year, behind Stineback and Jack Kragie of Maine.

Glenbard's Rick Cunningham, second in the state half mile, turned in a brilliant 1:56.7 clocking in his specialty to break the old standard by over one second. Riverside's Jack Hagan held the old mark at 1:57.9

LaGRANGE'S Montalbano flirted with the low hurdle mark when he skimmed over the sticks in :19.6, one-tenth of a second off the record held by Arlington's Dave Schimmel. The Lions' junior Grant Johnstone was just one-fourth inch under the high jump standard of 6-2¼, and Atkinson's winning effort in the broad jump needed 1½ more inches for a new West Suburban record.

Other varsity winners included Glenbard West in both the half-mile and mile relays, LaGrange's Mike Van Skike in the 440 yard dash and Jerry Glashagel in the 220 yard dash, and Downers Grove's Doug Elliott and LaGrange's Rogers in the pole vault.

Cards' Auld Tops Mile Run In Conference

The young Lions easily rolled to the league's frosh-soph cinder championship last week with 69½ points and a 28-point bulge over runner-up Downers Grove.

The frosh-soph title was LaGrange's eighth in loop history and seventh since 1960. The Lions had last won a frosh-soph crown in '58 with Maine and York annexing titles in the past two years.

ARLINGTON high's Cardinals registered 14 points for a sixth place finish but for the second straight year boasted the frosh-soph mile champion.

In 1960 Rog Fredrickson had covered the mile in 4:44.1 for a new West Suburban record. Last week Robin Auld took home top honors with a fine 4:49.9 clocking.

Soph Dan Bedford picked up four more team points with a second in the 120 yard high hurdles, and frosh Bill Truax claimed a third in the discus throw. Rounding out Arlington's scoring was the mile relay team with a fourth.

MAKING UP that mile quartet were Bill Moore, Greg Buczynski, Tom Tully, and Splitberger.

Two records were established and one tied in the frosh-soph division. Downers Grove's Bill Howerton set a new standard in the 220 yard dash with a fine :22.8 clocking and tied the century mark at :10.4.

LaGrange's Jerry Gilbert covered the 180 yard lows in :20.7, snapping the old mark of :20.8 set last spring by Maine's Rick Tokoph.

Red Devils Claim WSC Golf Crown

With the West Suburban conference varsity tennis title wrapped up last week Hinsdale high school went out and annexed the golf championship Monday afternoon in action at Arlington country club.

The powerful Red Devils, newly-crowned state champs in golf, copped both the varsity and frosh-soph titles but needed a sudden death playoff to topple LaGrange for the coveted varsity crown.

Both Hinsdale and LaGrange had identical 315 totals after regulation play, Monday but the Red Devils picked up the team title on the second hole of the playoff.

ALTHOUGH Hinsdale finished second in the frosh-soph competition Monday, it still claimed the championship as the conference title is determined on both the league and dual meets.

Coach Ralph Meyer's Arlington high Cardinals finished sixth in the varsity action Monday with a 339 total, 24 strokes off the pace, and fourth in the younger class with a 359, just 16 strokes behind Riverside-Brookfield.

Medalist honors in the varsity division went to Mike Broggi of LaGrange who fired rounds of 39-36 for a fine 75 at Arlington. Marv Rezabek of Riverside walked off with individual honors in the frosh-soph competition with a 40-39-79.

HINSDALE also annexed both the varsity and frosh-soph crowns last spring, posting a 311 total in winning the varsity title at Acacia country club.

Other Hinsdale scores were Bob Parsons with an 80 on nines of 41-39 and George Trees with an 81 on 41-40.

ARLINGTON finished nine strokes out of second on a frosh-soph level but was a solid sixth in varsity competition, 12 strokes behind fifth place York.

The Cardinals had finished fourth in the varsity play in 1960 but graduation stripped the roster of the experienced performers, including Al Kruse, who was West Suburban medalist for two straight years.

Arlington's varsity total Monday was taken from the 18-hole cards of Doug Wiborg, Jim Diehl, Jerry Peterson, and Mike Heyl.

Baseball Standouts

Glenbard, Maine Top WSC All-Star Team

Ten seniors and three juniors, including three repeaters, were named to the 1961 West Suburban All-Conference baseball team

Arlington high's Cardinals and Riverside-Brookfield are the only schools not represented on the all-conference agregation.

REPEATING from the '61 outfit are pitcher Johnny Hermanek of Glenbard West, catcher Chuck Adams of York, and infielder Dick Ruggles of LaGrange.

Other boys on the team are Fred Mundinger and Tom Martinek of Downers Grove; Fred Chana of LaGrange; Dave Hamman, Steve Benson, and Mel Makos of Maine East; Wayne Strauch of York; Ross Lane and Tom Wingader of Glenbard West; and Hal Brandt of Hinsdale.

Chana, Wingader, and Strauch are juniors. Brandt's selection completes a sweep of all-star honors for the 1960-61 school year. The talented Hinsdale athlete was also honored in football and basketball.

THE COMBINED mound record of the all-star pitchers is 29-8 with Chana boasting a 7-1 standard and 1.62 earned run average. The junior right hander fanned 57 and walked 31 in 61 innings of work this spring.

Hermanek is a strong-armed right hander who racked up nine victories in 11 decisions and helped pitch Glenbard to the sectional finals. Benson collected six victories in nine decisions and Mundinger finished with a 7-2 slab record.

Top hitter among the other selections was Wingader, Glenbard's outstanding junior outfielder. The left-handed batting junior stroked the ball at a .463 clip for the Bards this spring. Backing Wingader in the all-star outfield are Hinsdale's Brandt who finished with a .351 stick mark and also saw action on the mound, and York's Strauch, boasting a .286 average. Strauch was also all-league in football.

LaGRANGE'S Ruggles, another versatile young man who was an all-league selection in basketball and a near-miss in football, rapped out 24 hits in 54 trips to the plate this spring for a .444 mark and drove in eight runs. Seven of his hits were for extra bases, including five doubles and two triples.

Joining Ruggles in the infield are Downers Grove's Martinek who owned a healthy .410 average, Maine's Makos with a .341 mark, and Glenbard's Lane with a .325 plate standard.

York's Adams and Maine's Hamman gave the West Suburban two outstanding catchers this year with Adams also an all-WSC selection in basketball. The Dukes' standout hit .305 with eight RBIs and was a dependable defensive performer. Hamman hit .387 for Coach Glen Van Proyen's Blue Demons.

Knights Second

Kirchhoff Cops No. 2 Singles Crown in Loop

From the cellar to second in one year.

That was the impressive achievement of Prospect high school's varsity tennis team this spring.

Coach Rick Farris' determined Knights, winless in 1960, put on a solid team effort this year and following the firing in the Interim league meet last week, Prospect had picked off a second in varsity competition.

GLENBROOK'S Spartans, boasting two singles champs and two doubles titlists, easily rolled to the varsity championship. Prospect's frosh-sophs finished out of the running on the younger level.

Bringing home a championship in No. 2 singles play in varsity action was Prospect's Vaughn Kirchoff. The Knights' senior beat Ron Longhurst of Maine West, Jay Hakes of Wheaton, and John Roberts of Glenbrook enroute to the individual crown.

In the title match against Roberts Prospect's Kirchoff recorded a 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 triumph.

PROSPECT also advanced a first doubles team into the finals but the combo of John Heuer and Tom Gewecke bowed to Glenbrook's Russ Rupp and Scott McClure 7-5, 6-2.

In No. 1 singles action the Knights' sophomore Lothar Hanson bowed to Glenbrook's Gary Sawyers 6-2, 6-1 in the semi-finals. Sawyers went on to win the singles championship.

In No. 3 singles Jerry Gehrke reached the semi-finals before falling 6-3, 6-1 to Bill Roberts of Glenbrook. Roberts also went on to gain an individual crown.

GORDON HUNT and Newell Krogmann, playing No. 2 doubles for Farris' outfit, reached the semi's but bowed out of action with a 6-4, 6-3 loss to Glenbrook's Dick Olson and Steve Manning. The Olson-Manning duo picked off the league's No. 2 doubles title.

Although not faring as well on a frosh-soph level, Prospect did manage to claim one individual crown. Bob Gewecke bumped Deerfield's Jeff Mandell 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 for the No. 3 singles championship.

Gewecke whipped Maine West's Jim Gavarett in the semi-finals.

Freshmen Toppled In Finale

Fenton high's freshman baseball squad closed its season on a sour note last Wednesday, dropping a 10-7 decision to West Leyden at Northlake.

The Interim League Knights spotted the visiting Bisons a 1-0 lead in the top of the first before lowering the boom with 10 runs before the conclusion of the third.

BILL PFLUGER accounted for a good share of Fenton's attack with two hits in four at bats including a homer and two RBI's.

Round-trippers were instrumental in Leyden's victory. Rymarz cracked one out with one aboard in the first while Bobik clouted a four-bagger with two on during the Knights' big six run second.

By virtue of last Wednesday's setback, Coach Bob Thollander's outfit closed with six victories as opposed to six losses and a tie.

Hinsdale Red Devils Edge Cards' Netmen

Hinsdale did it again.

But not before some anxious moments and a first-class threat by Arlington high school.

That was the situation last week as the West Suburban conference concluded its 1961 tennis competition with the league meet at Riverside-Brookfield.

For the seventh straight year Hinsdale annexed the varsity net championship. Coach Jay Kramer's Red Devils collected 38 points in both dual and tournament competition. Coach Ken Schaller's Arlington Cards registered 37 points.

BY THAT one point Hinsdale picked off another crown and Arlington had to settle for second in the tightly-contested battle for team supremacy that had seen the Cards on top by one marker heading into the varsity finals at R-B.

Arlington could pick up just one point from three singles players in the finals while Hinsdale garnered three on two doubles victories and a triumph in No. 3 singles.

Arlington's only victory was in No. 2 singles where junior Tom Benson capped a tremendous campaign with a solid 6-2, 6-4 victory over Hinsdale's Kappy Pielet.

PLAYING FOR the No. 1 singles championship, Arlington's Bill Thompson bowed to Downers Grove's talented sophomore Tony Ivans 6-2, 6-3. Thompson had picked off the No. 2 singles title as a junior.

In a real heart-breaker the Cards' junior Bob Bohac dropped his No. 3 singles affair to Hinsdale's Bill Ninnes 3-6, 9-7, 6-0. On two occasions Bohac was at match and what turned out to be championship point.

AT MATCH point in the second set Bohac rushed the net and drove the ball out of Ninnes' reach in the far corner. By just inches the ball was out of bounds, Ninnes had new life, and the Hinsdale performer rallied for victory.

Hinsdale took both doubles championships, surprising in No. 2 competition.

In the frosh-soph division the team title was wrapped up before the finals with LaGrange coasting in for the championship. The real battle was for second between Arlington and Hinsdale and it ended in a deadlock.

BOTH the Cards and Imps collected 32 points while LaGrange finished on top with 48.

Arlington's two finalists both fell with Steve Martin bowing in No. 2 singles and the doubles team of Pete O'Neil and Bob Schuldt dropping its test in No. 2 action.

You can see the Volkswagen people have had lots of practice. From the beginning, they've put all their time and effort into the one basic model. They learned to make every part fit every other part so well, the VW is practically air-tight. The engine is so carefully machined and assembled, you can drive a new VW at top speed all day.

Volkswagen doesn't change the car to make it look different, only to make it work better. When a change is made, Volkswagen goes out of the way to make the new part fit older Volkswagens, too. Cards' Auld Tops Mile Run In Conference

The young Lions easily rolled to the league's frosh-soph cinder championship last week with 69½ points and a 28-point bulge over runner-up Downers Grove.

The frosh-soph title was LaGrange's eighth in loop history and seventh since 1960. The Lions had last won a frosh-soph crown in '58 with Maine and York annexing titles in the past two years.

ARLINGTON high's Cardinals registered 14 points for a sixth place finish but for the second straight year boasted the frosh-soph mile champion.

In 1960 Rog Fredrickson had covered the mile in 4:44.1 for a new West Suburban record. Last week Robin Auld took home top honors with a fine 4:49.9 clocking.

Soph Dan Bedford picked up four more team points with a second in the 120 yard high hurdles, and frosh Bill Truax claimed a third in the discus throw. Rounding out Arlington's scoring was the mile relay team with a fourth.

MAKING UP that mile quartet were Bill Moore, Greg Buczynski, Tom Tully, and Splitberger.

Two records were established and one tied in the frosh-soph division. Downers Grove's Bill Howerton set a new standard in the 220 yard dash with a fine :22.8 clocking and tied the century mark at :10.4.

LaGrange's Jerry Gilbert covered the 180 yard lows in :20.7, snapping the old mark of :20.8 set last spring by Maine's Rick Tokoph.

Red Devils Claim WSC Golf Crown

With the West Suburban conference varsity tennis title wrapped up last week Hinsdale high school went out and annexed the golf championship Monday afternoon in action at Arlington country club.

The powerful Red Devils, newly-crowned state champs in golf, copped both the varsity and frosh-soph titles but needed a sudden death playoff to topple LaGrange for the coveted varsity crown.

Both Hinsdale and LaGrange had identical 315 totals after regulation play, Monday but the Red Devils picked up the team title on the second hole of the playoff.

ALTHOUGH Hinsdale finished second in the frosh-soph competition Monday, it still claimed the championship as the conference title is determined on both the league and dual meets.

Coach Ralph Meyer's Arlington high Cardinals finished sixth in the varsity action Monday with a 339 total, 24 strokes off the pace, and fourth in the younger class with a 359, just 16 strokes behind Riverside-Brookfield.

Medalist honors in the varsity division went to Mike Broggi of LaGrange who fired rounds of 39-36 for a fine 75 at Arlington. Marv Rezabek of Riverside walked off with individual honors in the frosh-soph competition with a 40-39-79.

HINSDALE also annexed both the varsity and frosh-soph crowns last spring, posting a 311 total in winning the varsity title at Acacia country club.

Other Hinsdale scores were Bob Parsons with an 80 on nines of 41-39 and George Trees with an 81 on 41-40.

ARLINGTON finished nine strokes out of second on a frosh-soph level but was a solid sixth in varsity competition, 12 strokes behind fifth place York.

The Cardinals had finished fourth in the varsity play in 1960 but graduation stripped the roster of the experienced performers, including Al Kruse, who was West Suburban medalist for two straight years.

Arlington's varsity total Monday was taken from the 18-hole cards of Doug Wiborg, Jim Diehl, Jerry Peterson, and Mike Heyl.

Glenbard, Maine Top WSC All-Star Team

Ten seniors and three juniors, including three repeaters, were named to the 1961 West Suburban All-Conference baseball team

Arlington high's Cardinals and Riverside-Brookfield are the only schools not represented on the all-conference agregation.

REPEATING from the '61 outfit are pitcher Johnny Hermanek of Glenbard West, catcher Chuck Adams of York, and infielder Dick Ruggles of LaGrange.

Other boys on the team are Fred Mundinger and Tom Martinek of Downers Grove; Fred Chana of LaGrange; Dave Hamman, Steve Benson, and Mel Makos of Maine East; Wayne Strauch of York; Ross Lane and Tom Wingader of Glenbard West; and Hal Brandt of Hinsdale.

Chana, Wingader, and Strauch are juniors. Brandt's selection completes a sweep of all-star honors for the 1960-61 school year. The talented Hinsdale athlete was also honored in football and basketball.

THE COMBINED mound record of the all-star pitchers is 29-8 with Chana boasting a 7-1 standard and 1.62 earned run average. The junior right hander fanned 57 and walked 31 in 61 innings of work this spring.

Hermanek is a strong-armed right hander who racked up nine victories in 11 decisions and helped pitch Glenbard to the sectional finals. Benson collected six victories in nine decisions and Mundinger finished with a 4-2 slab record.

Top hitter among the other selections was Wingader, Glenbard's outstanding junior outfielder. The left-handed batting junior stroked the ball at a .463 clip for the Bards this spring. Backing Wingader in the all-star outfield are Hinsdale's Brandt who finished with a .351 stick mark and also saw action on the mound, and York's Strauch, boasting a .286 average. Strauch was also all-league in football.

LaGRANGE'S Ruggles, another versatile young man who was an all-league selection in basketball and a near-miss in football, rapped out 24 hits in 54 trips to the plate this spring for a .444 mark and drove in eight runs. Seven of his hits were for extra bases, including five doubles and two triples.

Joining Ruggles in the infield are Downers Grove's Martinek who owned a healthy .410 average, Maine's Makos with a .341 mark, and Glenbard's Lane with a .325 plate standard.

York's Adams and Maine's Hamman gave the West Suburban two outstanding catchers this year with Adams also an all-WSC selection in basketball. The Dukes' standout hit .305 with eight RBIs and was a dependable defensive performer. Hamman hit .387 for Coach Glen Van Proyen's Blue Demons.

Knights Second

Kirchhoff Cops No. 2 Singles Crown in Loop

From the cellar to second in one year.

That was the impressive achievement of Prospect high school's varsity tennis team this spring.

Coach Rick Farris' determined Knights, winless in 1960, put on a solid team effort this year and following the firing in the Interim league meet last week, Prospect had picked off a second in varsity competition.

GLENBROOK'S Spartans, boasting two singles champs and two doubles titlists, easily rolled to the varsity championship. Prospect's frosh-sophs finished out of the running on the younger level.

Bringing home a championship in No. 2 singles play in varsity action was Prospect's Vaughn Kirchoff. The Knights' senior beat Ron Longhurst of Maine West, Jay Hakes of Wheaton, and John Roberts of Glenbrook enroute to the individual crown.

In the title match against Roberts Prospect's Kirchoff recorded a 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 triumph.

PROSPECT also advanced a first doubles team into the finals but the combo of John Heuer and Tom Gewecke bowed to Glenbrook's Russ Rupp and Scott McClure 7-5, 6-2.

In No. 1 singles action the Knights' sophomore Lothar Hanson bowed to Glenbrook's Gary Sawyers 6-2, 6-1 in the semi-finals. Sawyers went on to win the singles championship.

In No. 3 singles Jerry Gehrke reached the semi-finals before falling 6-3, 6-1 to Bill Roberts of Glenbrook. Roberts also went on to gain an individual crown.

GORDON HUNT and Newell Krogmann, playing No. 2 doubles for Farris' outfit, reached the semi's but bowed out of action with a 6-4, 6-3 loss to Glenbrook's Dick Olson and Steve Manning. The Olson-Manning duo picked off the league's No. 2 doubles title.

Although not faring as well on a frosh-soph level, Prospect did manage to claim one individual crown. Bob Gewecke bumped Deerfield's Jeff Mandell 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 for the No. 3 singles championship.

Gewecke whipped Maine West's Jim Gavarett in the semi-finals.

Freshmen Toppled In Finale

Fenton high's freshman baseball squad closed its season on a sour note last Wednesday, dropping a 10-7 decision to West Leyden at Northlake.

The Interim League Knights spotted the visiting Bisons a 1-0 lead in the top of the first before lowering the boom with 10 runs before the conclusion of the third.

BILL PFLUGER accounted for a good share of Fenton's attack with two hits in four at bats including a homer and two RBI's.

Round-trippers were instrumental in Leyden's victory. Rymarz cracked one out with one aboard in the first while Bobik clouted a four-bagger with two on during the Knights' big six run second.

By virtue of last Wednesday's setback, Coach Bob Thollander's outfit closed with six victories as opposed to six losses and a tie.

Hinsdale Red Devils Edge Cards' Netmen

Hinsdale did it again.

But not before some anxious moments and a first-class threat by Arlington high school.

That was the situation last week as the West Suburban conference concluded its 1961 tennis competition with the league meet at Riverside-Brookfield.

For the seventh straight year Hinsdale annexed the varsity net championship. Coach Jay Kramer's Red Devils collected 38 points in both dual and tournament competition. Coach Ken Schaller's Arlington Cards registered 37 points.

BY THAT one point Hinsdale picked off another crown and Arlington had to settle for second in the tightly-contested battle for team supremacy that had seen the Cards on top by one marker heading into the varsity finals at R-B.

Arlington could pick up just one point from three singles players in the finals while Hinsdale garnered three on two doubles victories and a triumph in No. 3 singles.

Arlington's only victory was in No. 2 singles where junior Tom Benson capped a tremendous campaign with a solid 6-2, 6-4 victory over Hinsdale's Kappy Pielet.

PLAYING FOR the No. 1 singles championship, Arlington's Bill Thompson bowed to Downers Grove's talented sophomore Tony Ivans 6-2, 6-3. Thompson had picked off the No. 2 singles title as a junior.

In a real heart-breaker the Cards' junior Bob Bohac dropped his No. 3 singles affair to Hinsdale's Bill Ninnes 3-6, 9-7, 6-0. On two occasions Bohac was at match and what turned out to be championship point.

AT MATCH point in the second set Bohac rushed the net and drove the ball out of Ninnes' reach in the far corner. By just inches the ball was out of bounds, Ninnes had new life, and the Hinsdale performer rallied for victory.

Hinsdale took both doubles championships, surprising in No. 2 competition.

In the frosh-soph division the team title was wrapped up before the finals with LaGrange coasting in for the championship. The real battle was for second between Arlington and Hinsdale and it ended in a deadlock.

BOTH the Cards and Imps collected 32 points while LaGrange finished on top with 48.

Arlington's two finalists both fell with Steve Martin bowing in No. 2 singles and the doubles team of Pete O'Neil and Bob Schuldt dropping its test in No. 2 action.

Maine West, Proviso Head Interim Track

In two tremendous battles for team championships Maine West and Proviso West claimed top honors last Friday in the second annual Interim league track and field meet.

The varsity Warriors from Des Plaines grabbed off their second straight crown with only a 1½ point margin over runnerup Glenbrook. Proviso's Panthers edged defending champion Prospect by less than three points for the frosh-soph title.

Maine West was the official host for the 1961 affair although the meet was held at Maine East in Park Ridge. An uncooperative weatherman forced a switch from Thursday to Friday for the actual competition.

NINE RECORDS were broken in the varsity division on the cold May day. Establishing new marks were Maine West's Art Steele in the broad jump, Wheaton's Tim Hutchinson in the high jump, Maine's Ken McLaughlin in the shot put, Proviso West's Gerald Beatty in the 120 yard highs, Maine's Lee Wolf in the 440, Wheaton's Dave Bartell in the mile run, Glenbrook's Tom Koepig in the pole vault, and Glenbard East's mile and Glenbrook's half-mile relay teams.

Top mark was the 12-8¼ effort in the pole vault by Glenbrook's Koenig. The vault performance was the second best recorded in the state for 1961.

COACH BOB Scott's Prospect Knights finished fourth on a varsity level with the top finishes seconds by Darryl Phillips in the discus and Jim Peters in the shot put.

Mike Field came in with a fourth in the 120 yard highs and Rich Bachhuber claimed fifths in both the 100 and 220. Bruce Andrise backed Peters with a third in the shot put and Cliff Stock finished fifth in the mile run and set a new school record in the process.

George Renner tied for fifth in the 440 yard dash and Brad Blair came in fourth in the 880. Blair covered the half-mile in 2:01.4 and set a new school mark.

ROUNDING OUT the local scoring was the 880 yard relay team with a fourth. Making up that aggregation were Bachhuber, O'Keefe, Keith Grams, and "Dutch" Leonard.

On a frosh-soph level Prospect fell short in its bid for a second straight championship but did claim a solid second in the meet.

Gary Marks was the individual standout with a first in the 440 yard dash at :52.6 and second in the 220. Frosh Dave Gobeille and soph Bob Gerrard tied for first in the high jump.

RON KOEPKE captured a second in the high hurdles and third in the lows, and Tom Bremner gained a fourth in the lows. Kent Nelson came home with a third in the 880 and Taylor a fourth.

In the mile relay Prospect was fifth thanks to the quartet of Bremner, Ned Bloom, John Carsello, and Tom Haenisch. Dan Price tied for third and Dan Johnson tied for fifth in the pole vault.

Racine's Curcio Claims Feature Win at Speedway

Wisconsin drivers had things almost entirely their own way once again as they powered to first places in all but one event as the modified stocks staged their third round of battle at the Waukegan Speedway Sunday.

Racine's top pilot of the modifieds, Milt Curcio, came home the victor, his first main win of the year, at an average speed of 49.89 mph. Gordon Gorman of Libertyville was the only driver to represent the Illinois boys as he captured the 15-lap semi-feature event averaging 47.27 mph.

Curcio captured his win in fine fashion as he fought desperately with Jim Gish of West Allis for most of the distance. When the later spun out on the 22nd lap, Curcio stayed in the lead and was not again challenged. John Reimer, Caledonia, gave Curcio the biggest battle earlier in the event, but was forced to settle back to beat off the rapid challenges of Milwaukee's Bob Ratajczyk who staged a torrid battle for the second place position, finally nudging out Reimer on the last half lap to the position.

HIGHLIGHTING the evening's action for the 2100 spectators was a spectacular triple roll-over which occurred during the first lap of the amateur feature event. With 21 cars starting the race for the strictly stock cars, only 13 were able to continue after the first lap accident which involved nearly the entire field. Joe Parma, Waukegan, spun his car sideways coming into the main straight-a-way and rolled about three times. As he rolled, the machine of John Reed of Reed's Standard Service in Waukegan, climbed up and over Parma's rolling car, coming to rest on top of the overturned automobile.

In the resulting confusion, Mike Romanowicz of Milwaukee collided and flipped his car several times in front of other oncoming traffic. Parma's car was totally demolished; he suffered a possible broken finger and was hospitalized for X-rays. No other drivers were injured.

AFTER THE restart Eddie Jones went on to win the event at an average speed of 38.83 mph. But before the checkered flag fell, Don Miller and Allen Horton of Waukegan were putting on a track battle all to themselves for the second place spot. Horton gained the second spot by bumping out Miller.

Next Sunday night, June 4, the modifieds will roll again for their fourth program of the season. Track manager Mike Kaishian is expecting a large field of cars and drivers, and it is expected that a host of Illinois pilots will again be in the starting lineup. Many were sidelined last Sunday with mechanical difficulties. The amateurs will again be back for added thrills. The time trials start at 7:15 with racing commencing at 8:30 p.m.

The speedway is located between Belvidere rd. and Washington st., just west of Waukegan, with entrances to the track, now from both streets.

State's Jr. Legion Finals In Arlington

Through the efforts of Arlington Heights American Legion Post 208 the Illinois Jr. Legion baseball championships will be staged at Recreation Park Aug. 4-7 this summer.

Following a series of state-wide eliminations, the five finalists will convene at the Arlington Heights diamond on Douglas ave. and battle for the coveted state crown and a berth in regional finals.

This is the first time Arlington has hosted a state tournament although the Cook County finals were held at Recreation Park for two years.

THE LOCAL legion post submitted a bid in January of 1960 and it was officially approved last March by Frank Mace, state director of Jr. Legion baseball, and Ernest Bastianni, Cook County chairman. Most of the major details have now been worked out, according to General Chairman Bill Griffith.

The finalists will be housed at the Park Ridge Inn on Touhy ave. The Arlington Legion post is responsible for providing housing, meals, and playing facilities for 90 boys.

Assisting Griffith with the operation of the state tournament will be Bill Oas, program booklet chairman; Al Kluesing, assistant program chairman; Harold Klingner, housing chairman; Don Giese, team registration; Dr. Robert Balfour, concessions; Joe Burgee, collection chairman; and Warren Power, assistant to Oas and Cluesing. Power will write of a history of Jr. Legion baseball in Arlington Heights.

SPRINGFIELD played host to the state finals last year with the tournament won by the Berwyn, Ill., Post No. 422. Berwyn finished seventh in the national competition after picking off a regional championship.

New Orleans, La., Post 125 was the National champion in 1960 with a victory over Billings, Mont., in the championship series.

American Legion baseball is the largest organized athletic program in the world for teen-age boys. Approximately 400,000 boys up to a certain age limit play baseball every summer under the supervision of the American Legion. Some 20,000 teams are sponsored annually by American Legion posts.

BILL GRIFFITH
GENERAL CHAIRMAN

LEGION BASEBALL has become a juvenile stepping-stone to fame and fortune in the organized, professional ranks of the sport. Hundreds of the greatest major league stars are graduates of American Legion baseball. The two major leagues in recognition of the program's importance contribute $60,000 a year to the cost of the nation-wide tournament.

As Griffith summed up, "Bringing the state tournament to Arlington Heights is another community activity of the legion as part of its youth program. Jr. Legion baseball is the oldest youth baseball program in the country."

Additional stories on the state tournament will appear on these sports pages prior to the opening game.

East Leyden, Maine West Stop Knights

Prospect's varsity Knights terminated baseball activity for the 1961 high school campaign with a pair of losses last week in Interim league competition.

East Leyden and Maine West both fashioned their second straight victories over Prospect this spring with the Eagles posting a 5-3 triumph and the Warriors winning, 2-0.

The two setbacks set the Knights' season record at 7-10. After winning its first three Interim tests, Prospect dropped its next seven and finished at 3-7 in the loop.

THE KNIGHTS solved East Leyden's Ed Murphy for only one hit in the first meeting but collected six last week in the 5-3 loss. The locals hit Murphy with three hits good for two runs in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

Mike Francek opened with a double and Tommy Thomas and Keith Voigt also rapped out safeties for the two counters.

But the Eagles bounced back in the fifth and exploded for four runs on four hits. With one out seven straight batters reached base with Murphy crashing a double for the big blow.

ALDRICH'S Knights closed the gap with a single tally in the sixth but couldn't catch the Franklin Park nine. Fred Empkie singled with one out, stole second, and rode home on Francek's second hit.

Maine West's John Reese twirled a nifty shutout in the locals' other encounter last week and the Warriors posted a 2-0 victory.

PROSPECT picked up just four hits off Reese and they were scattered over four innings. Maine counted a single run in the second off southpaw Mark Thorne and added an insurance run in the fifth on a single by Doug Halpenny, stolen base, and hit by Danny Humay.

Collecting the base hits for Prospect were Fred Lussow, Thomas, Gerald Locy, and Bill Zadel.

Maine West, Proviso Head Interim Track

In two tremendous battles for team championships Maine West and Proviso West claimed top honors last Friday in the second annual Interim league track and field meet.

The varsity Warriors from Des Plaines grabbed off their second straight crown with only a 1½ point margin over runnerup Glenbrook. Proviso's Panthers edged defending champion Prospect by less than three points for the frosh-soph title.

Maine West was the official host for the 1961 affair although the meet was held at Maine East in Park Ridge. An uncooperative weatherman forced a switch from Thursday to Friday for the actual competition.

NINE RECORDS were broken in the varsity division on the cold May day. Establishing new marks were Maine West's Art Steele in the broad jump, Wheaton's Tim Hutchinson in the high jump, Maine's Ken McLaughlin in the shot put, Proviso West's Gerald Beatty in the 120 yard highs, Maine's Lee Wolf in the 440, Wheaton's Dave Bartell in the mile run, Glenbrook's Tom Koenig in the pole vault, and Glenbard East's mile and Glenbrook's half-mile relay teams.

Top mark was the 12-8¼ effort in the pole vault by Glenbrook's Koenig. The vault performance was the second best recorded in the state for 1961.

COACH BOB Scott's Prospect Knights finished fourth on a varsity level with the top finishes seconds by Darryl Phillips in the discus and Jim Peters in the shot put.

Mike Field came in with a fourth in the 120 yard highs and Rich Bachhuber claimed fifths in both the 100 and 220. Bruce Andrise backed Peters with a third in the shot put and Cliff Stock finished fifth in the mile run and set a new school record in the process.

George Renner tied for fifth in the 440 yard dash and Brad Blair came in fourth in the 880. Blair covered the half-mile in 2:01.4 and set a new school mark.

ROUNDING OUT the local scoring was the 880 yard relay team with a fourth. Making up that aggregation were Bachhuber, O'Keefe, Keith Grams, and "Dutch" Leonard.

On a frosh-soph level Prospect fell short in its bid for a second straight championship but did claim a solid second in the meet.

Gary Marks was the individual standout with a first in the 440 yard dash at :52.6 and second in the 220. Frosh Dave Gobeille and soph Bob Gerrard tied for first in the high jump.

RON KOEPKE captured a second in the high hurdles and third in the lows, and Tom Bremner gained a fourth in the lows. Kent Nelson came home with a third in the 880 and Taylor a fourth.

In the mile relay Prospect was fifth thanks to the quartet of Bremner, Ned Bloom, John Carsello, and Tom Haenisch. Dan Price tied for third and Dan Johnson tied for fifth in the pole vault.

State's Jr. Legion Finals In Arlington

Through the efforts of Arlington Heights American Legion Post 208 the Illinois Jr. Legion baseball championships will be staged at Recreation Park Aug. 4-7 this summer.

Following a series of state-wide eliminations, the five finalists will convene at the Arlington Heights diamond on Douglas ave. and battle for the coveted state crown and a berth in regional finals.

This is the first time Arlington has hosted a state tournament although the Cook County finals were held at Recreation Park for two years.

THE LOCAL legion post submitted a bid in January of 1960 and it was officially approved last March by Frank Mace, state director of Jr. Legion baseball, and Ernest Bastianni, Cook County chairman. Most of the major details have now been worked out, according to General Chairman Bill Griffith.

The finalists will be housed at the Park Ridge Inn on Touhy ave. The Arlington Legion post is responsible for providing housing, meals, and playing facilities for 90 boys.

Assisting Griffith with the operation of the state tournament will be Bill Oas, program booklet chairman; Al Kluesing, assistant program chairman; Harold Klingner, housing chairman; Don Giese, team registration; Dr. Robert Balfour, concessions; Joe Burgee, collection chairman; and Warren Power, assistant to Oas and Cluesing. Power will write of a history of Jr. Legion baseball in Arlington Heights.

SPRINGFIELD played host to the state finals last year with the tournament won by the Berwyn, Ill., Post No. 422. Berwyn finished seventh in the national competition after picking off a regional championship.

New Orleans, La., Post 125 was the National champion in 1960 with a victory over Billings, Mont., in the championship series.

American Legion baseball is the largest organized athletic program in the world for teen-age boys. Approximately 400,000 boys up to a certain age limit play baseball every summer under the supervision of the American Legion. Some 20,000 teams are sponsored annually by American Legion posts.

BILL GRIFFITH
GENERAL CHAIRMAN

LEGION BASEBALL has become a juvenile steppingstone to fame and fortune in the organized, professional ranks of the sport. Hundreds of the greatest major league stars are graduates of American Legion baseball. The two major leagues in recognition of the program's importance contribute $60,000 a year to the cost of the nation-wide tournament.

As Griffith summed up, "Bringing the state tournament to Arlington Heights is another community activity of the legion as part of its youth program. Jr. Legion baseball is the oldest youth baseball program in the country."

Additional stories on the state tournament will appear on these sports pages prior to the opening game.

East Leyden, Maine West Stop Knights

Prospect's varsity Knights terminated baseball activity for the 1961 high school campaign with a pair of losses last week in Interim league competition.

East Leyden and Maine West both fashioned their second straight victories over Prospect this spring with the Eagles posting a 5-3 triumph and the Warriors winning, 2-0.

The two setbacks set the Knights' season record at 7-10. After winning its first three Interim tests, Prospect dropped its next seven and finished at 3-7 in the loop.

THE KNIGHTS solved East Leyden's Ed Murphy for only one hit in the first meeting but collected six last week in the 5-3 loss. The locals hit Murphy with three hits good for two runs in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

Mike Francek opened with a double and Tommy Thomas and Keith Voigt also rapped out safeties for the two counters.

But the Eagles bounced back in the fifth and exploded for four runs on four hits. With one out seven straight batters reached base with Murphy crashing a double for the big blow.

ALDRICH'S Knights closed the gap with a single tally in the sixth but couldn't catch the Franklin Park nine. Fred Empkie singled with one out, stole second, and rode home on Francek's second hit.

Maine West's John Reese twirled a nifty shutout in the locals' other encounter last week and the Warriors posted a 2-0 victory.

PROSPECT picked up just four hits off Reese and they were scattered over four innings. Maine counted a single run in the second off southpaw Mark Thorne and added an insurance run in the fifth on a single by Doug Halpenny, stolen base, and hit by Danny Humay.

Collecting the base hits for Prospect were Fred Lussow, Thomas, Gerald Locy, and Bill Zadel.

Ten Squads Still Unbeaten In Arlington Little League

Ten teams remain unbeaten after a second week of firing in the Arlington Heights Little League program for 1961.

Only two divisions are lacking in either an unbeaten or untied outfit with three leagues boasting two squads with unblemished records.

Both the pitchers and hitters gained their share of headlines in another banner week of Little League activity in Arlington.

THE TIMELY hitting of Doug Fink, Dave Keys, and Rick Kirchhoff behind the two-hit, shutout pitching of Jon Keys carried the Yankees to a 4-0 win over the Athletics. Keys fanned nine and walked only two batters in chalking up the American league victory.

Brown rapped out three hits and Cronin collected a triple as the White Sox toppled the Red Sox, 5-3, and Tom LaStarge turned in another strong performance as the Tigers whipped the Senators, 2-0.

LaStarge won his own game with a first inning hit and fanned 14 batters, allowing only three hits. Both clubs turned in excellent defensive baseball.

THE SENATORS' Jim Corbett showed masterful control and poise in besting the Red Sox, 7-2, fanning seven and walking only one. The loser's Jim Donchess fanned eight but was plagued with wildness.

Guy Pasvogel continued his timely hitting for the winners with four hits in five trips to the plate.

LaStarge rapped a homer and Bozee got the mound triumph as the Tigers topped the Athletics, 8-4. Gregory and Somers rapped circuit clouts for the losers.

IN THE NATIONAL league the Giants and Braves both boast unbeaten records although the former holds a half game lead.

In a close game until the fifth the Pirates edged the Cardinals 5-1 with Conley the winner. The Cubs tallied three markers in the sixth for a tight, 6-5 victory over the Cards. Rickerson rapped a triple and Weber collected a homer for the Cubs.

Exhibiting another explosive offense, the Giants buried the Dodgers 12-0 with J. Loughman picking up the mound triumph and also slamming a homer and triple. The Giants collected 25 runs in their first two games this season.

VETER FANNED six and allowed only one hit as the Braves bounced the Twins 6-1 with Guilfoil's triple highlighting a five-run, third inning for the victors.

The Giants picked up their third straight win with a 4-0 win over the Cubs, and the Dodgers blanked the Angels 14-0. Lunderstedt had a homer for the Dodgers in the latter contest.

In the North West Intermediate division the Lancers bounced the Comets 8-2 to hold on to their loop lead. Janis and Stocking worked on the mound for the winners with Janis driving home four runs on three hits, including a homer. Hogan homered for the losers.

In the South East juniors league the Spartans put on a tremendous rally to get by the Colts 13-12. The Spartans came to bat in the last of the fourth trailing 12-4 and scored nine runs on six hits and six walks with no outs for the victory.

A BIG 12-run second inning, in which every man on the team batted twice, was the highlight in the Wrens' smashing 17-7 victory over the Oaks. Eric Peterson had a two-run homer in this one.

The Spartans pounded the Beavers 16-7 with Armstrong getting the win and Splittorff and Haiskey rapping homers. Dawson pounded out a grand slam homer to spark the Oaks to a convincing 14-2 victory over the Gems.

Californians Cop Doubles Crown

Nobu Asami of Richmond and Helen Duval of Berkeley, Californians who traveled close to the furthest distance to vie for glory in the eighth annual BPAA National Women's Doubles Championship at Columbia Lanes, Latham, N. Y., carried off the coveted crown in impressive fashion.

The veterans from Northern California beat out a field of 180 duos, the largest and best group of star bowlerettes ever assembled, but their stiffest challenge came from two Chicagoans, Joy Abel and Betty Zuczynski, the youngest combine entered.

Mrs. Asami, 38, totaled 3,031 for her 16 games, an average of 189.7, and Mrs. Duval, 45, spilled 3,275 sticks, an average of 204.11, as they finished just 24 pins ahead of Joy, 22, and Betty, 21. The Californians thus picked up the $1,000 first prize and handsome BPAA trophies while the Windy City youngsters collected $800.

Japan-born Nobu and her better-known partner were in fourth place after the first of four 4-game assignments, then they moved to the top to stay. They rolled on the initial squad in the final round and had to "sweat it out" for almost eight hours while the rest of the field challenged their lead.

Joy and Betty, who had led after the first round then dropped to third, woke up on Miss Abel's second game of 237 in the last round and moved into strong contention when Betty blasted a 258 in the third. They needed a 391 final game but couldn't string strikes and closed with 178 and 188.

Ever wonder how many races a horse could win in his career? One horse, Kingston, won eighty-nine races in 138 starts. However, Broker's Tip, winner of the 1933 Kentucky Derby, never won a race before that Derby race or never won a race after.

Probably the softest sport job in the world is that of the groom, who tends the equestrian statue of Marcus Aurelius in Rome. For more than one thousand years, the statue has been attended by a groom hired on a special retainer.

Ten Squads Still Unbeaten In Arlington Little League

Ten teams remain unbeaten after a second week of firing in the Arlington Heights Little League program for 1961.

Only two divisions are lacking in either an unbeaten or untied outfit with three leagues boasting two squads with unblemished records.

Both the pitchers and hitters gained their share of headlines in another banner week of Little League activity in Arlington.

THE TIMELY hitting of Doug Fink, Dave Keys, and Rick Kirchhoff behind the two-hit, shutout pitching of Jon Keys carried the Yankees to a 4-0 win over the Athletics. Keys fanned nine and walked only two batters in chalking up the American league victory.

Brown rapped out three hits and Cronin collected a triple as the White Sox toppled the Red Sox, 5-3, and Tom LaStarge turned in another strong performance as the Tigers whipped the Senators, 2-0.

LaStarge won his own game with a first inning hit and fanned 14 batters, allowing only three hits. Both clubs turned in excellent defensive baseball.

THE SENATORS' Jim Corbett showed masterful control and poise in besting the Red Sox, 7-2, fanning seven and walking only one. The loser's Jim Donchess fanned eight but was plagued with wildness.

Guy Pasvogel continued his timely hitting for the winners with four hits in five trips to the plate.

LaStarge rapped a homer and Bozee got the mound triumph as the Tigers topped the Athletics, 8-4. Gregory and Somers rapped circuit clouts for the losers.

IN THE NATIONAL league the Giants and Braves both boast unbeaten records although the former holds a half game lead.

In a close game until the fifth the Pirates edged the Cardinals 5-1 with Conley the winner. The Cubs tallied three markers in the sixth for a tight, 6-5 victory over the Cards. Rickerson rapped a triple and Weber collected a homer for the Cubs.

Exhibiting another explosive offense, the Giants buried the Dodgers 12-0 with J. Loughman picking up the mound triumph and also slamming a homer and triple. The Giants collected 25 runs in their first two games this season.

VETER FANNED six and allowed only one hit as the Braves bounced the Twins 6-1 with Guilfoil's triple highlighting a five-run, third inning for the victors.

The Giants picked up their third straight win with a 4-0 win over the Cubs, and the Dodgers blanked the Angels 14-0. Lunderstedt had a homer for the Dodgers in the latter contest.

In the North West Intermediate division the Lancers bounced the Comets 8-2 to hold on to their loop lead. Janis and Stocking worked on the mound for the winners with Janis driving home four runs on three hits, including a homer. Hogan homered for the losers.

THE LANCERS punched out 14 hits and toppled the Redbirds 11-7 as Stocking got the mound decision. Lightner registered two triples and a double.

D. Ekstrand was the winner as the Broncs edged the Celtics 9-8. Strehlow had a homer for the winners and Schnieder connected for the losers.

Coming up with six runs in the fourth inning, the Comets edged the Saints 12-11 with Eddie Seaman and Johnson toiling for the victors.

IN THE NORTH East Intermediate league the Bruins pounded the Colonels 12-9 with O'Brien and Brandau slapping homers for the winners. J. Irmen had three hits, including a homer, for the Colonels.

Scoring in every frame with seven big runs in the fifth, the Hornets pummeled the Doves 18-7 as they pounded out six homers. Steve Holmes was the winner in the first game he ever pitched.

Irmen continued his heavy hitting with a homer and two other hits as the Colonels got by the Mohawks 10-2. He also picked up the mound decision. Hull blasted his third homer in two games for the Mohawks.

BRANDAU HIT a homer and got the pitching triumph as the the Bruins edged the Doves 14-10, and the Hornets bumped the Mounties 9-5 with eight of the runs coming in the final three innings. Ted Thurman got the win and also slapped a homer for the Hornets. Birkland also homered for the winners and Koss and Basak hit four-baggers for the Mounties.

In the South Intermediate league the Solons and Huskies head up the pack with identical 3-0 records.

The Seals fashioned an impressive 17-5 win over the Dons with Withey picking up the victory. Stanfield and Herrick each had two homers for the winners.

THE BARONS stopped the Rangers 12-9 with Berggren connecting for a homer, and the Solons edged the Terriers 14-13 as Franek collected two round-trippers.

In other action the Ravens edged the Marlins 10-9 with Gongol hitting a homer, and Dave Gorman was the winner in the Huskies' 7-6 victory over the Seals. Rob Crockett homered with Hoover on in the sixth to win for the Huskies.

Decker, Lewis, Bergstrom, and Gongol homered in the Ravens' 11-7 win over the Dons, and Scott Anderson collected one and the mound decision in the Stars' 7-4 victory over the Barons. Berggren homered for the losers.

O'HARE HOMERED and pitched the Solons to a 15-7 win over the Marlins, and Dave Howard worked on the mound as the Huskies outslugged the Stars 18-12. Tom Arena contributed a grand slam homer for the Huskies.

In the North East Junior league the Millers stopped the Badgers 15-4 with Bill Helm the big swinger in this one. Bill connected for a three-run homer and two-run triple.

Collecting 11 hits, the Gulls pounded the Blues 13-5 as Steve Radcliff got the win. Dave Kallman twirled a no-hitter but was touched for 11 runs as the Badgers edged the Larks 12-11. Johnny Dittman had two triples for the Badgers.

SCOTT Streckenbein yielded only two hits as the Larks routed the Blues 14-6 and the Sox came up with two big ones in the sixth to slip by the Millers 5-4. Dave Glantz was the mound victor in the latter contest with Tommy Sullivan's clutch double the big blow.

Mike Needleman was the winner as the Sox made good use of only five hits in a 10-3 victory over the Gulls.

In the South East juniors league the Spartans put on a tremendous rally to get by the Colts 13-12. The Spartans came to bat in the last of the fourth trailing 12-4 and scored nine runs on six hits and six walks with no outs for the victory.

A BIG 12-run second inning, in which every man on the team batted twice, was the highlight in the Wrens' smashing 17-7 victory over the Oaks. Eric Peterson had a two-run homer in this one.

The Spartans pounded the Beavers 16-7 with Armstrong getting the win and Splittorff and Haiskey rapping homers. Dawson pounded out a grand slam homer to spark the Oaks to a convincing 14-2 victory over the Gems.

In final action from this league Johnny Maltman chalked up his second win with a fine two-hitter as the Clts buried the Wrens 11-3. Pat Macquire and Mike Cox each had three hits for the winners.

IN THE SOUTH West Juniors league the Atoms rolled past the Padres 17-9, and the Jets scored ten runs in the first inning of a 12-9 victory over the Jays. An unassisted double play by Hillenmeyer ended the latter game.

There were only three hits in the game, all by the Stags, but 16 runs crossed the plate as the Stags edged the Atoms 9-7. Brodnan twirled the no-hitter.

The Padres scored in every inning, with eight big runs in the second, and got by the Jays 14-12. Brousseau and Luster each rapped two-run homers.

Californians Cop Doubles Crown

Nobu Asami of Richmond and Helen Duval of Berkeley, Californians who traveled close to the furthest distance to vie for glory in the eighth annual BPAA National Women's Doubles Championship at Columbia Lanes, Latham, N. Y., carried off the coveted crown in impressive fashion.

The veterans from Northern California beat out a field of 180 duos, the largest and best group of star bowlerettes ever assembled, but their stiffest challenge came from two Chicagoans, Joy Abel and Betty Zuczynski, the youngest combine entered.

Mrs. Asami, 38, totaled 3,031 for her 16 games, an average of 189.7, and Mrs. Duval, 45, spilled 3,275 sticks, an average of 204.11, as they finished just 24 pins ahead of Joy, 22, and Betty, 21. The Californians thus picked up the $1,000 first prize and handsome BPAA trophies while the Windy City youngsters collected $800.

Japan-born Nobu and her better-known partner were in fourth place after the first of four 4-game assignments, then they moved to the top to stay. They rolled on the initial squad in the final round and had to "sweat it out" for almost eight hours while the rest of the field challenged their lead.

Joy and Betty, who had led after the first round then dropped to third, woke up on Miss Abel's second game of 237 in the last round and moved into strong contention when Betty blasted a 258 in the third. They needed a 391 final game but couldn't string strikes and closed with 178 and 188.

Ever wonder how many races a horse could win in his career? One horse, Kingston, won eighty-nine races in 138 starts. However, Broker's Tip, winner of the 1933 Kentucky Derby, never won a race before that Derby race or never won a race after.

Q. Is it correct to have a monogram engraved on the envelope of social stationery?

A. No; the monogram should be engraved only on the note paper.

Q. When attaching a card to a wedding gift, is it necessary to write the bride's name on the envelope?

A. Although it is not necessary, it is all right to do so.

Q. I am always uncertain just what to say to a bereaved family. Can you help me?

A. Upon the occasion of death, some expression of sympathy is always appreciated by the family, but the less elaborate the expression the better. A simple "I am sorry. Is there anything I can do?" is sincere and sufficient.

Sweeney Elected Jaycee President

Elected president of the local Jaycee chapter May 24, was Donald Sweeney, a veteran of five years' Jaycee experience. Other officers elected were Paul Kearney, internal vice president; James Wood, external vice president; James Pinney, secretay and Thomas DeRiemer, treasurer.

The newly-elected officers will take over July 1 and will be formally installed in ceremonies at an installation banquet to be held in the Rolling Meadows bowling alley June 30.

THE MEETING was attended by three-fourths of the total membership who heard promises of increased emphasis of the Community Development Project, the major undertaking of the organization.

"This summer should see a tabulation of the results of the survey and a decision on the future role of the Jaycees," stated Sweeney in his bid for the presidency.

Other future plans for the chapter were outlined by the other officers, increased activity in membership and meeting plans being foremost in internal activities and consolidation of projects being a major external undertaking.

Emphasis on member attendance at board meetings with a resulting speedup of membership meetings was promised, a series of talks by officials, businessmen and visitors being then offered at the dinner meetings. (A

ROBERT CARBAUGH

THE exciting new sound in music to be featured at the concert will come from bells cast in Britain's famed Whitechapel Foundry, the maker of Big Ben and the Liberty Bell. The set of 36 perfectly tuned bells played by the women range in weight from a few ounces to over nine pounds, and in size from two to ten inches in diameter. They have the same rich, ringing tones as giant cathedral carillons.

Before joining the staff at MBI, he served as a missionary to Hawaii for 15 years. While there Carbaugh was first violinist with the Honolulu Symphony and organized and directed the Honolulu Junior Symphony.

AMONG the featured compositions to be performed by the Glee club are "Behold All Flesh" by Johannas Brahms and Kodaly's "Cease Your Bitter Weeping." Also included in this season's repertoire is the well-known gospel song "Some Bright Morning" to be done with violins, and the lively spiritual "Peter Go Ring Dem Bells," which will feature the Handbell Choir performing with the Glee Club.

Books Antidote To World Crisis

Books of wit and humor—always in heavy demand—were more sought after at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library during the past year than ever before, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, librarian.

"Depressing headlines and day-to-day news of world crisis seem to step up demand for humorous novels, amusing reminiscences, collections of humorous anecdotes, and cartoon books," Mrs. Stadelman said.

Widely read is Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines," a series of humorous commentaries on home life, the theater, books, and the state of the nation. She is also the author of the humorous "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," a 1957 best-seller.

Other recently published books of humor which are in demand include "Never Trust a Naked Bus Driver," by Jack Douglas; 'The Battered Bride," by Elinor Goulding Smith; "Let the Crabgrass Grow," by H. Offer Class In Nature For Adults

Geography 114, conservation of natural resources, will be offered for college credit at Arlington high school this summer, Tom Shirley, director of District 214 adult education program announced this week.

The University of Illinois will conduct the course, which is designed for elementary and secondary school teachers, school administrators, and community leaders.

According to Shirley, the course will familiarize the student with the basic principles in the general field of conservation, including soils, water, forests, minerals, wild life, and other natural resources.

Emphasis will be placed on teaching methods and utilization of the subject matter presented. Opportunities for field trips will be provided.

The course, the first to be offered during a summer term, carries a three-hour credit for a $24 tuition.

Shirley stressed the importance of immediate registration in order to determine whether the enrollment will warrant offering the course.

The class will meet seven to eight hours a day, from July 10 to July 28. Registrants are asked to contact the adult education office at CL 3-0205. (ACM

Sacred Concert Is Slated for Sunday

The Women's Glee club and handbell choir from Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, will present a concert of sacred music in the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church, Dunton and St. James sts., this Sunday at 3 p.m.

This musical group is composed of students fro mmany parts of the United States and several foreign countries. As a choir they sing in misuc festivals and special concerts that are held at Moody. The Handbell choir, which functions as a part of the Glee club, is one of the very few traveling groups of this kind in the country.

ROBERT CARBAUGH

THE exciting new sound in music to be featured at the concert will come from bells cast in Britain's famed Whitechapel Foundry, the maker of Big Ben and the Liberty Bell. The set of 36 perfectly tuned bells played by the women range in weight from a few ounces to over nine pounds, and in size from two to ten inches in diameter. They have the same rich, ringing tones as giant cathedral carillons.

Robert Carbaugh, director of the group, is a member of the faculty at Moody Bible Institute and director of - Institute and director of music at the historic Moody church. Before joining the staff at MBI, he served as a missionary to Hawaii for 15 years. While there Carbaugh was first violinist with the Honolulu Symphony and organized and directed the Honolulu Junior Symphony.

AMONG the featured compositions to be performed by the Glee club are "Behold All Flesh" by Johannas Brahms and Kodaly's "Cease Your Bitter Weeping." Also included in this season's repertoire is the well-known gospel song "Some Bright Morning" to be done with violins, and the lively spiritual "Peter Go Ring Dem Bells," which will feature the Handbell Choir performing with the Glee Club.

There is no admission charge to to concert; a free-will offering will be received. (A

Books Antidote To World Crisis

Books of wit and humor—always in heavy demand—were more sought after at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library during the past year than ever before, according to Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, librarian.

"Depressing headlines and day-to-day news of world crisis seem to step up demand for humorous novels, amusing reminiscences, collections of humorous anecdotes, and cartoon books," Mrs. Stadelman said.

Widely read is Jean Kerr's "The Snake Has All the Lines," a series of humorous commentaries on home life, the theater, books, and the state of the nation. She is also the author of the humorous "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," a 1957 best-seller.

Other recently published books of humor which are in demand include "Never Trust a Naked Bus Driver," by Jack Douglas; 'The Battered Bride," by Elinor Goulding Smith; "Let the Crabgrass Grow," by H. Allen Smith; "The Fly In the Martini," by Parke Cummings; and "What Doctor Spock Didn't Tell Us," by B. M. Atkinson, Jr.

Richard Armour, a widely known humorist and satirist, has written such hilarious recent books as "The Classics Reclassified," "Drugstore Days," and "It All Started With Marx," all of which are constantly requested.

A new book of jokes and anecdotes has recently been published by George Jessel, "Jessel, Anyone?" (A

Railway Express Agency Consolidates Terminals

A new $303,000 Railway Express Agency (REA Express) key-point terminal was put into operation providing a jet-age link between Evanston and 20 nearby communities including Arlington Heights, Barrington, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Lake Zurich, and Rolling Meadows, and nationwide and worldwide surface and air transportation facilities.

Thirty truck pickup and delivery routes originate at the terminal and cover Evanston, Deerfield, Des Plaines, Fort Sheridan, Glencoe, Glenview, Highland Park, Highwood, Kenilworth, Morton Grove, Mount Prospect, Niles, Northbrook, Northfield, Park Ridge, Prospect Heights, Skokie, Techny, Wheeling, Wilmette and Winnetka. Shippers on routes in these communities will get daily at-the-door pickup and delivery service.

REA EXPRESS is constructing key-point terminals in cities across the country. Their purpose is to provide a better, more efficient service by consolidating small express offices into centralized facilities which provide fast over-the-road transportation to and from key rail and air shipment receiving and forwarding points.

At Deerfield, Des Plaines, Glenview, Northbrook and Wheeling, branch package receiving offices will be maintained. All deliveries, however, will be made by truck from the Evanston terminal.

Jewel Tea Scholarships Given to Two Local Boys

The Jewel Tea company awarded scholarships to 25 Chicago area high school seniors who work part time in Jewel stores.

The scholarships totaling $90,000 were presented by the food store chain at the fifth annual scholarship award dinner, held in the Great Hall of the Congress hotel, May 22, and was attended by parents and the principals of the winners' high schools. The top ten scholarships are for $6000 each and the remaining 15 are valued at $2,000 each.

THREE AREA high school seniors, part time workers for Jewel Tea company, are recipients of $2,000 Jewel scholarships to the college of their choice. All students at Notre Dame high school in Niles, the boys are shown with their store managers and school principal. From left to right, John Carroll, manager of Mt. Prospect Jewel, George Lidke, manager of Park Ridge Jewel, Thomas G. McAuliff Jr., Park Ridge, Father d'Autremont, principal at Notre Dame, John B. Tarpey Jr., 809 W. Milburn, Mt. Prospect, Gary R. Thuerk, 737 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights and Robert Hanley, manager of Arlington Market Jewel.

GARY R. THUERK, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Thuerk, 737 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights and John B. Tarpey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tarpey, 809 W. Milburn, Mt. Prospect, receive scholarships valued at $2,000 at $500 a year for four years Both boys attend Notre Dame high school in Niles.

Gary was in the upper 15 per cent of his graduating class, and was a member of the math club. At Maryville high school, Des Plaines, before transferring to Notre Dame, Gary participated in dramatics, debating and varsity sports. As a member of the swimming team, he tied the school swimming record. He plans to enter Marquette university, Milwaukee, next fall.

Gary priced and put up stock in the Jewel store at 24 N. Dryden, Arlington Heights.

JOHN TARPEY will enter John Carroll university, Cleveland, with the aid of his $2,000 scholarship. He ranks 22nd in a class of 319. His activities include the physics club, newspaper staff, and teen club of St. Raymond church. He won the radio club merit award at Notre Dame. EACH ONE was recommended by his store manager, division manager, and personnel manager as a desirable prospect for future employment with Jewel.

While it is expected many of the students may become interested in a career in food retailing, they are under no obligation to accept employment with Jewel after their graduation.

In addition to the scholarships, Jewel will make an unrestricted grant equal to one-half the tuition or one-half the scholarship, whichever is the lesser, to each private college or university selected by a scholarship winner. (BB

Arlington Heights Couple To Tour Austria, Germany

Mark B. Heller of Mark Motors, Inc., local Mercedes-Benz dealer in Arlington Heights, has qualified for an all-expense paid trip for two to Austria and Germany, according to L. W. Wheeler, South Bend zone manager.

Two chartered intercontinental jet planes will transport American Mercedes-Benz dealers and their wives from New York to Vienna for the beginning of a 10-day tour. The group will visit Vienna, Salzburg, Berchtesgaden and Munich. From Munich the group will join officials of Daimler-Benz A.G. in Stuttgart, West Germany, as the world's oldest automobile factory celebrates its diamond jubilee.

"THE PLANS for this commemorative trip are unique in automobile history," Wheeler said. "Mercedes-Benz will pay all travel expenses from New York to Europe and return for the dealers and their wives. There is no competition among dealers for this jubilee trip.

"The visit to Stuttgart will enable our dealers to appreciate first hand the manufacturing methods of Mercedes-Benz vehicles," Whieler added.

Brighten Your Outdoors With Evergreen Planters

Outdoor living is more popular today than ever before. Everywhere home living areas are expanding to take in more and more of the outdoors.

Terraces, patios, barbecues, swimming pools and flower gardens all add to the satisfaction and happiness of family life.

WHETHER YOUR outdoor living area is used only by your family, for a few guests, or for large parties, the fact that it is out of doors is what is important.

This takes it out of the ordinary and gives an excitement of outing.

Your outdoor living room is like an indoor room. It needs to be decorated to look livable and complete.

The most natural decorating materials are plants, and the most practical way to use plants is in containers. These can be large pots, handmade tubs, or special containers that you purchase. Study them all to decide which will fit your outdoor living area best.

FOR A CASCADE effect, try several lengths of heavy timbers, pieces of old beams, railroad ties, or logs. These are perfect supports for planters.

A distinct Japanese effect can be obtained by using several types of dwarf Japanese evergreens. At the base you can add color with many different types of foliage plants, such as geraniums, low-growing roses, petunias, or pansies.

If your terrace or patio is shaded, use your houseplants to decorate it in the summer. By setting your pots into distinctive outdoor containers you'll get different effects than you did have inside. Try deep bamboo baskets, an iron kettle, or a plain wooden box.

To get a mass effect, place several different sized tubs in a corner with dwarf evergreens such as Yews, Junipers, and Pines. These can be surrounded by evergreen ground covers and white stones to offset from the green grass.

A SIMPLE FLOWER box as a long, narrow planter can be used for vines, which have been supported by pieces of tree branches imbedded in the tubs of soil. If you want to get a flowering vine, choose Clematis, or climbing Hydrangea; but if you would prefer a foliage tree effect, use Ivy, Virginia Creeper, Philodendron, or Euonymus. These you plant at the base of your upright tree branches that are used for support.

Another colorful use of outdoor planters is a series of small wooden tubs placed on one edge of your steps from top to bottom, or a large tub about 3' square built at the corner of a stairway, containing a beautiful dwarf evergreen.

See a reliable nurseryman for many more ideas, and the correct selection of plants for your outdoor planters. (BB

J. D. MACARTHUR

John D. MacArthur, President of Bankers Life & Casualty company and board chairman of Park Ridge's Citizens Bank & Trust company, was named one of the year's winners of the 15th annual Horatio Alger award in a ceremony held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, May 17.

The announcement was made in New York by Kenneth J. Beebe, president of the American Schools & Colleges Association, sponsors of the award. Among the nine other winners of 1961 awards was Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The winners are selected by balloting from 3,000 campus leaders in more than 344 colleges and universities throughout the country. These awards are presented annually to prominent Americans who, in spite of humble beginnings, achieve success in their chosen fields through individual initiative in the tradition of the Horatio Alger novels of yesteryear, and are living proof that equality of opportunity is available to all in America. Jostens Attend Insurance Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Josten of 363 Cedar lane, Elk Grove, attended the regional agency leaders' meeting of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., in Asheville, N. C., May 9-12.

An agency supervisor with Moore, Case, Lyman and Hubbard of Chicago, Josten is one of 103 general agency representatives in a 20 state area of the John Hancock Co. who qualified to attend the convention on the basis of outstanding sales and performance records during the past convention year.

Members of the group will be commended on their part in the company's record sales of nearly $3½ billion of new paid-for insurance last year.

As a first time qualifier, Nick will be honored at a reception Wednesday evening May 10th. (BB

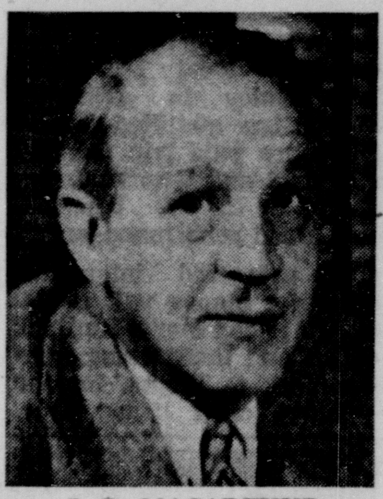
TO COMMEMORATE the 25th Anniversary of Culligan, Inc., B. L. Pollak, President of the Village of Northbrook, has proclaimed that the name of Northbrook be changed for one day, Saturday, June 10, to "Culliganville U. S. A." A gala celebration and open house at the Culligan plant is being planned with a parade of antique cars through the village, beginning at 9:00 a. m. on Saturday morning, to be led by Robert A. Mogge, above, a director of the Illinois Region of Antique Automobile Clubs of America. Many owners of "mint-condition" antique cars are expected to participate in this event. Mogge will be driving his 1912 Model 35 Buick, a five passenger touring car with 22½ H. P., 4 cylinder engine.

Chairman Receives Award



J. D. MACARTHUR

John D. MacArthur, President of Bankers Life & Casualty company and board chairman of Park Ridge's Citizens Bank & Trust company, was named one of the year's winners of the 15th annual Horatio Alger award in a ceremony held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City, May 17.

The announcement was made in New York by Kenneth J. Beebe, president of the American Schools & Colleges Association, sponsors of the award. Among the nine other winners of 1961 awards was Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The winners are selected by balloting from 3,000 campus leaders in more than 344 colleges and universities throughout the country. These awards are presented annually to prominent Americans who, in spite of humble beginnings, achieve success in their chosen fields through individual initiative in the tradition of the Horatio Alger novels of yesteryear, and are living proof that equality of opportunity is available to all in America. Army of Counters

The 1960 census required 160,000 enumerators, 10,000 crew leaders, and 400 first-line supervisors.

Social Security Disability Benefits

Many disabled persons still do not realize they may qualify for social security disability benefits at any age below 65, according to northwest district manager Julius Berman.

Social security employees in the course of their public contacts find that many persons still believe, mistakenly, that these benefits are not payable until age 50, he said.

"Although there is a waiting period of six months after disability begins and before payments start, disabled persons, regardless of age, should not wait to get information about benefits. In fact, one may apply after the fourth month of disability," Berman added.

"TO QUALIFY for disability payments, two other conditions must be met by the disabled person," Berman explained. "He must have worked under social security for five years out of a 10-year period before the date disability began, and the disability must be severe and long lasting and keep him from doing substantial work."

For more information, disabled individuals, or someone acting for them, should write, telephone or visit the nearest social security office. The northwest district office is at 4255 Milwaukee ave., KI 5-8844.

DuPage county readers are served by the district office located at 1124 Westgate ave., Oak Park. (BB

Social Security Disability Benefits

Many disabled persons still do not realize they may qualify for social security disability benefits at any age below 65, according to northwest district manager Julius Berman.

Social security employees in the course of their public contacts find that many persons still believe, mistakenly, that these benefits are not payable until age 50, he said.

"Although there is a waiting period of six months after disability begins and before payments start, disabled persons, regardless of age, should not wait to get information about benefits. In fact, one may apply after the fourth month of disability," Berman added.

"TO QUALIFY for disability payments, two other conditions must be met by the disabled person," Berman explained. "He must have worked under social security for five years out of a 10-year period before the date disability began, and the disability must be severe and long lasting and keep him from doing substantial work."

For more information, disabled individuals, or someone acting for them, should write, telephone or visit the nearest social security office. The northwest district office is at 4255 Milwaukee ave., KI 5-8844.

DuPage county readers are served by the district office located at 1124 Westgate ave., Oak Park. (BB

Little Profit in Steak

Cattle Feeders Must 'Love' Their Work

By L. H. SIMERL

We hope that the farmers who produced those juicy steaks for today's dinners loved their work. They received little financial reward for their efforts.

Recent market prices for choice steers were mostly $24 a hundred pounds compared with $27.50 a year before and with $29.25 two years ago. Prices have been depressed by heavy sales of cattle out of feedlots and off wheat pastures, and by a weak consumer demand because of the business recession.

THERE MAY be no quick recovery from present price levels. Supplies of beef and competitive meats are expected to continue above year-before levels, while no real business boom is in sight to stimulate demand for the more expensive grades and cuts.

Cattle feeders will remember that the April report of cattle on feed showed 5 per cent more cattle in feedlots this year than last. A slightly larger share of them were headed for market in the April-May-June quarter this year than in 1960.

Competition from broilers will be at a record level. Production is up 15 to 20 per cent from last year. No cutback is in sight for at least 90 days.

THE PORK picture does not provide much encouragement for cattlemen. For nearly a year now the output of pork has been running less than 12 months earlier. But from now on, supplies may be 5 to 8 per cent larger than they were a year before.

The lower prices for cattle this year were forecast last fall. At that time we expressed the opinion that prices would average $1 to $2 a hundred pounds lower in 1961 than in 1960. In 1960 the monthly average prices for choice steers at Chicago ranged from a high of $28.08 in March to a low of $24.80 in September. The high this year was in January, at $27.42.

In the first four months of this year prices averaged $26.08, or $1.17 lower than a year before. In the last eight months of last year, the average price of choice steers at Chicago was $25.88. If prices are $1 or $2 lower this year, the average for the remainder of this year will be in the $24 to $25 bracket. A low monthly average of less than $24 may be recorded.

THERE IS some basis for expecting prices to improve in the last half of this year. The 7 per cent reduction last winter in the official estimates of cattle numbers may give ranchers and farmers increased optimism. They may hold a few more cows and heifers to enlarge breeding herds. This action could mildly restrict marketings for slaughter during the last half of this year and in 1962.

On the other side of the balance, the southwestern range states from Texas to Utah and California report serious drouth areas. If this drouth persists or worsens, substantial numbers of cattle will have to be moved to market or to other areas. This might become an important market price factor by midsummer. (FM

Down On The Farm

with Your Farm Adviser

Now that the planting season is over on many of the crops, we begin thinking about the control of insects. Indications are that we will have a light infestation of corn borer in the first generation. However, indications are that we may have a severe infestation on the second generation, both on the sweet corn and field corn all factors indicate this. Should this develop, it will be necessary of course, for us to follow a strict spray program otherwise we will have reduced yields in field corn and unsalable sweet corn.

Should the cool weather continue and we receive a great deal of rain it is possible that we will have a heavy infestation of army worms and cutworms. On the basis of previous experience, timothy and other grassy fields will probably be the first areas where army worms will be located. Next will be barley and rye fields and then wheat fields.

If you have an infestation apply one and one-half pounds of toxaphene or one-quarter pound of dieldrin per acre for small grains. Wait until the worms are about one-half inch long or longer. For beef pastures use toxaphene; allow 42 days between last grazing on treated pastures and slaughter. For dairy cattle, use two pounds of methoxychlor, or one pound of malathion per acre, but do not graze until one week after treatment.

BLACK CUTWORMS. Cutworms can be controlled by treating the soil with one-and-one-half pounds per acre of aldrin or heptachlor broadcast and disked in before planting. When no preventive measures have been used and worms are cutting corn below the heart of the plant, apply ½ pound of dieldrin, 3 pounds of toxaphene or ¼ pound of endrin per acre, and direct the spray at the base of the plant.

Beetles many times attack melons and cucumbers. If you have cucumbers or melons that are in the cotyledon stage, I would recommend that you spray these small plants every 5-7 days the first few weeks. Use dieldrin, 50% wettable powder, ½ pound dieldrin per acre. If you are hand spraying, if the whole field is treated broadcast, use one pound of dieldrin per acre.

Many people are bothered with weeds, especially during the spring of the year. The most popular weed killer, 2,4-D is used many times. It is important to remember that 2,4-D kills tomatoes, grapes, beans, flowers and certain ornamentals also. Do not use 2,4-D near these crops.

Before using chemicals, home gardeners and farmers should read the directions on the herbicide container.

Unfortunately many gardeners give their flowers as well as weeds a dose of weed killer. During mid-summer months these gardens show dead ornamentals and flowers as well as broadleaf plants. The following five guides are recommended: (1) Do not apply any form of 2,4-D on a windy day. (2) Use only the amine formulation in areas where sensative crops are growing, and keep a safe distance away from sensative crops. (3) Do not apply when the wind is blowing toward a sensative crop. (4) On farms and fields, next to sensative crops, use other weed control chemical. A wide variety of pre-emergence chemicals is now available for corn and soybeans. (5) To reduce the amount of small spray particles, do not use more than 30 pounds of pressure, and increase the amount of water to 10 gallons per acre. The high-volatile esters produce the most vapor. The low ones start vaporizing when temperatures go above 60° F. The low-volatile esters are safer for use.

The amine form of 2,4-D is non-volatile. Use only this form in areas where sensative crops are growing.

In 1959 the Illinois State Legislature passed a law that can prohibit the use of 2,4-D's in certain areas. This law has been invoked in Cook county. Therefore, do not use 2,4-D sprays in Cook county that are of the high-volatile type. Use only low-volatile esters or amine type sprays.

Farm Bureau Leaders Testify on U. S. Bill

Farm Bureau leaders minced no words in branding the Cochrane-Freeman omnibus farm bill as a "grab for unprecendented power by the Secretary of Agricuture" in a five-hour testimony session before the Senate agriculture committee Tuesday.

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the Illinois Agricultural association was among those who testified against the bill, now in hearings before the committee headed by Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) Kuhfuss told the committee hat "Illinois farmers are very concerned about the power the bill gives to the Secretary of Agriculture and are concerned about the commodity-by-commidity approach which the bill provides."

Senator Ellender, who has been critical of requests from corn producers for farm programs, referred in questioning to corn as the "blue-eyed, fair-haired little girl of the grain groups" and indicated corn producers had expected special favors from the Congress.

TO THIS, Kuhfuss answered "If you call corn the blue-eyed, fair-haired girl, you should also say that she is the last one to object to the transfer from the production of cotton and wheat to the production of corn and feed grains.

"These acres transferred from cotton and wheat and planted in corn and feed grains accounted for more than enough to make up the overproduction in feed grains."

In other questioning, Kuhfuss testified that "Illinois people are also concerned that Congress should be the true representative of the people and should not yield its legislative power to 'representative' commodity groups. Congress is in the best position to represent interests of all of the people and Congress should recognize this responsibility."

He added that "the committees proposed in the Cochrane-Freeman Omnibus bill do not make provision for representatives of the livestock producers to sit on the corn commodity committee and yet livestock feeders use nearly 85 per cent of the corn produced."

FINALLY, KUHFUSS testified that we should take a new look at the surpluses which some claim should be maintained as a security measure against adverse weather or other national emergency.

"If these stocks should be held as a security benefit for all people, the responsibility should be shared by all the people. Instead, we have been charging this surplus against agriculture and allowing its influence to be reflected in the market Kuhfuss said.

Testimony given by Kuhfuss followed a prepared statement delivered by Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Appearing along with Shuman and Kuhfuss were other state Farm Bureau residents including E. Howard Hill, Iowa; George Doup, Indiana; Burl St. Clair, Kentucky; and Keith Wallace, Vermont.

After the meeting Kuhfuss said he was "encouraged by the reception we got from the committee. I believe they are taking a careful look at this Onmibus Farm Bill and realize its dangers as we do."

No 'Pat' Answer Yet To Best Garden Spray

There's no "pat" answer to which is best, a spray or a dust, for controlling diseases and insects in home gardens and orchards.

But here are some guides from the University of Illinois Department of Plant Pathology:

FLOWERS: Dusts are better than sprays. They are easier to apply and stick better when the foliage is wet. Special equipment isn't needed either. U of I specialists recommend all-purpose dusts for home use. These mixes contain both insecticides and fungicides and control practically all common insects and diseases. For best results, be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions.

VEGETABLES: Either sprays or dusts are satisfactory, but complete coverage is the important thing. Again, dusts are easier to apply and do not need special equipment. All-purpose vegetable dusts, if used correctly, control both insects and diseases, but home-mixed sprays generally give better disease control. Some basic ingredients for home-mixed sprays are malathion as the insecticide, and maneb, zineb or captan as the fungicide. Specific problems require a more specific mix.

FRUITS: Both dusts and sprays may be used. However, sprays usually give more effective coverage and consequently better control on such fruits as apples and strawberries. The specialists say that home mixes are usually better than all-purpose sprays. The basic materials needed for a home mix are lead arsenate, DDT and malathion as the insecticides, and captan, zineb and wettable sulfur as the fungicides.

The best times to apply dusts are either in the early morning or late evening, when the leaves are damp and the air is still. Sprays, however, can be applied any time when the air is fairly calm.

You can get a complete spray schedule for flowers, fruits and vegetables from your county farm advisor or the Department of Plant Pathology, College of Agriculture, Urbana. (FM

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

Many lawns are beginning to look weak and yellowish or are showing lighter colored streaks. This is a sign that the fertilizer applied earlier in the spring is nearly gone and more should be added. At this time of year a fertilizer high in nitrogen can be applied if the nitrogen is an organic or ureaform type. Nitrogen in these forms is slowly available, so that it lasts longer in warm weather, and it has less tendency to burn lawns.

Be sure to follow the recommendations of the manufacturer, and water the material in after application. Fertilizer in direct contact with grass leaves can cause buring, and no fertilizer is any good until it is in solution.

LAWN WEEDS are particularly bad in some areas this spring. Prompt treatment now, while the grass is still growing and before the weeds get too big, will help prevent bare spots in the lawn when the weeds die.

Broadleaf weeds such as dandelions and plantain can be killed with 2,4-D. If chickweed is present, use a combination of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T.

Crabgrass seed is just starting to germinate. Pre-emergence crabgrass killers are still of some value if applied now. Once the crabgrass is up, use a weed killer containing Sodar.

Several weed killers now contain 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T and sodar. Both granular and liquid materials are available. If properly applied, either material works well. When using granules, be sure the lawn is wet so the material will stick to the leaves of the weeds.

Shut Off Tractor To Refuel

University of Illinois farm safety specialist O. L. Hogsett says there's a lot more to filling a tractor gas tank—and doing it safely—than just pouring in the fuel.

When gasoline comes into contact with air, it forms high explosive vapors. A pint of gasoline mixed with air has the power of nearly 11 pounds of dynamite.

Always shut off the tractor before fueling. And take special care not to overfill the tank. If you do spill gasoline on the tractor, wait at least 10 minutes before starting the engine so the gas can evaporate. (FM

Farmers Can Get Top Net Income More Than 1 Way

A University of Illinois farm record study shows farmers can organize their cropping system more than one way to get the same net income.

A recent study compared farms with 90 per cent of their tillable land in corn and soybeans and another group with 67 per cent in these crops. Soil quality was similar on all farms. In 1959 and 1960, the management profits on these two groups of farms were about the same.

CROP YIELDS averaged sightly lower and fertilizer costs ran much higher on the heavily cropped farms, according to U of I farm management specialist D. F. Wilken. The added costs, however, were covered by added returns from more total bushels of cash grain crops.

On the less intensively cropped farms, livestock provided additional returns to make up for part of the lower returns from grain sales.

UNDER PRICES and costs that existed in 1959 and 1960, Wilken believes high crop yields and efficient use of labor become more important than more acreage in corn and soybeans to achieve a high net farm income.

A farm plan that includes uses for labor, buildings and operator's management know how the year around is likely to mean the highest net farm income in the next few years, he concludes. (FM

Heredity Is Topic For Home Bureau

"You and Heredity" was the topic of Mrs. Claradehl Upham, county home advisor when she spoke recently to members of Elk Grove Home Bureau unit in the home of Mrs. John Moehling. The topic included a discussion of various phases of heredity and environment in relation to the development of a personality. This was the group's evening meeting of the summer season.

Mrs. Noel Foss outlined the procedure of the afternoon meetings beginning in September. Meetings will begin at noon with dessert luncheon served until 12:30 p.m. The business meeting will begin at 12:30 with the lesson for the month following. The meeting should be adjourned by 2:30 p.m. to allow members to be home in time for the arrival of their school children.

MRS. UPHAM called attention to the annual tour which is a "circle boat trip" of the Chicago waterfront, Sag Canal, and return via the Chicago river. Husbands are invited to join this all-day affair. The charge will be $6.00. Because of the expected attendance, three separated tours will be arranged; one definite date, so far, is August 10.

Homemakers' camp at Camp Shaw-Waw-Nas-See, Manteno, will be from Friday, June 23, to Monday, after lunch, June 26. The cost is $13.50, plus $1 registration fee. This includes meals, craft and the use of the new swimming pool.

Mrs. Ernest Brezinski just recently concluded the second series of clothing lessons on advanced clothing construction, taught by Miss Esther Sieman of the home economics extension department of the University of Illinois. Mrs. Thomas Sullivan attended as an observer.

MRS. BREZINSKI will give instructions on how to insert gussets in a garment, and inserting an invisible zipper in a garment at the next sewing session which will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Ostrowski, Itasca at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 6.

Mrs. Herbert Sietman will be the next resident hostess June 28, and Mrs. Oscar Dierking, Mrs. Joseph Dritlein and Mrs. Noel Foss will be the dessert hostesses. The lesson, "You Are An Important Person," will be presented by two unit members.

Anyone interested in finding out how important she is as a homemaker is invited. Transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Thomas Sulivan, He 7-9264. (FM

Little Profit in Steak

Cattle Feeders Must 'Love' Their Work

By L. H. SIMERL

We hope that the farmers who produced those juicy steaks for today's dinners loved their work. They received little financial reward for their efforts.

Recent market prices for choice steers were mostly $24 a hundred pounds compared with $27.50 a year before and with $29.25 two years ago. Prices have been depressed by heavy sales of cattle out of feedlots and off wheat pastures, and by a weak consumer demand because of the business recession.

THERE MAY be no quick recovery from present price levels. Supplies of beef and competitive meats are expected to continue above year-before levels, while no real business boom is in sight to stimulate demand for the more expensive grades and cuts.

Cattle feeders will remember that the April report of cattle on feed showed 5 per cent more cattle in feedlots this year than last. A slightly larger share of them were headed for market in the April-May-June quarter this year than in 1960.

Competition from broilers will be at a record level. Production is up 15 to 20 per cent from last year. No cutback is in sight for at least 90 days.

THE PORK picture does not provide much encouragement for cattlemen. For nearly a year now the output of pork has been running less than 12 months earlier. But from now on, supplies may be 5 to 8 per cent larger than they were a year before.

The lower prices for cattle this year were forecast last fall. At that time we expressed the opinion that prices would average $1 to $2 a hundred pounds lower in 1961 than in 1960. In 1960 the monthly average prices for choice steers at Chicago ranged from a high of $28.08 in March to a low of $24.80 in September. The high this year was in January, at $27.42.

In the first four months of this year prices averaged $26.08, or $1.17 lower than a year before. In the last eight months of last year, the average price of choice steers at Chicago was $25.88. If prices are $1 or $2 lower this year, the average for the remainder of this year will be in the $24 to $25 bracket. A low monthly average of less than $24 may be recorded.

THERE IS some basis for expecting prices to improve in the last half of this year. The 7 per cent reduction last winter in the official estimates of cattle numbers may give ranchers and farmers increased optimism. They may hold a few more cows and heifers to enlarge breeding herds. This action could mildly restrict marketings for slaughter during the last half of this year and in 1962.

On the other side of the balance, the southwestern range states from Texas to Utah and California report serious drouth areas. If this drouth persists or worsens, substantial numbers of cattle will have to be moved to market or to other areas. This might become an important market price factor by midsummer. (FM

There's no "pat" answer to which is best, a spray or a dust, for controlling diseases and insects in home gardens and orchards.

But here are some guides from the University of Illinois Department of Plant Pathology:

FLOWERS: Dusts are better than sprays. They are easier to apply and stick better when the foliage is wet. Special equipment isn't needed either. U of I specialists recommend all-purpose dusts for home use. These mixes contain both insecticides and fungicides and control practically all common insects and diseases. For best results, be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions.

VEGETABLES: Either sprays or dusts are satisfactory, but complete coverage is the important thing. Again, dusts are easier to apply and do not need special equipment. All-purpose vegetable dusts, if used correctly, control both insects and diseases, but home-mixed sprays generally give better disease control. Some basic ingredients for home-mixed sprays are malathion as the insecticide, and maneb, zineb or captan as the fungicide. Specific problems require a more specific mix.

FRUITS: Both dusts and sprays may be used. However, sprays usually give more effective coverage and consequently better control on such fruits as apples and strawberries. The specialists say that home mixes are usually better than all-purpose sprays. The basic materials needed for a home mix are lead arsenate, DDT and malathion as the insecticides, and captan, zineb and wettable sulfur as the fungicides.

The best times to apply dusts are either in the early morning or late evening, when the leaves are damp and the air is still. Sprays, however, can be applied any time when the air is fairly calm.

You can get a complete spray schedule for flowers, fruits and vegetables from your county farm advisor or the Department of Plant Pathology, College of Agriculture, Urbana. (FM

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

Many lawns are beginning to look weak and yellowish or are showing lighter colored streaks. This is a sign that the fertilizer applied earlier in the spring is nearly gone and more should be added. At this time of year a fertilizer high in nitrogen can be applied if the nitrogen is an organic or ureaform type. Nitrogen in these forms is slowly available, so that it lasts longer in warm weather, and it has less tendency to burn lawns.

Be sure to follow the recommendations of the manufacturer, and water the material in after application. Fertilizer in direct contact with grass leaves can cause buring, and no fertilizer is any good until it is in solution.

LAWN WEEDS are particularly bad in some areas this spring. Prompt treatment now, while the grass is still growing and before the weeds get too big, will help prevent bare spots in the lawn when the weeds die.

Broadleaf weeds such as dandelions and plantain can be killed with 2,4-D. If chickweed is present, use a combination of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T.

Crabgrass seed is just starting to germinate. Pre-emergence crabgrass killers are still of some value if applied now. Once the crabgrass is up, use a weed killer containing Sodar.

Several weed killers now contain 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T and sodar. Both granular and liquid materials are available. If properly applied, either material works well. When using granules, be sure the lawn is wet so the material will stick to the leaves of the weeds.

Heredity Is Topic For Home Bureau

"You and Heredity" was the topic of Mrs. Claradehl Upham, county home advisor when she spoke recently to members of Elk Grove Home Bureau unit in the home of Mrs. John Moehling. The topic included a discussion of various phases of heredity and environment in relation to the development of a personality. This was the group's evening meeting of the summer season.

Mrs. Noel Foss outlined the procedure of the afternoon meetings beginning in September. Meetings will begin at noon with dessert luncheon served until 12:30 p.m. The business meeting will begin at 12:30 with the lesson for the month following. The meeting should be adjourned by 2:30 p.m. to allow members to be home in time for the arrival of their school children.

MRS. UPHAM called attention to the annual tour which is a "circle boat trip" of the Chicago waterfront, Sag Canal, and return via the Chicago river. Husbands are invited to join this all-day affair. The charge will be $6.00. Because of the expected attendance, three separated tours will be arranged; one definite date, so far, is August 10.

Homemakers' camp at Camp Shaw-Waw-Nas-See, Manteno, will be from Friday, June 23, to Monday, after lunch, June 26. The cost is $13.50, plus $1 registration fee. This includes meals, craft and the use of the new swimming pool.

Mrs. Ernest Brezinski just recently concluded the second series of clothing lessons on advanced clothing construction, taught by Miss Esther Sieman of the home economics extension department of the University of Illinois. Mrs. Thomas Sullivan attended as an observer.

MRS. BREZINSKI will give instructions on how to insert gussets in a garment, and inserting an invisible zipper in a garment at the next sewing session which will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Ostrowski, Itasca at 10 a.m. Tuesday, June 6.

Mrs. Herbert Sietman will be the next resident hostess June 28, and Mrs. Oscar Dierking, Mrs. Joseph Dritlein and Mrs. Noel Foss will be the dessert hostesses. The lesson, "You Are An Important Person," will be presented by two unit members.

Anyone interested in finding out how important she is as a homemaker is invited. Transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Thomas Sulivan, He 7-9264. (FM

Down On The Farm

with Your Farm Adviser

Now that the planting season is over on many of the crops, we begin thinking about the control of insects. Indications are that we will have a light infestation of corn borer in the first generation. However, indications are that we may have a severe infestation on the second generation, both on the sweet corn and field corn all factors indicate this. Should this develop, it will be necessary of course, for us to follow a strict spray program otherwise we will have reduced yields in field corn and unsalable sweet corn.

Should the cool weather continue and we receive a great deal of rain it is possible that we will have a heavy infestation of army worms and cutworms. On the basis of previous experience, timothy and other grassy fields will probably be the first areas where army worms will be located. Next will be barley and rye fields and then wheat fields.

If you have an infestation apply one and one-half pounds of toxaphene or one-quarter pound of dieldrin per acre for small grains. Wait until the worms are about one-half inch long or longer. For beef pastures use toxaphene; allow 42 days between last grazing on treated pastures and slaughter. For dairy cattle, use two pounds of methoxychlor, or one pound of malathion per acre, but do not graze until one week after treatment.

BLACK CUTWORMS. Cutworms can be controlled by treating the soil with one-and-one-half pounds per acre of aldrin or heptachlor broadcast and disked in before planting. When no preventive measures have been used and worms are cutting corn below the heart of the plant, apply ½ pound of dieldrin, 3 pounds of toxaphene or ¼ pound of endrin per acre, and direct the spray at the base of the plant.

Beetles many times attack melons and cucumbers. If you have cucumbers or melons that are in the cotyledon stage, I would recommend that you spray these small plants every 5-7 days the first few weeks. Use dieldrin, 50% wettable powder, ½ pound dieldrin per acre. If you are hand spraying, if the whole field is treated broadcast, use one pound of dieldrin per acre.

Many people are bothered with weeds, especially during the spring of the year. The most popular weed killer, 2,4-D is used many times. It is important to remember that 2,4-D kills tomatoes, grapes, beans, flowers and certain ornamentals also. Do not use 2,4-D near these crops.

Before using chemicals, home gardeners and farmers should read the directions on the herbicide container.

Unfortunately many gardeners give their flowers as well as weeds a dose of weed killer. During mid-summer months these gardens show dead ornamentals and flowers as well as broadleaf plants. The following five guides are recommended: (1) Do not apply any form of 2,4-D on a windy day. (2) Use only the amine formulation in areas where sensative crops are growing, and keep a safe distance away from sensative crops. (3) Do not apply when the wind is blowing toward a sensative crop. (4) On farms and fields, next to sensative crops, use other weed control chemical. A wide variety of pre-emergence chemicals is now available for corn and soybeans. (5) To reduce the amount of small spray particles, do not use more than 30 pounds of pressure, and increase the amount of water to 10 gallons per acre. The high-volatile esters produce the most vapor. The low ones start vaporizing when temperatures go above 60° F. The low-volatile esters are safer for use.

The amine form of 2,4-D is non-volatile. Use only this form in areas where sensative crops are growing.

In 1959 the Illinois State Legislature passed a law that can prohibit the use of 2,4-D's in certain areas. This law has been invoked in Cook county. Therefore, do not use 2,4-D sprays in Cook county that are of the high-volatile type. Use only low-volatile esters or amine type sprays.

Farmers Can Get Top Net Income More Than 1 Way

A University of Illinois farm record study shows farmers can organize their cropping system more than one way to get the same net income.

A recent study compared farms with 90 per cent of their tillable land in corn and soybeans and another group with 67 per cent in these crops. Soil quality was similar on all farms. In 1959 and 1960, the management profits on these two groups of farms were about the same.

CROP YIELDS averaged sightly lower and fertilizer costs ran much higher on the heavily cropped farms, according to U of I farm management specialist D. F. Wilken. The added costs, however, were covered by added returns from more total bushels of cash grain crops. On the less intensively cropped farms, livestock provided additional returns to make up for part of the lower returns from grain sales.

UNDER PRICES and costs that existed in 1959 and 1960, Wilken believes high crop yields and efficient use of labor become more important than more acreage in corn and soybeans to achieve a high net farm income.

A farm plan that includes uses for labor, buildings and operator's management know how the year around is likely to mean the highest net farm income in the next few years, he concludes. (FM

Farm Bureau Leaders Testify on U. S. Bill

Farm Bureau leaders minced no words in branding the Cochrane-Freeman omnibus farm bill as a "grab for unprecendented power by the Secretary of Agricuture" in a five-hour testimony session before the Senate agriculture committee Tuesday.

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the Illinois Agricultural association was among those who testified against the bill, now in hearings before the committee headed by Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) Kuhfuss told the committee hat "Illinois farmers are very concerned about the power the bill gives to the Secretary of Agriculture and are concerned about the commodity-by-commidity approach which the bill provides."

Senator Ellender, who has been critical of requests from corn producers for farm programs, referred in questioning to corn as the "blue-eyed, fair-haired little girl of the grain groups" and indicated corn producers had expected special favors from the Congress.

TO THIS, Kuhfuss answered "If you call corn the blue-eyed, fair-haired girl, you should also say that she is the last one to object, to the transfer from the production of cotton and wheat to the production of corn and feed grains.

"These acres transferred from cotton and wheat and planted in corn and feed grains accounted for more than enough to make up the overproduction in feed grains."

In other questioning, Kuhfuss testified that "Illinois people are also concerned that Congress should be the true representative of the people and should not yield its legislative power to 'representative' commodity groups. Congress is in the best position to represent interests of all of the people and Congress should recognize this responsibility."

He added that "the committees proposed in the Cochrane-Freeman Omnibus bill do not make provision for representatives of the livestock producers to sit on the corn commodity committee and yet livestock feeders use nearly 85 per cent of the corn produced."

FINALLY, KUHFUSS testified that we should take a new look at the surpluses which some claim should be maintained as a security measure against adverse weather or other national emergency.

"If these stocks should be held as a security benefit for all people, the responsibility should be shared by all the people. Instead, we have been charging this surplus against agriculture and allowing its influence to be reflected in the market Kuhfuss said.

Testimony given by Kuhfuss followed a prepared statement delivered by Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Appearing along with Shuman and Kuhfuss were other state Farm Bureau residents including E. Howard Hill, Iowa; George Doup, Indiana; Burl St. Clair, Kentucky; and Keith Wallace, Vermont.

After the meeting Kuhfuss said he was "encouraged by the reception we got from the committee. I believe they are taking a careful look at this Onmibus Farm Bill and realize its dangers as we do."

Shut Off Tractor To Refuel

University of Illinois farm safety specialist O. L. Hogsett says there's a lot more to filling a tractor gas tank—and doing it safely—than just pouring in the fuel.

When gasoline comes into contact with air, it forms high explosive vapors. A pint of gasoline mixed with air has the power of nearly 11 pounds of dynamite.

Always shut off the tractor before fueling. And take special care not to overfill the tank. If you do spill gasoline on the tractor, wait at least 10 minutes before starting the engine so the gas can evaporate. (FM

Chocolate Tops For Cupcakes

What's sauce for the pudding may be frosting for the cake! This fine sauce with the rich flavor of unsweetened chocolate can be made into a frosting just by adding two cups of sugar to the basic recipe.

Fudge Sauce and Frosting

5 squares unsweetened chocolate

½ cup butter or margarine

3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

1 2/3 cups (1 tall can) undiluted evaporated milk

1¼ teaspoons vanilla

Melt chocolate and butter in saucepan. Remove from heat. Add sugar, alternately with milk, blending well, after each addition. Place over medium heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly.

THEN COOK and stir about 8 minutes, or until mixture becomes thick and creamy. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Serve warm as a sauce. Makes 3 cups sauce.

To Make Frosting, use 2 cups of the above recipe and cool to room temperature. Then add an additional 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, blending well.

Makes 2 1/3 cups frosting, or enough to cover tops and sides of two 8- or 9-inch layers, or 24 cupcakes. (SH

Shape of Things To Come Hamburgs, Bread Variety

Small, large, round or long—hamburgers are the shape of things to come. Some will be decorated with lettuce, tomato or onion, others with cheese, or a pickle or olive perched atop a toothpick.

All these hamburgers, irrespective of shape, size or garnish, will have one thing in common: delicious taste, because Ac'cent has brought out their full beef flavor and juiciness.

Once your meat is well-seasoned, shape it to suit your mood—and almost any kind of bread or roll.

SHAPE-A-BURGERS

A pound ground beef

1 teaspoon Ac'cent

¾ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon pepper

BREAK UP MEAT with a fork in mixing bowl. Sprinkle with Ac'cent, salt and pepper. Toss gently with fork to distribute ingredients. Form into 4 hamburgers.

Panbroil or broil to desired doneness, turning once. Or cook to desired doneness on outdoor grill which has been lined with heavy duty aluminum foil. Yield: 4 servings.

Frankburgers: Shape meat mixture into 4 oblong patties to fit frankfurter rolls.

Hero Burger: Shape meat mixture into one large oblong patty to fit small loaf of French bread.

Big Burger: Shape meat mixture into one large round patty. Split large round loaf of bread; place meat between halves. Cut in wedges.

Biscuit Burgers: Shape meat mixture into miniature burgers. Cook about 1 minute on each side. Serve in miniature biscuits.

Week's Best food buys

Many marketing factors exert combined influences on live, wholesale and retail outlets to establish a smorgasbord of consumer values in meats, poultry and produce during this first post-holiday week of the season.

Consensus retail pricing is notably unpredictable, although in sum total food prices are rated mostly steady at week-ago levels. Quotes will range widely by individual stores, and in terms of specific kinds and cuts of meats or produce items.

Weather, receipts, inventories, demand, short holiday work week, and competition within lines over consumer attention are the more potent factors affecting the metropolitan area food scene.

"SHOP AND SAVE" is the guidepost on the University of Illinois consumer service market survey for the period ending June 3. In a general switch from early week holiday ham and poultry values, beef and fryers emerge by late week at the top of the bargain column with steaks probably taking the lead. Eggs are two to four cents lower at retail. Produce variety improves with the advent of June.

Specific values include: Meats—beef steaks, chucks and rib roasts, lamb chops, pork steaks and chops, and bacon; Poultry—large eggs and fryers; Produce—strawberries, melons, bananas, tomatoes, lettuce, onions, potatoes, peppers and cabbage; Groceries—tuna fish, coffee, sugar, tomato products, peaches, frozen orange concentrate.

THE JUNE calendar of produce values also includes (indicates peak supply month): Fruits — apricots, bananas, blackberries*, blueberries, cherries*, figs, gooseberries, lemons, limes, mangos*, nectarines, papayas, peaches, pineapple, prune-plums, raspberries, strawberries; vegetables—beans*, beets, corn, cucumbers*, green onions, kohlrabi*, lettuce*, okra, peas, tomatoes; melons — cantaloupe, honeyballs, watermelon.

Beef cuts and fryers produce a major clash. With even receipts noted on live markets, and limited demand persisting at wholesale, finished beef slid into its eighth consecutive week of lower costs, carcass cuts dropping another 1½ cents and economy chucks 2 cents.

RETAILS HUNG out widely varying and unpredictable feature prices on round, sirloin and porterhouse steaks, ground beef and roasts. Fryer markets, on the other hand, continued to sag despite current store promotion emphasis, and this is based on an anticipated deluge of new supplies.

Fryers held onto existing 25-35 cent price levels, and stewing hens and turkeys showed a uniform 39 cent pivot point. Large grade A white eggs dropped to 45-47 cents momentarily as surpluses are siphoned into a more active breaker or cold storage trade. (SH

Teen Party Swings With Platter Pies

It's one for the records—the party Beth Hunt of Pillsbury's Junior Home Service center is sharing with other stereo enthusiasts. On the player, a selection of musical favorites; on the table a selection of platter pies, perfect for the occasion.

To do likewise, gather up a few of your friends, set out records for listening, group singing, or dancing, and follow these easy refreshment directions:

START WITH an oven preheated to 450°, Pillsbury Golden Pie Crust Mix or Sticks—prepared according to package directions, and a 14″ pizza pan (you can make your own by cutting a 15″ circle of heavy duty aluminum foil and folding up the edge 1″ all around to form a standing rim).

Form dough into ball. Flatten to ½″ thickness; smooth edges. Roll out on floured surface to a circle 1″ larger than 14″ pizza pan. Fit loosely into pan; trim pastry at top edge.

Prick generously with fork. Bake 8 to 10 minutes until golden brown. Cool.

FROM remaining pastry, cut a "record label," using a saucer as a cutting guide. Prick generously with a fork. Cut a small "spindle" hole in the center. Place on a cookie sheet and bake at 450° for 8 to 10 minutes.

Take your pick of fillings:

LEMON-CHEESE PLATTER PIE

Cream one package (8 oz.) softened cream cheese. Add one package dry instant pudding mix. As directed on package, add liquid gradually and beat. Pour into the cooled, baked pie shell.

Drizzle chocolate syrup in lines about 1½ inches apart from the center of the pie to the edges.

With the tines of a fork, make a circular pattern beginning at the center and continuing until the grooves resemble those of a record.

Place the baked pastry label in the center of the pie. Refrigerate until serving time. Serves 6 to 8.

CHOCOLATE PLATTER PIE

Prepare one package instant chocolate pudding. Whip ¾ cup whipping cream until thickened, but not stiff. Gently but thoroughly, fold the pudding and the cream together.

Pour into the cooled pie shell. With a rubber spatula, begin at the center and make circular swirls toward the outside of the pie.

Place the baked pastry "label" in the center. Chill. For more Platter Pie recipes, write Junior Home Service, The Pillsbury Co., Minneapolis (2) Minn.

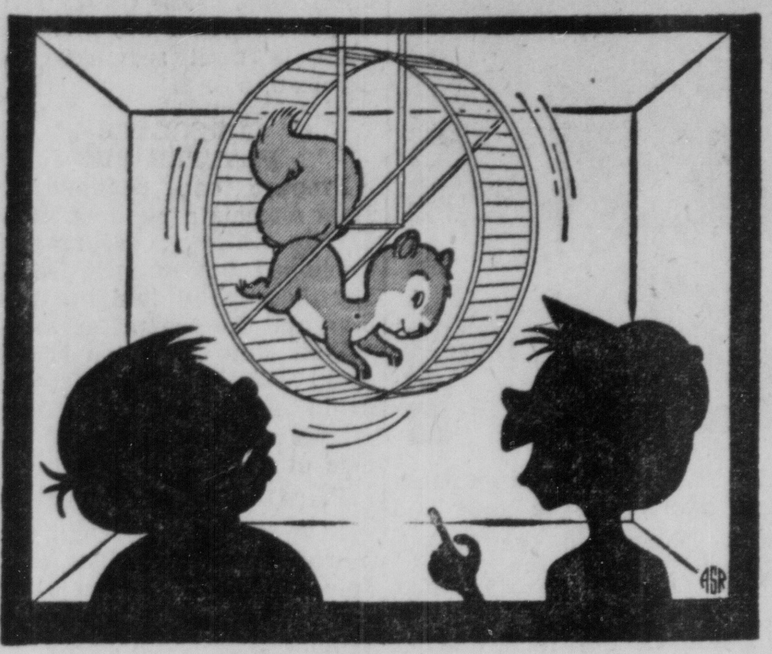
Food Sense — Not Nonsense



Going Around But Getting Nowhere

Like the squirrel, teen-age boys who are overweight are going around in circles and getting nowhere. Unlike the squirrel, theirs is a vicious circle. Often, these teeners eat less food than boys of normal weight

Yet, to avoid gaining more weight, they have to eat still less. The reason? They do not participate as wholeheartedly in the activities of living.

And the less these overweight boys eat, the more inactive they become.

THIS VICIOUS circle was nailed down by two New England scientists, Jean Mayer and Patricia Stefanik, when they studied teenage boys.

They learned it was how hard these teeners worked at an activity, rather than time alone, that was the critical factor in weight control.

In contrast to the overweight, teeners of normal weight participated wholeheartedly in both camp and school activities.

HERE WAS the way to break the vicious circle that the scientists were looking for. When some of the overweight teeners were persuaded to step up their activities, weight problems disappeared, even though these teeners were eating more food.

This research holds out hope for those who are cutting the amount of food they eat to the bone and still not achieving the weight loss they crave.

Here is the way out this research provides: to be able to eat food without fear, put your heart into physical activities that you enjoy.

NO ONE deserves to have hunger as a constant companion. Eating is too much fun for such sacrifice. To make sure food is fun and full of the nutrients you need each day, include in your meals: meat or an alternate, milk or cheese, fruits or vegetables, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal. (SH

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

by LOIS SEILER

PREPARING THE RICE is one of her favorite recipes, a Ground Beef Casserole, is Mrs. Eugene P. Loizzo of Arlington Heights. Cooks will find this simple to prepare tasty dish will fast become a favorite as it is also easy on the budget and eye. To top off the meal Mrs. Loizzo's dessert choice is a luscious Strawberry Glaze Pie.

Tried and tested through the years are the three tempting recipes which have been shared with us by Mrs. Eugene P. Loizzo of Arlington Heights.

"They have been in my family for a long time," commented Mrs. Loizzo, "and are my favorite recipes."

One is a ground beef casserole which this good cook likes to serve for a luncheon or dinner. Simple to prepare, the dish consists of a mixture of browned beef, onion, celery, rice, cream of mushroom and chicken soups with soy sauce as a seasoning.

Baked in a casserole topped by crispy Chinese noodles or shoe string potatoes, this savory dish will serve six.

As accompaniments for this meal Mrs. Loizzo suggests a tossed salad or cole slaw and garlic bread. Her choice for dessert is a luscious strawberry pie.

A RICH, buttery cookie-like crust forms the base for this pie which has a vanilla custard filling topped by a strawberry glaze. Refrigerated for several hours, the pie is served garnished with whipped cream.

Although elegant in appearance and delightful to taste, this dessert is relatively easy to prepare. There is no trick to the crust, which is simply mixed together and patted into a pie tin.

Packaged custard pudding is used for the filling and frozen strawberries for the topping. But the result is a professional-appearing delicacy designed to appeal to the most discriminating gourmet.

"MEN especially enjoy this strawberry pie," said Mrs. Loizzo. "In addition to being a good dinner dessert, it is nice to serve in the evening after a round of bridge or bunco."

This good cook's third favorite recipe is one she simply calls an Ice Box Salad. Frozen in an ice cube tray, salad must be made the day before it is served.

It is a mellow mixture of miniature marshmallows, crushed pineapple, mayonnaise, cream cheese and whipped cream. Sliced in squares and served on lettuce leaves, Mrs. Loizzo likes to use this refreshing salad as an accompaniment for a luncheon which features a tuna fish or crab meat salad. And it is delicious with some dinners, too.

MR. AND MRS. Loizzo moved from Morton Grove to their home at 707 N. Wilshire in Arlington Heights two years ago. Mrs. Loizzo recently joined the Holy Family Hospital auxiliary and will work at the new hospital as a volunteer.

Ground Beef Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
5 celery ribs, chopped
1 cup Minute Rice
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Brown ground beef and onion. Season with salt and pepper. Barely cover celery with water and cook until tender. Reserve water.

Cook Minute Rice according to package directions. Then mix all of ingredients together, including the celery water. Turn into a lightly-greased 1½ quart casserole and sprinkle top with Chinese noodles or shoe string potatoes.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Strawberry Pie

CRUST:
¼ pound butter
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar

Work ingredients together until crumbly. Pat into the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie tin.

Bake in a 425 degree oven until a light golden brown, about 15 minutes. (Watch carefully as the crust burns easily.) Prepare filling and topping:

1 package Kosto vanilla pudding
1 small box frozen strawberries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch

Cook vanilla pudding according to package directions. (Do not use instant pudding.) When cool, pour into pie shell.

Drain defrosted strawberries and reserve juice. (There should be one cup.)

Combine strawberry juice and cornstarch and cook together until thick and shiny. When thickened, add strawberries and pour over custard. Refrigerate at least six hours or overnight.

To serve, garnish pie with whipped cream. Serves 6.

Ice Box Salad

1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
½ pint whipped cream, whipped

Combine mayonnaise with softened cream cheese and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and blend together.

Pour into an ice cube tray and let set overnight. Slice in squares and serve on lettuce leaves. Serves 6.

Here is the way out this research provides: to be able to eat food without fear, put your heart into physical activities that you enjoy.

NO ONE deserves to have hunger as a constant companion. Eating is too much fun for such sacrifice. To make sure food is fun and full of the nutrients you need each day, include in your meals: meat or an alternate, milk or cheese, fruits or vegetables, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal. (SH

PREPARING THE RICE is one of her favorite recipes, a Ground Beef Casserole, is Mrs. Eugene P. Loizzo of Arlington Heights. Cooks will find this simple to prepare tasty dish will fast become a favorite as it is also easy on the budget and eye. To top off the meal Mrs. Loizzo's dessert choice is a luscious Strawberry Glaze Pie.

Tried and tested through the years are the three tempting recipes which have been shared with us by Mrs. Eugene P. Loizzo of Arlington Heights.

"They have been in my family for a long time," commented Mrs. Loizzo, "and are my favorite recipes."

One is a ground beef casserole which this good cook likes to serve for a luncheon or dinner. Simple to prepare, the dish consists of a mixture of browned beef, onion, celery, rice, cream of mushroom and chicken soups with soy sauce as a seasoning.

Baked in a casserole topped by crispy Chinese noodles or shoe string potatoes, this savory dish will serve six.

As accompaniments for this meal Mrs. Loizzo suggests a tossed salad or cole slaw and garlic bread. Her choice for dessert is a luscious strawberry pie.

A RICH, buttery cookie-like crust forms the base for this pie which has a vanilla custard filling topped by a strawberry glaze. Refrigerated for several hours, the pie is served garnished with whipped cream.

Although elegant in appearance and delightful to taste, this dessert is relatively easy to prepare. There is no trick to the crust, which is simply mixed together and patted into a pie tin.

Packaged custard pudding is used for the filling and frozen strawberries for the topping. But the result is a professional-appearing delicacy designed to appeal to the most discriminating gourmet.

"MEN especially enjoy this strawberry pie," said Mrs. Loizzo. "In addition to being a good dinner dessert, it is nice to serve in the evening after a round of bridge or bunco."

This good cook's third favorite recipe is one she simply calls an Ice Box Salad. Frozen in an ice cube tray, salad must be made the day before it is served.

It is a mellow mixture of miniature marshmallows, crushed pineapple, mayonnaise, cream cheese and whipped cream. Sliced in squares and served on lettuce leaves, Mrs. Loizzo likes to use this refreshing salad as an accompaniment for a luncheon which features a tuna fish or crab meat salad. And it is delicious with some dinners, too.

MR. AND MRS. Loizzo moved from Morton Grove to their home at 707 N. Wilshire in Arlington Heights two years ago. Mrs. Loizzo recently joined the Holy Family Hospital auxiliary and will work at the new hospital as a volunteer.

Ground Beef Casserole

1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
5 celery ribs, chopped
1 cup Minute Rice
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Brown ground beef and onion. Season with salt and pepper. Barely cover celery with water and cook until tender. Reserve water.

Cook Minute Rice according to package directions. Then mix all of ingredients together, including the celery water. Turn into a lightly-greased 1½ quart casserole and sprinkle top with Chinese noodles or shoe string potatoes.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Strawberry Pie

CRUST:
¼ pound butter
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar

Work ingredients together until crumbly. Pat into the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie tin.

Bake in a 425 degree oven until a light golden brown, about 15 minutes. (Watch carefully as the crust burns easily.) Prepare filling and topping:

1 package Kosto vanilla pudding
1 small box frozen strawberries
1½ tablespoons cornstarch

Cook vanilla pudding according to package directions. (Do not use instant pudding.) When cool, pour into pie shell.

Drain defrosted strawberries and reserve juice. (There should be one cup.)

Combine strawberry juice and cornstarch and cook together until thick and shiny. When thickened, add strawberries and pour over custard. Refrigerate at least six hours or overnight.

To serve, garnish pie with whipped cream. Serves 6.

Ice Box Salad

½ pound miniature marshmallows
1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
½ pint whipped cream, whipped

Combine mayonnaise with softened cream cheese and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and blend together.

Pour into an ice cube tray and let set overnight. Slice in squares and serve on lettuce leaves. Serves 6.

New Season, New Dessert

Welcome summer with a festive dessert made from the new orange - pineapple flavor gelatin. This combination of fruit flavors is delicious served plain, and makes interesting salads, as well as a wide variety of more elaborate desserts.

Used here in Pineapple Dapple, it is the base for a rich and tasty filling, as well as the thickener for the "dapple" of pineapple.

YOU WILL FIND this is a refreshing dessert that can be made in the cool of the morning to serve in the afternoon or evening of a warm summer day.

PINEAPPLE DAPPLE

1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
1 can (8½ ounces) crushed pineapple
1 regular size package (3 ounces) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
1¼ cups boiling water
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
¼ teaspoon orange rind
3 tablespoons sugar
1 cup sour cream

Combine crumbs and 2 tablespoons sugar. Add butter and mix well. Press firmly into the bottom of an 8-inch square pan. Chill.

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add pineapple juice. Cool. Meanwhile, combine cream cheese, orange rind, 3 tablespoons sugar and vanilla.

COMBINE ½ cup cooled gelatin and the pineapple. Set aside. Gradually add remaining gelatin to cream cheese mixture, blending until smooth. Fold into sour cream. Pour onto graham cracker crust. Chill until firm. Then carefully spoon on the pineapple mixture. Chill. Makes about 9 servings. (SH

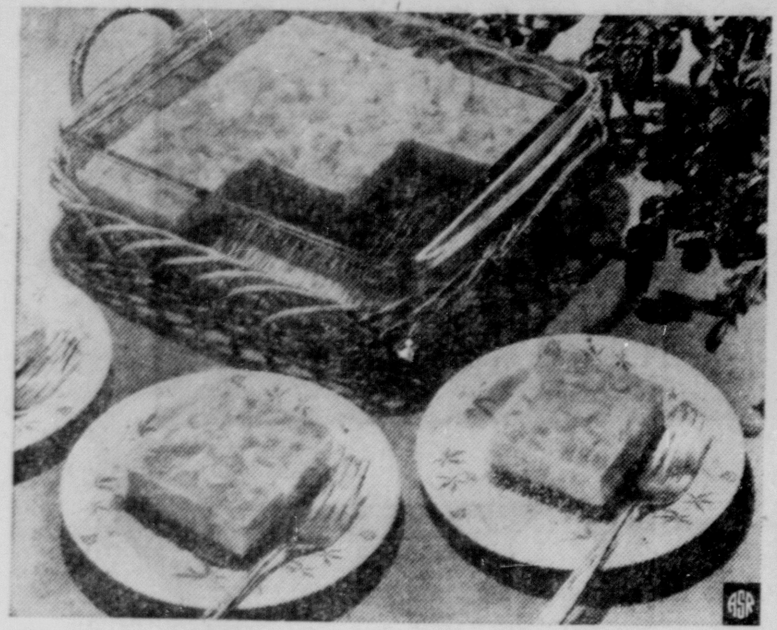
New Season, New Dessert



Welcome summer with a festive dessert made from the new orange - pineapple flavor gelatin. This combination of fruit flavors is delicious served plain, and makes interesting salads, as well as a wide variety of more elaborate desserts.

Used here in Pineapple Dapple, it is the base for a rich and tasty filling, as well as the thickener for the "dapple" of pineapple.

YOU WILL FIND this is a refreshing dessert that can be made in the cool of the morning to serve in the afternoon or evening of a warm summer day.

PINEAPPLE DAPPLE

1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
1 can (8½ ounces) crushed pineapple
1 regular size package (3 ounces) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
1¼ cups boiling water
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
¼ teaspoon orange rind
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour cream

Combine crumbs and 2 tablespoons sugar. Add butter and mix well. Press firmly into the bottom of an 8-inch square pan. Chill.

Drain pineapple, reserving juice. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add pineapple juice. Cool. Meanwhile, combine cream cheese, orange rind, 3 tablespoons sugar and vanilla.

COMBINE ½ cup cooled gelatin and the pineapple. Set aside. Gradually add remaining gelatin to cream cheese mixture, blending until smooth. Fold into sour cream. Pour onto graham cracker crust. Chill until firm. Then carefully spoon on the pineapple mixture. Chill. Makes about 9 servings. (SH

Busse Story Gets Response

Inresponse to last week's article, "Henry Busse Defends GOP Leadership," we would like to clarify a few points.

First, we would like to point out to Mr. Busse that no one individual speaking his own mind — be he a Young Republican or not — can speak for the entire Wheeling Township Young Republican club. Furthermore, statements made by an individual member cannot be attributed to the Young Republican club without the club's sanction.

Secondly, it was reported that Mr. Busse is being constantly asked by the Young Republicans whether or not he is going to run next year for another four-year term as committeeman. To our knowledge, no Young Republicans have solicited a statement from Mr. Busse as to his seeking another term. If so, however, we would ask Mr. Busse to speak of the individual and not to generalize by saying "Young Republicans."

THIRDLY, IT was reported Mr. Busse's leadership is being challenged by the "ambitious and somewhat obstreperous Young Republican club." Yes, we are ambitious . . . for the revitalization of the Republican party. But not obstreperous.

We would like to remind Mr. Busse that the Young Rebublicans put their club at the disposal of the Regular Republican organization during the national election campaign last November. We also shared in sponsoring a township candidate night and just recently pledged help in distributing a Republican newsletter in the township. We are sure the Young Republicans will continue to work with the Regular organization on any projects our membership deems in the interest of the betterment of the Republican party.

Fourth, it was stated the Young Republicans were against endorsement of a Republican slate in April's township election. Again we would like to remind Mr. Busse that the Young Republicans and Women's Republican club endorsed an all- Republican ticket, and placed advertisements, distributed 15,000 handbills, and worked to support it.

Overall, we feel Reporter Tom Edwards did an exceedingly fine job in reporting the attitudes of the committeeman. Our sincere thanks to him.

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY

My "retirement years" are just what I always hoped they would be. I knew that complete idleness would not bring contentment for me and I hit on the idea of making a paying proposition out of my hobby. I ran a small Want Ad in Paddock Publications announcing my skills at woodworking. Thanks to that ad I have all the jobs I can handle. My wife keeps reminding me that I'm supposed to be retired, and I tell her I am enjoying life and that is what retirement is supposed to mean. It is true "Want Ads Are For Everybody."

Annonymous Attacks, Closed Meetings Rapped by Reader

May I first congratulate you on the general excellence of your paper, and in particular, on the fine coverage of the recent events related to high school district 214.

It is interesting to note that those who support education are willing to let themselves be known, but those who oppose it wish to be hidden by such labels as "a teacher" and "a parent." It is hoped that in a democracy none of us should be afraid to express what we believe, if our opinions have been arrived at fairly and without malice. Often the desire to remain anonymous indicates that one is not interested in the best interest of ALL citizens.

Closed meetings and anonymous attacks are the tools of vested interests and narrow sentiments not consistent with the "American Way of Life."

BOTH YOUR education editor and Mr. Hoffmann are to be complimented for the service which they have performed to this community. Their support of education comes at a time when so many in the area have expressed a desire to have excellent schools. We cannot afford at any time to allow indifference to be an excuse for poor schools.

We in high school district 214 are fortunate in having Mr. Harold Slichenmyer as superintendent of our schools. Mr. Slichenmyer is recognized throughout the state as a leader in quality education for boys and girls. Nationally, he is known for the unequaled leadership he has provided in exploring and experimenting with new methods in education.

Some of the experiments conducted at Arlington and Prospect High Schools are paving the way in establishing schools of the future. Most importantly, Mr. Slichenmyer is noted for his service to and sympathetic interest in ALL children, which compose the modern comprehensive high school. He has given this district excellent leadership during stressing times.

I SHOULD like to appeal to our community to move ahead now that we have had an airing of our differences. It may be wise for the board of education to study intensively teachers' salaries. It is possible that others may wish to help in this. We must work together to establish better schools, staffed with well-paid teachers, so that we can provide quality education for our youngsters instead of median education. If we wish excellence in education, we must provide excellence in salaries, excellence in staff, and excellence in board members.

May I finally suggest that "a mother," "a teacher," and I, as well as others in the district, do all that is necessary to support our fine schools. Not only will the boys and girls gain, but we oldsters may also learn something in the process.

I appreciate the opportunity of expressing these opinions.

ABOUT THE AFTER-THE-PROMMERS

During the early hours of last Saturday, 488 young ladies and gentlemen of our community, embarked on a 15-hour party. This, now annual, after-the-prom celebration is planned to provide our young people with a safe-never-to-be-forgotten experience.

The parents, school, churches and the community can be proud of their teenagers, for this group is living proof that it isn't fair to make a blanket condemnation of all youngsters. This was the most lively, responsible and good fun-loving group it has been our pleasure to know. Their behavior was above reproach; there was not a single incident to mar the fun.

We are proud to have served them.

You should be proud they are yours.

No Mention of Memorial Day

Although you may not care to print this letter, I shall write it anyway.

I was very disappointed that your paper did not see fit to make mention of the coming Memorial Day. Does it not seem important to give some space to the sacrifices of our war dead and the still living wounded veterans who will never forget?

HOW ABOUT a reminder to your readers that they are living in a nation blessed above all nations for which they should give daily thanks to God and to remember those who sacrificed their health and to the ones who gave their lives?

No mention was even made that Mount Prospect and, I'm sure, other towns nearby were having Memorial Day parades.

How about doing a better job next year?

Excess Wheat Marketing Quota Set

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a marketing quota penalty rate of $1.08 per bushel on excess wheat of the 1961 crop. As directed by law, the rate of the marketing quota penalty is 45 per cent of the May 1, 1961 parity price of $2.39.

Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1961 crop wheat on July 21, 1960. When wheat marketing quotas are in effect, a farmer who does not comply with the wheat acreage allotment established for his farm is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess, unless he harvests 15 acres or less or has signed an agreement, permitting him to produce up to 30 acres of wheat for feed use on the farm.

Wheat produced on a farm on which the wheat acreage is in excess of the allotment is not eligible for price support. (FM

Hawaiian Trip Was Good News

If someone had told us a week ago that we'd be taking a trip to Hawaii this year, we surely would have considered it a joke and had a good laugh.

Then came the good news!

My husband and I are thrilled to have this opportunity and wish to thank Paddock Publications and all the generous merchants who participated in this promotion. You've made a dream come true.

Teens Impress Campus Hosts

As you know, nearly 500 Arlington high school students were guests of the University of Wisconsin, destination of the "After the Prom Train Ride." From their arrival at 7:45 a.m. to departure at 1:30 p.m., they enjoyed the facilities of the Wisconsin Union building and the university campus.

We thought that you, the faculty, the students themselves, their parents and our fellow townsmen would be pleased to know that university officials were well impressed with our group. Our official host, the Director of the Wisconsin Union, in expressing the opinion of his entire staff said, "We have never served a better behaved or more courteous group of students."

Taxpayer Asks For Top Value

In your May 18 issue you had, on the front page, an article about not protesting personal property tax. Do you really condone such a practice? I'm all for anyone who has the fortitude to protest a tax they think too high. They feel an injustice is being done and it's worth the lawyer's fee to have it corrected.

I enjoyed Dick Hoffmann's handling of the school board issue on your May 25 editorial page. Particularly the seventh paragraph saying, "Generally how the taxpayers' money is being distributed—should be disseminated to the public."

At one time a group of us was repeatedly told what a "big business" the Itasca school board was running. What I would like to learn is how we taxpayers can find out how they are handling our money. I know, go to the monthly meetings. When one is not directly involved one does not care to go to every meeting.

BEFORE I continue, let me say I am not criticizing this board. I don't go to meetings so I cannot criticize. My point is this: there is another school board being criticized for an expense account of members buying dinners and making ttrips with school board money, supposedly for the school's benefit. Before reading this, I did not realize a school board member could use public money for personal use. I consider dinners personal use and can't visualize a trip being necessary.

What outside body checks the board's figures, if any?

I try to get the most with what is left of my taxed dollar. I am now getting quite concerned about the agencies who receive my tax money. Are they doing the same? Not only the schools, but the town, the country, the state, and the government.

Press Hailed For Coverage

Soon after we moved to Arlington Heights — some eight years ago — we realized that your paper was very different from the suburban newspapers with which we had been familiar. Over the years, we have seen an editorial policy carried out which is a credit to you and to the communities which your papers serve.

Somehow, you have been able to attract the finest reporters and journalists, as only a paper operating on the highest levels of ethical and professional practices would. I was sorry to see Mr. Dulaney leave, but have no doubt that you will find a proper replacement, difficult as that may be.

DURING THE last few weeks, you have given us invaluable information about certain affairs in high school district's board 214, which are undesirable; now, that the citizens have been fully informed, we can expect that school board to move back into the right direction. When this happens much credit must go on to your papers and to your reporters who have been so careful in reporting these important facts; indeed, Mrs. Bristol is doing an outstanding job.

I know for certain that the citizens as a whole want this kind of reporting and are grateful for it. Of course, there will and should always be people who think a bit different, and they should have their say, too. However, these persons should not hide behind your kindness in permitting themselves to remain nameless. When I read an unsigned letter, I feel that its writer should have been satisfied with writing it, and should have saved himself the trouble of mailing it, as well as you the space in the paper and the printer's ink.

Thank you again, and keep up the good work.

Busse Story Gets Response

In response to last week's article, "Henry Busse Defends GOP Leadership," we would like to clarify a few points.

First, we would like to point out to Mr. Busse that no one individual speaking his own mind — be he a Young Republican or not — can speak for the entire Wheeling Township Young Republican club. Furthermore, statements made by an individual member cannot be attributed to the Young Republican club without the club's sanction.

Secondly, it was reported that Mr. Busse is being constantly asked by the Young Republicans whether or not he is going to run next year for another four-year term as committeeman. To our knowledge, no Young Republicans have solicited a statement from Mr. Busse as to his seeking another term. If so, however, we would ask Mr. Busse to speak of the individual and not to generalize by saying "Young Republicans."

THIRDLY, IT was reported Mr. Busse's leadership is being challenged by the "ambitious and somewhat obstreperous Young Republican club." Yes, we are ambitious . . . for the revitalization of the Republican party. But not obstreperous.

We would like to remind Mr. Busse that the Young Rebublicans put their club at the disposal of the Regular Republican organization during the national election campaign last November. We also shared in sponsoring a township candidate night and just recently pledged help in distributing a Republican newsletter in the township. We are sure the Young Republicans will continue to work with the Regular organization on any projects our membership deems in the interest of the betterment of the Republican party.

Fourth, it was stated the Young Republicans were against endorsement of a Republican slate in April's township election. Again we would like to remind Mr. Busse that the Young Republicans and Women's Republican club endorsed an all- Republican ticket, and placed advertisements, distributed 15,000 handbills, and worked to support it.

Overall, we feel Reporter Tom Edwards did an exceedingly fine job in reporting the attitudes of the committeeman. Our sincere thanks to him.

The Way We See It

High Court Ruling Is Blow to Schools

A decision by the Illinois Supreme court last week was one of the most important ever handed down on a suburban problem.

The court ruled that a Mount Prospect village ordinance requiring a subdivision developer to dedicate land for public use was unconstitutional.

The ruling came as a result of the objection by builder Salvatore DiMucci, who said the requirement was unjust. A Circuit court had ruled in favor of DiMucci last summer, and Mount Prospect appealed the decision to the state Supreme court.

In supporting the builder, the high court said the problem of adequate school facilities is one which rests with the total community and not with the builder alone.

It is our contention that the special problems created by mushrooming housing developments impose a special obligation on builders.

The modern subdivider, building barren land into a full-blown community within months, has created tremendous demands on already existing communities. School boards have bonded themselves to the hilt to keep up with the heavy demands growing families make. They have felt the squeeze in their educational budget because of the lag in tax assessment, collection, and distribution procedures created by the archaic state revenue code.

Two things have enabled them to meet the demand. One is voluntary cooperation from those enlightened builders who helped solve school emergencies with lease arrangements, land donations, or complete buildings. The other has been the village ordinances requiring dedication of land for public use.

There is no longer any legal argument left for the taxing bodies.

Technically, it is now possible for developers to build thousands of homes with no provision for the education or recreation of the people that buy them.

We feel that this is as much a moral as it is a legal question.

There is a certain obligation on the part of both the builder and the community to see that decent schools are available for the people.

Attempts have been made to clarify this moral responsibility by legislation. Suburban representatives in the Illinois General Assembly have pushed for a bill that would define clearly the responsibilities of subdividers. So far the attempts have proved futile.

Suburban school districts are now faced with a critical emergency. It is imperative that a workable law be forthcoming from this session of the state legislature.

Protection for Consumers

Legislation to create a Bureau of Consumer Fraud in Illinois is overdue. The measures to establish such an agency have passed the House and are now under consideration in the State Senate.

The proposed bureau would be administered by the Illinois Attorney General's office and — through the courts — would be able to recover losses for the bilked consumer and have the business licenses of "merchandising pirates" revoked.

The only recourse the deceived customer now has to recover money from which he has been separated by fraudulent means is by filing a civil action in the courts. He can also report alleged violations to the States Attorney's office for possible criminal action.

Seeking the recovery of money now through civil action is about as easy as counterfeiting your own bills; if the defendant asks for a jury trial, the case will linger on anywhere from two to five years. Only the most adamantly principled person will press for justice for this duration, and will have to write off his loss and more to legal costs.

With the consumer fraud bureau, the attorney general could ask the court to appoint a receiver to marshal the assets of the business to recompense the defrauded persons for damages suffered, much like investors recouping their losses in bankruptcy proceedings.

He could further request the court to enter a decree revoking the charter of the business if it is a domestic corporation chartered within the state. Business certificates of out-of-state corporations would have to be revoked by the Secretary of State once the court entered such a decree.

By transferring responsibility for policing the consumer plunderers from the criminal to civil level, a method of stricter control over their activities is insured. While proof beyond a reasonable doubt is required in criminal suits, a preponderance of evidence will suffice for a judgment against the violator in civil cases. Attorney General William G. Clark estimates that for every 500 such cases brought to court by the state's attorney, one conviction results. This represents a costly use of taxpayers' money and public servants' time.

The power granted the attorney general by the proposed legislation is limited to the action he would initiate through existing courts, so that his authority would not exceed the bounds of reason. As Attorney General Clark points out, 90 per cent of the fraud cases would be settled by negotiation, with violators asked to sign a code of business ethics.

The bureau would also serve the psychological function of discouraging the unscrupulous from roosting in Illinois, and be a constant reminder to those already in the state that willful deception would be immediately prosecuted.

Solicitor Control Asked

Solicitors, as a species, vary from the Fuller Brush man who has always seemed a permanent neighborhood fixture to the persistent encyclopedia salesman who won't remove his foot from the door to the itinerant "nurseryman" who will sell you a pile of "top soil" whether you need it or not.

Whether a welcome part of the neighborhood, a pest, or a vermin, however, the solicitor is defined as a person who goes door-to-door taking orders for future delivery.

As such, he is not mentioned in state statutes which govern the movements of "peddlers," "vendors" and "hawkers." This is one reason municipalities have had such a hard time licensing solicitors and why they often lose when the matter is tested in the courts.

To remedy this situation, legislation has been prepared which would specifically name solicitors in the law. One of the authors of the proposed bill, Rolling Meadows Attorney James Mackin, says, however, that solicitations by the press or charitable organizations would not be regulated.

This is the other area in which municipalities have found court decisions going against them. For the solicitor licensing ordinances have also been challenged on the basis that they abridge freedom of the press, religion and politics guaranteed by state and federal constitutions.

It would appear that an amendment to this portion of the "Cities and Villages Act" is appropriate, since the law was written in 1872. The writers of the legislation also have been wise in avoiding that area in which serious questions of constitutionality could be raised.

A Senator's Independence

These columns have frequently noted the $2 billion annual price tag put on job discrimination in Illinois: additions to welfare rolls, increased crime, lost business, and reduced production. The price paid in wasted skills, undeveloped abilities, and frustrated careers is immeasurable.

Last week the state senate approved FEPC; it marked the first time such legislation ever passed the upper house.

The senate action was due in large part to the vigorous leadership of Sen. W. Russell Arrington (4th district), one of five Republicans supporting the measure.

Sen. Arrington's courage and independence merits the gratitude of all citizens who will be guaranteed equal employment opportunities without regard to race, religion, color, or national origin.

What's Ailing Republicans?

by DICK HOFFMANN

Cook county Republicans who are engaged in an agonizing search for a new image are only deceiving themselves. Instead of groping about for some Madison ave. slogan to cling to, they should be concerning themselves with the basic question of what their party should stand for.

They should be bothering about a philosophy instead of a psychology.

To what ends is the Republican party committed? How will it achieve these ends? And do these goals contain the greatest good for the greatest number?

These are questions the voting public would like to know. Unfortunately — and probably justifiably — a large portion of the electorate has already formed a portrait of the Grand Old Party which is anything but flattering.

THEY SEE the beast as hopelessly mired in the past, unable to extricate itself from the swampland of yesteryear, and about ready for the final journey to the elephants' graveyard.

Creating a "new image" may cloak old longings among the party faithful but not old doubts among the public. Instead of looking for new masquerades, the party must look back to its origins to renew its articles of faith with the people.

Justly or unjustly, I think the GOP in many minds has become the party of privilege: the defenders of Big Business and economic anarchy, the mouthpieces of the Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Manufacturers, American Medical Association, and DAR; in short, the spokesmen for the negative, feet-dragging forces of reaction.

This, of course, is a distorted view, but it contains enough of an element of truth to confirm, at least in part, the indictment.

THIS IS why the Republican party should return to consult again with the authors of its greatness: Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Lincoln not only spoke for the common people; he came from them, and he could verbalize the poetry that exists in their hearts.

He would not compromise his belief that democracy existed for all the people: ". . . he is blowing out the moral lights around us, when he contends that whoever wants slaves has a right to hold them; that he is penetrating, so far as lies in his power, the human soul, and eradicating the light of reason and the love of liberty, when he is in every possible way preparing the public mind . . . for making the institution of slavery perpetual and national."

While Teddy Roosevelt is viewed by some doctrinaire liberals as the first president to practice imperialism (he did stage some convenient banana revolutions), the biggest stick he carried was the anti-trust laws, a billy club he was also fond of using.

HE ALSO alerted the public to the rape of our natural resources and was successful in preventing vested interests from defiling the land. In "The Foes of Our Own Household" he wrote: "We must become, to a real degree, our brother's keeper, if only for the sake of our own children; for in the long run this world will not be a pleasant living place for our children unless it is also a reasonably comfortable living place for our brother's children."

We have today second-class citizens still fighting and longing to be free in a real sense of the word. We have in Chicago one of the most segregated metropolitan areas in the country. What greater invitation exists for the heirs of Lincoln?

If Cook county Republicans, specifically, wish to win an election, they should forget about the suburban country club crowd and its implied class distinction and get to the task of worrying about and helping those who need help in the inner city. They will have to beat the Democrats on their own ground at their own game.

This entails a little work, sweat and cheer—and more than a passing concern for the will and the wishes of the people, regardless of their economic status or social affiliations.

THE DEMOCRATIC machine of Chicago is old and corrupt, as all parties become when they have enjoyed power too long.

The city begs for reform.

The press of Chicago was recently criticized by two University of Chicago professors as being a one-party press; the educators wondered why there couldn't be a two-party press as there was a two party government. It is no secret that Chicago publishers prefer the GOP (again a matter of country club membership). But Chicago is also a one-party town, with only token opposition offered by the elephant corps.

It will remain so until Republicans discover a social conscience. This is what they need instead of a new, shiny image, full of superficial promise and signifying nothing.

Discussion Two Years Late

'Conformism' Is No Longer Valid Issue for Arguments

by MARTIN E. MARTY

It seems to me that there is much less talk in America today about conformity and nonconformism. This could be because we have all become such conformists that we no longer notice what sheep we are. Or it could be because the subject has been talked to death.

There may be a third reason, and I have a growing suspicion that it is the best explanation. The conformity/nonconformity poles were never fruitful bases for understanding human character in the first place.

Proof for this viewpoint comes from Morris Freedman's "Confessions of a Conformist" (Norton, $3.95), a book of more interest than importance that appears about two years after the peak of discussion on the subject. Hence it takes on a special kind of interest as a too-late contribution of a dated topic.

FREEDMAN first surveys the surveys of conformity in America, determining to know how it is usually seen in advertising, popular culture, religion, and education. The outline of all this is pretty clear to most of us by now. Then he describes the professional nonconformists, and they are legion.

Here I believe his thesis is correct: no one is more predictable than self-conscious nonconformists. It is not hard to stereotype the beatniks, for instance, for they are the most consistent and expectable a lot as any in America.

"It seems impossible," says Freedman, "for the nonconformist to say a good word about a Republican or a Southern or Texas Democrat or James Gould Cozzens, or a bad one about Henry James, Adlai Stevenson, Franklin D. Roosevelt, or Freud."

It is impossible for the nonconformist to express approval of any television show (except such as Omnibus, Ed Murrow, Mort Sahl, Sid Caesar, or Mike Nichols and Elaine May) or of any American movie (except the inexpensive and badly lighted ones, or the solemn westerns, like "High Noon"); to dislike any foreign films (except those imitating American ones); to believe that you can buy ready-made a good hi-fi set; to wear a non-Ivy-league suit or long hair if a man; to prefer American cars for any reason, to European, etc., etc.

OF COURSE, he is correct in depicting nonconformism thus. But, turn it around once more, and see what his confessions of conformism look like and they are once more their own kind of snobbery and predictable preferences. He asks: what do nonconformists dislike; this I shall choose to like.

It seems to me to be a fruitless quest. By now we ought to learn that it is most fun to set out developing good taste without regard for what is forced upon us; to live our lives without first sending out our antennae in all directions; not to care whether or not we are conforming (to what?) or nonconforming (to what?) but whether we are authentic persons.

SUMMARY: it is still fun to play the game.

Springfield Sidelights

Looks Like Tragic Compromise to Win

By REP. PAUL SIMON

At this point in the legislative session in Springfield the word "compromise" is heard frequently —and its use is not always in the public interest.

When is compromise right? When is compromise wrong?

These two questions plague the sincere legislator, particularly during these final weeks of the legislative session, when action comes quickly, and compromises are made in minutes.

Much compromise is good. If a legislator has a bill for his district, when the measure is considered by the committee it may be pointed out that in another part of the state, the bill has a totally different effect. A compromise is then worked out, so that part of the state is not hurt.

That is the first kind of a compromise—one to "knock the corners off" of a bill.

The second kind of a compromise is getting "half of a loaf insead of a whole loaf."

THIS HAPPENS not only in Springfield, but in a city council or Congress. If your mayor wants to pave two streets and proposes it to his city council, he may end up with a compromise, paving one street, rather than two.

This kind of compromise can also be good, resulting in a more gradual, sensible approach to a program.

A third kind of compromise is one which involves a compromise of basic beliefs, a compromise which says, "I will vote for your bad bill, if you will vote for mine."

In this kind of compromise the public always loses.

It is a tragic reality that this type of compromise becomes increasingly frequent as the session nears adjournment. Those who lose out in this type of situation are largely voiceless, people who may not even know the legislature is in session.

A good illustration is the sales tax increase. If the proposed measures pass, Illinois will have the highest sales tax in the nation. We will also have the worst tax structure in the nation—a system where the lower your income, the higher the percentage of your income which will go for taxation.

BUT THE people who are hit hardest by this type of tax do not have powerful lobbyists in Springfield.

The result—probably the sales tax increase will be passed, the proposed corporation tax reduced, the increased tax on race tracks defeated, the cigar tax defeated.

Every tax study shows that we should not be taxing in this way, but the special interests are working hard, party pressures are increasing.

The end result looks like a compromise where every one wins but the people, the tragic kind of compromise.

The Way We See It

High Court Ruling Is Blow to Schools

A decision by the Illinois Supreme court last week was one of the most important ever handed down on a suburban problem.

The court ruled that a Mount Prospect village ordinance requiring a subdivision developer to dedicate land for public use was unconstitutional.

The ruling came as a result of the objection by builder Salvatore DiMucci, who said the requirement was unjust. A Circuit court had ruled in favor of DiMucci last summer, and Mount Prospect appealed the decision to the state Supreme court.

In supporting the builder, the high court said the problem of adequate school facilities is one which rests with the total community and not with the builder alone.

It is our contention that the special problems created by mushrooming housing developments impose a special obligation on builders.

The modern subdivider, building barren land into a full-blown community within months, has created tremendous demands on already existing communities. School boards have bonded themselves to the hilt to keep up with the heavy demands growing families make. They have felt the squeeze in their educational budget because of the lag in tax assessment, collection, and distribution procedures created by the archaic state revenue code.

Two things have enabled them to meet the demand. One is voluntary cooperation from those enlightened builders who helped solve school emergencies with lease arrangements, land donations, or complete buildings. The other has been the village ordinances requiring dedication of land for public use.

There is no longer any legal argument left for the taxing bodies.

Technically, it is now possible for developers to build thousands of homes with no provision for the education or recreation of the people that buy them.

We feel that this is as much a moral as it is a legal question.

There is a certain obligation on the part of both the builder and the community to see that decent schools are available for the people.

Attempts have been made to clarify this moral responsibility by legislation. Suburban representatives in the Illinois General Assembly have pushed for a bill that would define clearly the responsibilities of subdividers. So far the attempts have proved futile.

Suburban school districts are now faced with a critical emergency. It is imperative that a workable law be forthcoming from this session of the state legislature.

Protection for Consumers

Legislation to create a Bureau of Consumer Fraud in Illinois is overdue. The measures to establish such an agency have passed the House and are now under consideration in the State Senate.

The proposed bureau would be administered by the Illinois Attorney General's office and — through the courts — would be able to recover losses for the bilked consumer and have the business licenses of "merchandising pirates" revoked.

The only recourse the deceived customer now has to recover money from which he has been separated by fraudulent means is by filing a civil action in the courts. He can also report alleged violations to the States Attorney's office for possible criminal action.

Seeking the recovery of money now through civil action is about as easy as counterfeiting your own bills; if the defendant asks for a jury trial, the case will linger on anywhere from two to five years. Only the most adamantly principled person will press for justice for this duration, and will have to write off his loss and more to legal costs.

With the consumer fraud bureau, the attorney general could ask the court to appoint a receiver to marshal the assets of the business to recompense the defrauded persons for damages suffered, much like investors recouping their losses in bankruptcy proceedings.

He could further request the court to enter a decree revoking the charter of the business if it is a domestic corporation chartered within the state. Business certificates of out-of-state corporations would have to be revoked by the Secretary of State once the court entered such a decree.

By transferring responsibility for policing the consumer plunderers from the criminal to civil level, a method of stricter control over their activities is insured. While proof beyond a reasonable doubt is required in criminal suits, a preponderance of evidence will suffice for a judgment against the violator in civil cases. Attorney General William G. Clark estimates that for every 500 such cases brought to court by the state's attorney, one conviction results. This represents a costly use of taxpayers' money and public servants' time.

The power granted the attorney general by the proposed legislation is limited to the action he would initiate through existing courts, so that his authority would not exceed the bounds of reason. As Attorney General Clark points out, 90 per cent of the fraud cases would be settled by negotiation, with violators asked to sign a code of business ethics.

The bureau would also serve the psychological function of discouraging the unscrupulous from roosting in Illinois, and be a constant reminder to those already in the state that willful deception would be immediately prosecuted.

Solicitor Control Asked

Solicitors, as a species, vary from the Fuller Brush man who has always seemed a permanent neighborhood fixture to the persistent encyclopedia salesman who won't remove his foot from the door to the itinerant "nurseryman" who will sell you a pile of "top soil" whether you need it or not.

Whether a welcome part of the neighborhood, a pest, or a vermin, however, the solicitor is defined as a person who goes door-to-door taking orders for future delivery.

As such, he is not mentioned in state statutes which govern the movements of "peddlers," "vendors" and "hawkers." This is one reason municipalities have had such a hard time licensing solicitors and why they often lose when the matter is tested in the courts.

To remedy this situation, legislation has been prepared which would specifically name solicitors in the law. One of the authors of the proposed bill, Rolling Meadows Attorney James Mackin, says, however, that solicitations by the press or charitable organizations would not be regulated.

This is the other area in which municipalities have found court decisions going against them. For the solicitor licensing ordinances have also been challenged on the basis that they abridge freedom of the press, religion and politics guaranteed by state and federal constitutions.

It would appear that an amendment to this portion of the "Cities and Villages Act" is appropriate, since the law was written in 1872. The writers of the legislation also have been wise in avoiding that area in which serious questions of constitutionality could be raised.

A Senator's Independence

These columns have frequently noted the $2 billion annual price tag put on job discrimination in Illinois: additions to welfare rolls, increased crime, lost business, and reduced production. The price paid in wasted skills, undeveloped abilities, and frustrated careers is immeasurable.

Last week the state senate approved FEPC; it marked the first time such legislation ever passed the upper house.

Ralph Long Takes Bride In Downstate Ceremony

Sacred Heart church in Du Quoin was the scene Saturday morning, May 13, of the wedding of Miss Nancy Etta Clark, daughter of the Harvey Clarks of Du Quoin, and Ralph Larry Long, son of the R. L. Longs, 309 N. Pine, Mt. Prospect. Rev. Joseph Trapp officiated at the double ring ceremony amid a setting of fernery, lilies of the valley and white snapdragons. Satin streamers, fernery and white carnations marked the aisle pews.

The bride chose a gown of pure silk organza with a chapel-length train. The sabrina neckline of the gown was trimmed with tiny seed pearls, iridescent sequins and chantilly lace. The gown also featured long, pointed sleeves and a, fitted bodice, bouffant skirt overlaid with lace medallions and butterfly bustle. A crown of orange blossoms held her illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids.

THE BRIDE and her father were preceded down the aisle by Mrs. Joseph Beard of Indianapolis as matron of honor and the groom's sister, Miss Sherrie Long, and Mrs. John McAteer of Belleville as bridesmaids.

The attendants wore identical street-length frocks of peppermint pink silk organza over taffeta with matching accessories and carried clusters of pink carnations.

John McAteer of Belleville was chosen to attend Mr. Long as best man. Groomsmen were Max Nessler of Findlay, Ohio, cousin of the groom, and Ted Moske of Carbondale.

A RECEPTION was held in the American Legion hall immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Clark received in a pink lace sheath with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother in a champagne silk sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

Mr. Long and his bride departed for Portland, Ore., where the bridegroom, a second lieutenant in the air force, is stationed.

The bride was formerly employed as a doctor's assistant and her bridegroom was graduated from Southern Illinois university with a B.S. degree in business. He is affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity. (S

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Adventure in Art

Dear Peg:

One of the most significant contributions to the cause of amateur art in America is to be found in a collection of paintings now hanging in the Merchants and Manufacturers Club in the Merchandise Mart. The annual National Fine Arts Competition, sponsored by the Clairol Art Foundation has become an institution with both the beauty industry and the general public The original concept of the Competition—to give the nation's beauticians an opportunity to demonstrate, through the medium of the fine arts, the creativity and artistry that is inherent in their daily work—has long since been borne out. To millions of Americans in major cities throughout the U. S., the Clairol Art Competition represents a new adventure in the field of art.

Out of the thousands of entries throughout the country, my dear friend Esther's painting was one of the group of a hundred paintings selected to be given either cash prizes or special awards. Our only disappointment was that out of this group only fifty were chosen to be included in the exhibit and this year Esther's wasn't included—perhaps because she had a canvas in the show last year and the judges decided to give a few new artists a chance to exhibit—we don't know. At any rate both of us had a most rewarding afternoon seeing some very fine amateur art.

The Little Champion

I must remember to stop setting goals for myself. Usually I set my sights on such high achievement that fulfillment of my contract with myself is well nigh impossible. Which leads to frustration. However, I have found that making the goal set can lead to even greater frustration.

Most of my endeavors are so impossible to achieve that I don't get really upset when I fall flat on my face. I rather expected that things wouldn't work out according to schedule. Like the days I decide that before I retire for the night, I shall have cleaned the house, done the washing and ironing and put a turkey dinner on the table for the mob. How silly can you get?

There are the days when I fully intend not only finishing the dress I cut out three weeks ago but getting all the mending done too. Ridiculous. Everyone knows that I would rather be shot than sew on a button. And, I am always sewing on a dress designed for the season that has just slipped into limbo.

When I took up golf a couple of years ago, my ambition was to break ninety. For nine holes, that is. It seemed an innocent enough aim in life. So I did. Then I wanted to break eighty. Just for the fun of it. And I did that too but it took me a little while. Then, of course I set my sights on getting into the seventies. Then the sixties. This I accomplished after a period of time.

Last year I aimed for the fifties. And I aimed and aimed and aimed. Finally, I did it. Not exactly consistently but anyhow a couple of times. Enough to know that it could be done and by me. Then, laughingly, I said that I now wanted to shoot in the forties and everyone laughed right along with me and said, "Who wouldn't?"

So, the other day the gods smiled on me and I shot a forty-seven and almost fainted in the process. From that day on, life for me is one long horrible mess. Every time I go out to play, I dream of coming through like the little champion I think I am. Every time I end up the nine holes back in the sixties. Where, evidently, I belong. This starting out with such high hopes and coming in crushed is playing havoc with my nerves. It isn't doing a thing for my golf game either.

Ralph Long Takes Bride In Downstate Ceremony

Sacred Heart church in Du Quoin was the scene Saturday morning, May 13, of the wedding of Miss Nancy Etta Clark, daughter of the Harvey Clarks of Du Quoin, and Ralph Larry Long, son of the R. L. Longs, 309 N. Pine, Mt. Prospect. Rev. Joseph Trapp officiated at the double ring ceremony amid a setting of fernery, lilies of the valley and white snapdragons. Satin streamers, fernery and white carnations marked the aisle pews.

The bride chose a gown of pure silk organza with a chapel-length train. The sabrina neckline of the gown was trimmed with tiny seed pearls, iridescent sequins and chantilly lace. The gown also featured long, pointed sleeves and a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt overlaid with lace medallions and butterfly bustle. A crown of orange blossoms held her illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids.

THE BRIDE and her father were preceded down the aisle by Mrs. Joseph Beard of Indianapolis as matron of honor and the groom's sister, Miss Sherrie Long, and Mrs. John McAteer of Belleville as bridesmaids.

The attendants wore identical street-length frocks of peppermint pink silk organza over taffeta with matching accessories and carried clusters of pink carnations.

John McAteer of Belleville was chosen to attend Mr. Long as best man. Groomsmen were Max Nessler of Findlay, Ohio, cousin of the groom, and Ted Moske of Carbondale.

A RECEPTION was held in the American Legion hall immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Clark received in a pink lace sheath with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother in a champagne silk sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

Mr. Long and his bride departed for Portland, Ore., where the bridegroom, a second lieutenant in the air force, is stationed.

The bride was formerly employed as a doctor's assistant and her bridegroom was graduated from Southern Illinois university with a B.S. degree in business. He is affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity. (S

Adventure in Art

Dear Peg:

One of the most significant contributions to the cause of amateur art in America is to be found in a collection of paintings now hanging in the Merchants and Manufacturers Club in the Merchandise Mart. The annual National Fine Arts Competition, sponsored by the Clairol Art Foundation has become an institution with both the beauty industry and the general public The original concept of the Competition—to give the nation's beauticians an opportunity to demonstrate, through the medium of the fine arts, the creativity and artistry that is inherent in their daily work—has long since been borne out. To millions of Americans in major cities throughout the U. S., the Clairol Art Competition represents a new adventure in the field of art.

Out of the thousands of entries throughout the country, my dear friend Esther's painting was one of the group of a hundred paintings selected to be given either cash prizes or special awards. Our only disappointment was that out of this group only fifty were chosen to be included in the exhibit and this year Esther's wasn't included—perhaps because she had a canvas in the show last year and the judges decided to give a few new artists a chance to exhibit—we don't know. At any rate both of us had a most rewarding afternoon seeing some very fine amateur art.

The first prize of the competition was awarded to Leslie Lounsbury whose painting, "Seashore" is a penetrating study, in shades of night-blues, of either shacks or rock formations along a seacoast. The excellent design and use of brush seemed to lift this picture out of the realm of "amateur" art. Unfortunately, there are always incomprehendable selections for the largest prizes. Out of the five big awards there are two primitives of the Grandma Moses type. Not that one of these paintings shouldn't be included in a show of representative American art, but to give the second and fifth prizes of the entire competition to two such paintings (so alike in technique that they could have been painted by the same artist) seems a great mistake.

The third prize "A Large Kitchen" by Marguerite Salon is of a chair, table, bottle and window, painted in the severe, straight forward manner of Edward Hopper. I liked the 4th prize winner very much—a brilliant canvas called "The Old Car Barn" by Martin Newman showing bright red trolley cars standing in the sunshine outside the car barn.

Among other paintings, Esther and I particularly liked a water color abstract, "Turnbasin," by Louis Gehrm—a polygraph design over a pastel wash, "Tenement Symphony" by Theodore Haas—an interesting study of buildings and wires and a cleverly done abstract, "Days End" by Cecil Stevens which upon first glance seems to be a burst of brilliant color on a white background but, upon closer scrutiny, reveals that the artist has pressed the color on with combs, clips, hair pins and curlers!

My love,
Patty

Adjusting one of the table decorations were Mrs. Richard Jensen, Mrs. Darwin Townsend, Mrs. Jerry Brask and Mrs. William Gosney, chairman of the decorating committee.

Nurses Hear Eye Doctor; Plan Scholarship Tea

"Contact lenses are not an innovation of this generation or even the preceding generation," Dr. Gustave Soltz told members of Arlington Heights Nurses club at their meeting last Thursday in the Lauterburg and Oehler meeting room.

Dr. Soltz, Arlington Heights opthalmologist and guest speaker for the group's meeting, told the nurses that the idea of contact lenses was conceived by Leonardo Di Vinci way back in 1500, but it wasn't until 1636 that a doctor attempted to make a corneal lens. Another attempt was made in 1826 by an English doctor and with the discovery of local anesthesia in 1884, corneal molds were made.

FIRST ACTUAL use of the contact was in 1888, Dr. Soltz told the nurses. This was a spheral contact that covered the entire exposed part of the eye. Unlike the tiny lenses of today, the spheral contacts required that fluid be applied before insertion.

Today's contact covers only the pupil and part of the iris and rests on the user's own tear layer. Until 1938 lenses were made of glass, but with the discovery of plexiglass, lenses are now made of plastic.

DR. SOLTZ, who believes corneal contacts are here to stay, listed three reasons for preference of contacts over regular glasses: cosmetic purposes, diseases of the eye and as an eye protection in an increasing number of industries. He also told the group that as yet, contact bifocals are unsatisfactory because of the very small reading area on the edges of the lens.

During the club's business meeting, it was voted to purchase two more wheel chairs for the club's lending closet. Other additions to the closet include two of the latest cold steam vaporizers, now on order. Items in the closet are available to all Arlington Heights residents.

AT A TEA June 7 in the home of Mrs. Gordon Ward, 115 E. Park, the club will be presenting a scholarship to Miss Shirley Lange, who will be studying at Lutheran General hospital. Miss Lange is the daughter of the August Langes, 231 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights. (S

ALL IN WHITE for the Junior's spring banquet last week were Mrs. Elmore Lechtelt and Mrs. J. L. Bolas. The affair was held in Mt. Prospect country club where the young women were served from a huge buffet table.

Success Story

Andrew Carnegie, a Scotsman by birth, emigrated to the U. S. in 1848 and eventually made his fortune in steel. He retired in 1901, and his subsequent philanthropies included many libraries still active today.

PRETTY SPRING HATS top the coiffures of Mrs. Warren Petersen and Mrs. Donald Carrara at the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club spring banquet. Mrs. Petersen is the club's new treasurer and Mrs. Carrara is the district press and publicity chairman.

ADMIRING WALL PLAQUES in new dining room of Mt. Prospect country club are Mrs. Henry Wieditz and Mrs. Gordon T. Beckley, new and retiring presidents of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club. Mrs. Wieditz was installed as president of the group in a candlelight ceremony that followed the banquet. Mrs. Beckley is the new junior district director.

PINK CARNATIONS, both real and fake, decorated Mt. Prospect country club last week when Arlington Heights Juniors held their annual banquet and installation of officers. Real carnation corsages were at each guest's place setting and the fake carnations, made from colored tissues, formed the centerpieces. Adjusting one of the table decorations were Mrs. Richard Jensen, Mrs. Darwin Townsend, Mrs. Jerry Brask and Mrs. William Gosney, chairman of the decorating committee.

Nurses Hear Eye Doctor; Plan Scholarship Tea

"Contact lenses are not an innovation of this generation or even the preceding generation," Dr. Gustave Soltz told members of Arlington Heights Nurses club at their meeting last Thursday in the Lauterburg and Oehler meeting room.

Dr. Soltz, Arlington Heights opthalmologist and guest speaker for the group's meeting, told the nurses that the idea of contact lenses was conceived by Leonardo Di Vinci way back in 1500, but it wasn't until 1636 that a doctor attempted to make a corneal lens. Another attempt was made in 1826 by an English doctor and with the discovery of local anesthesia in 1884, corneal molds were made.

FIRST ACTUAL use of the contact was in 1888, Dr. Soltz told the nurses. This was a spheral contact that covered the entire exposed part of the eye. Unlike the tiny lenses of today, the spheral contacts required that fluid be applied before insertion.

Today's contact covers only the pupil and part of the iris and rests on the user's own tear layer. Until 1938 lenses were made of glass, but with the discovery of plexiglass, lenses are now made of plastic.

DR. SOLTZ, who believes corneal contacts are here to stay, listed three reasons for preference of contacts over regular glasses: cosmetic purposes, diseases of the eye and as an eye protection in an increasing number of industries. He also told the group that as yet, contact bifocals are unsatisfactory because of the very small reading area on the edges of the lens.

During the club's business meeting, it was voted to purchase two more wheel chairs for the club's lending closet. Other additions to the closet include two of the latest cold steam vaporizers, now on order. Items in the closet are available to all Arlington Heights residents.

AT A TEA June 7 in the home of Mrs. Gordon Ward, 115 E. Park, the club will be presenting a scholarship to Miss Shirley Lange, who will be studying at Lutheran General hospital. Miss Lange is the daughter of the August Langes, 231 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights. (S

For Women

Marianne Scott, Women's Editor

UNWELCOME POURING RAIN didn't mar the enthusiasm of the women at Inverness country club last Thursday as they tried on the dozens of hats used in demonstration after luncheon of Arlington Heights auxiliary of BPO Elks.

Men DO Make Passes at Girls Who Wear-Hats

"A man will never approach a woman in a hat — that is a lie!" Miss Ruddy of Hats by Liz told her audience at Inverness country club last Thursday.

An amusing speaker adept at creating hats right before her audience's eyes, Miss Rudly presented her program wearing a high 2-tone purple pill box trimmed with a huge matching flower centered on the front of the hat. The stem of the flower curled at the bottom, just missing her nose.

"Passionate purple does a lot for most everyone," she explained. Her audience was the woman's auxiliary of BPO Elks, Arlington Heights, who engaged Miss Ruddy for its annual spring luncheon.

BRIGHT SPIRITS are reflected in the happy faces of Mrs. Raymond Nottoli and Mrs. Frank Kroll Jr., despite last Thursday's rains. Mrs. Kroll, wearing her own spring bonnet, adjusts one of the models on Mrs. Nottoli.

BELIEVING that no costume is complete without a hat, the speaker demonstrated, with basic frames, the construction of whimsies one can whip up the last minute to meet a visiting potentate from the husband's office or for impressing other women.

The basics included colored "cages" which Miss Ruddy described as "colored dandruff" unless trimmed with flowers, feathers or other ornamentation and "trellises" in velvet or other materail to be adorned with just about anything one's heart desires. As she showed some of the many and varied forms of trimming, she reminded the women that "the shaggier the feather, the sexier you look."

ON A MORE serious note, she appealed to her audience to always use a lining wherever possible, as the lining is one of the main differences between a homemade and a handmade hat. "And it's much more impressive in case of an accident."

Miss Ruddy named three reasons for wearing a hat: a utilitarian head covering for church, warmth and to give the wearer a lift. It was obvious that Miss Ruddy much preferred the latter.

The program ended with a free-for-all as the audience scrambled through her prop collection trying on first one then another of the many beautiful chapeaux. (S

Mrs. H. Thompson Installed As Elk Grove Jr. President

Newly-elected officers of the Elk Grove Junior Woman's club were installed at a luncheon-meeting Saturday, May 27, at Mangam's Beverly Lake in East Dundee. Mrs. Harold Thompson assumed the responsibilities of the presidency for the 1961-62 club year. Mrs. Thompson was retiring social committee chairman, and had previously served as ways and means chairman. She had been president of the woman's club in Youngstown, Ohio, for two years.

Mrs. M. R. Hartley, past junior director of the seventh district Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, conducted the candlelight installation ceremony. Other officers installed were Mrs. John Harling, first vice president; Mrs. Edward Mueller, second vice president; Mrs. Alvin Kiehl, recording secretary; Mrs. Arnold Shaw, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gerald Bohn, treasurer.

SERVING ON the board of directors will be: Mrs. Ben Kalaway, ways and means chairman; Mrs. William McCarthy, program chairman; Mrs. Joseph Antor, hospitality chairman; Mrs. William Busse, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Joseph Markech, revisions chairman.

Mrs. Harold Greaves, outgoing president, presented a resume of the club's activities for the year, and thanked those who had served with her. Mrs. Schiffman, in behalf of the board of directors presented to Mrs. Greaves a bracelet made for her commemorating her tenure of office and Mrs. Joseph Markech, past president, presented Mrs. Greaves with her IFWC past president's pin.

PHILANTHROPY gifts, realized from the various fund raising activities the club had sponsored through the year, were donated by the club to several community groups. Accepting the checks for the various organizations were: Robert Weed, Clearbrook school; Ralph Lewis, Elk Grove Lions; and Robert Fleming, Elk Grove library.

Other guests were Mrs. C. A. Hendrickson, past president seventh district IFWC, and Mrs. Gordon T. Beckley, present junior director, seventh district.

The club, founded in 1957, has moved steadily toward its goal of betterment of the club and the community; several of its accomplishments are: donating money to the Rupley and Ridge schools for the purchase of playground equipment; establishing the village library; assisting other organizations in working on the annual peony pageant and fireman's ball; and working together with other groups on the Community Council. Children's Show Is Open at Art Center

By LUCILE ERNST

The Countryside Art center opened its annual children's art show May 28. The exhibit included paintings, prints, and sculpture created by youngsters who have been attending the Countryside Art Center classes.

There is always something refreshing about children's art work. Their instinctive grasp of the creative process never ceases to amaze me. Their enthusiasm and vitality shines through the paint. Art is long and training is tortuous. This is a part of art, but somehow a child can sometimes feel his way to beauty while a mature artist must think his way through. I've never been certain which is the right way or even if there is a right way. In any case you will enjoy seeing what our young artists can produce. Their work will be on display at Pioneer Park until Friday, June 23.

RESIDENTS OF Elk Grove who have an interest in art will be happy to know they are not alone.

The Elk Grove Junior Women's club is endeavoring to find any residents of Elk Grove, who enjoy knowing more about art and expressing themselves in art, to exhibit their work at the Peony Pageant which will take place in Elk Grove from June 15 to June 18. The art work will be exhibited in the arcade at the shopping center.

If you are a resident of Elk Grove and would like to have your work exhibited, you can get an entry blank at the IGA in the shopping center in Elk Grove or get in touch with the art chairman of the Elk Grove Women's club, Mrs. Joseph Cannizo at HE 9-2665.

IT IS HOPED that from those who show an interest in painting or in other mediums that a nuculus of interested artists may be formed which will become an art club in Elk Grove.

Original oil paintings by two members of the Countryside Art Center are now on exhibit at the Chez N'Orleans, 627 Devon, Park Ridge. The eight paintings were created by Frances Shillington and Dorothy Kruse and will hang until June 13. "Fishing Village," "Wayside Church," "Wine and Fruit," and "Bridge in Deer Grove," are the titles of Mrs. Shillington's works. Mrs. Kruse is showing, "Broken Doll," "The Bridge," "Snow Scene," and "Ballerina."

ONE OF THE interesting aspects of this exhibit is that Mrs. Shillington's "Bridge in Deer Grove" and Mrs. Kruse's "The Bridge" are paintings of the same bridge. I don't know why this has always fascinated me, but it does. When any two artists paint the same scene there is a certain fascination in seeing the two paintings together. There is always such a different viewpoint, such a difference in what they see. Never can one see more plainly how much of an artist goes into a painting. Any painting is part paint and part person.

Each month two artists from the Countryside Art Center will be represented at the Chez N'Orleans, an unusual restaurant and sweet shop, complete with a splashing fountain and New Orleans' balconies. (Bill

Music-on-Stage Plans 'New Moon'

"New Moon," musical comedy with score by Sigmund Romberg and libretti by Oscar Hammerstein II, will be produced by Music-on-Stage, amateur music theatre group of the northwest suburbs.

At a May meeting, this long-time favorite of devotees of the music stage was chosen by the members for an early 1962 presentation.

In accordance with the aim of Music-on-Stage to bring to the public of this area enjoyable vocal music with a story setting, "New Moon" was selected as the seventh annual production because of its proven record of wide audience appeal, members said.

"New Moon" also provides varied opportunities for both solo and chorus singing, dancing, dramatic expression. Children's Show Is Open at Art Center

By LUCILE ERNST

The Countryside Art center opened its annual children's art show May 28. The exhibit included paintings, prints, and sculpture created by youngsters who have been attending the Countryside Art Center classes.

There is always something refreshing about children's art work. Their instinctive grasp of the creative process never ceases to amaze me. Their enthusiasm and vitality shines through the paint. Art is long and training is tortuous. This is a part of art, but somehow a child can sometimes feel his way to beauty while a mature artist must think his way through. I've never been certain which is the right way or even if there is a right way. In any case you will enjoy seeing what our young artists can produce. Their work will be on display at Pioneer Park until Friday, June 23.

RESIDENTS OF Elk Grove who have an interest in art will be happy to know they are not alone.

The Elk Grove Junior Women's club is endeavoring to find any residents of Elk Grove, who enjoy knowing more about art and expressing themselves in art, to exhibit their work at the Peony Pageant which will take place in Elk Grove from June 15 to June 18. The art work will be exhibited in the arcade at the shopping center.

If you are a resident of Elk Grove and would like to have your work exhibited, you can get an entry blank at the IGA in the shopping center in Elk Grove or get in touch with the art chairman of the Elk Grove Women's club, Mrs. Joseph Cannizo at HE 9-2665.

IT IS HOPED that from those who show an interest in painting or in other mediums that a nuculus of interested artists may be formed which will become an art club in Elk Grove.

Original oil paintings by two members of the Countryside Art Center are now on exhibit at the Chez N'Orleans, 627 Devon, Park Ridge. The eight paintings were created by Frances Shillington and Dorothy Kruse and will hang until June 13. "Fishing Village," "Wayside Church," "Wine and Fruit," and "Bridge in Deer Grove," are the titles of Mrs. Shillington's works. Mrs. Kruse is showing, "Broken Doll," "The Bridge," "Snow Scene," and "Ballerina."

ONE OF THE interesting aspects of this exhibit is that Mrs. Shillington's "Bridge in Deer Grove" and Mrs. Kruse's "The Bridge" are paintings of the same bridge. I don't know why this has always fascinated me, but it does. When any two artists paint the same scene there is a certain fascination in seeing the two paintings together. There is always such a different viewpoint, such a difference in what they see. Never can one see more plainly how much of an artist goes into a painting. Any painting is part paint and part person.

Each month two artists from the Countryside Art Center will be represented at the Chez N'Orleans, an unusual restaurant and sweet shop, complete with a splashing fountain and New Orleans' balconies. (Bill

Air Force Personnel Meet High Standards

The duties of airmen can be performed well only by men and women with the mental and physical capacities to accumulate a high degree of spcialized technical training, states Sergeant Akers, Park Ridge, local U. S. Air Force recruiting representative.

For that reason the USAF maintains high standards for enlistment which should not discourage young men and women. Actually, these standards serve as an incentive to prospective airmen. By accepting men and women with high proficiency potential—as indicated by preenlistment aptitude tests—the Air Force can plan for individual advancement on a career basis, can establish highly technical training courses, and can offer maximum facilities for formal education because they pay off with increased efficiency when applied to per sonnel with high potential.

WOMEN applicants must be high-school graduates or must have successfully completed the high-school level general educational development test. Men should preferably have completed high school, but it isn't essential. However, all candidates must achieve an acceptable score on a general classification test administered at the recruiting station where application is made.

Male applicants under 18 and women under 21 must have parental consent prior to enlistment. Maximum age is 27 except for persons with prior military service. Female applicants must be unmarried and without dependents. All candidates must be of excellent moral character and sound physical condition. Enlistment in the Air Force is for 4 years.

Upon enlistment all recruits are sent to the basic training center at Lackland Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas.

CURRENTLY, Air Force basic training for males is 8 weeks. Approximately 65 per cent of the male trainees receive their last 3 weeks of basic training at the tech school to which they are assigned during their first month of service. Air Force basic training for females is 8 weeks and is all completed at Lackland Air Force base.

At the training center the recruit receives complete indoctrination into the service. In the first week or so he or she will receive a complete issue of Air Force clothing and will start the training and counseling cycle.

Training includes instruction in first aid and sanitation; military customs, courtesy, and drill; organization of the U. S. government and its Armed Forces; mission of the Air Force; aircraft identification; use of firearms (males only) and many related subjects.

AFTER THE recruit has had the opportunity to become acclimated to the new surroundings, the personnel classification cycle will begin. During the classification interview a recruit's training, education, personal desires, and needs of the service are taken into consideration in the selection of an Air Force career field.

While at the training center the recruit receives $78 a month. Most of the money is clear, since the Air Force furnishes food, clothing, shelter, and complete medical and dental care. Also, the recruit's dollars stretch a little further by purchasing necessary personal items at base exchanges.

Following training at Lackland Air Force base, the new airman is sent either to a technical training school or to a base for on-the-job training in a specific Air Force career field. This applies to both male and female airmen.

More detailed, specific facts concerning an Air Force enlistment may be obtained by visiting Sergeant Akers, 100 Meacham ave., Park Ridge, or by calling TAlcott 3-0180 for an appointment. (WUS

Navy Flyer To Attend Homecoming

Gale Reed of 43 W. Robertson st., Palatine, will attend a first homecoming of naval aviators at the golden anniversary of naval aviation celebration in Pensacola, Fla., June 6-11.

He is one of 78,000 Naval aviators trained in Pensacola, who are being invited to return to the "Cradle of Naval Aviation" for a spectacular birthday party honoring the navy's heroic flying men of past and present.

THE CELEBRATION coincides with Pensacola's annual "Fiesta of Five Flags," a colorful week-long pageant commemorating the founding of Pensacola 402 years ago by the Spanish conquistador, Don Tristan de Luna.

A highlight of festivities will be a mammoth air show with performances by the Navy's Blue Angels and Sky Divers, the Air Force Thunderbirds and other precision demonstration teams. The Royal British and Canadian Air Forces have been invited to participate.

MORE THAN 60 events throughout the week will include class reunions for naval aviators, indoor and outdoor competitions ranging from bridge tournaments to fishing rodeos, water skiing demonstrations, and b[illegible] racing.

Treasure hunts for Fiesta revelers of all ages will be held on the white [illegible]nds of Pensacola Beach and in the Gulf waters once frequented by pirates in Spanish galleons.

"Miss Golden Anniversary of Naval Aviation" will be chosen from 35 Southern coeds competing in the Fiesta Beauty Pageant. (WUS

Air Force Personnel Meet High Standards

The duties of airmen can be performed well only by men and women with the mental and physical capacities to accumulate a high degree of spcialized technical training, states Sergeant Akers, Park Ridge, local U. S. Air Force recruiting representative.

For that reason the USAF maintains high standards for enlistment which should not discourage young men and women. Actually, these standards serve as an incentive to prospective airmen. By accepting men and women with high proficiency potential—as indicated by preenlistment aptitude tests—the Air Force can plan for individual advancement on a career basis, can establish highly technical training courses, and can offer maximum facilities for formal education because they pay off with increased efficiency when applied to personnel with high potential.

WOMEN applicants must be high-school graduates or must have successfully completed the high-school level general educational development test. Men should preferably have completed high school, but it isn't essential. However, all candidates must achieve an acceptable score on a general classification test administered at the recruiting station where application is made.

Male applicants under 18 and women under 21 must have parental consent prior to enlistment. Maximum age is 27 except for persons with prior military service. Female applicants must be unmarried and without dependents. All candidates must be of excellent moral character and sound physical condition. Enlistment in the Air Force is for 4 years.

Upon enlistment all recruits are sent to the basic training center at Lackland Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas.

CURRENTLY, Air Force basic training for males is 8 weeks. Approximately 65 per cent of the male trainees receive their last 3 weeks of basic training at the tech school to which they are assigned during their first month of service. Air Force basic training for females is 8 weeks and is all completed at Lackland Air Force base.

At the training center the recruit receives complete indoctrination into the service. In the first week or so he or she will receive a complete issue of Air Force clothing and will start the training and counseling cycle.

Training includes instruction in first aid and sanitation; military customs, courtesy, and drill; organization of the U. S. government and its Armed Forces; mission of the Air Force; aircraft identification; use of firearms (males only) and many related subjects.

AFTER THE recruit has had the opportunity to become acclimated to the new surroundings, the personnel classification cycle will begin. During the classification interview a recruit's training, education, personal desires, and needs of the service are taken into consideration in the selection of an Air Force career field.

While at the training center the recruit receives $78 a month. Most of the money is clear, since the Air Force furnishes food, clothing, shelter, and complete medical and dental care. Also, the recruit's dollars stretch a little further by purchasing necessary personal items at base exchanges.

Following training at Lackland Air Force base, the new airman is sent either to a technical training school or to a base for on-the-job training in a specific Air Force career field. This applies to both male and female airmen.

More detailed, specific facts concerning an Air Force enlistment may be obtained by visiting Sergeant Akers, 100 Meacham ave., Park Ridge, or by calling TAlcott 3-0180 for an appointment. (WUS

Navy Flyer To Attend Homecoming

Gale Reed of 43 W. Robertson st., Palatine, will attend a first homecoming of naval aviators at the golden anniversary of naval aviation celebration in Pensacola, Fla., June 6-11.

He is one of 78,000 Naval aviators trained in Pensacola, who are being invited to return to the "Cradle of Naval Aviation" for a spectacular birthday party honoring the navy's heroic flying men of past and present.

THE CELEBRATION coincides with Pensacola's annual "Fiesta of Five Flags," a colorful week-long pageant commemorating the founding of Pensacola 402 years ago by the Spanish conquistador, Don Tristan de Luna.

A highlight of festivities will be a mammoth air show with performances by the Navy's Blue Angels and Sky Divers, the Air Force Thunderbirds and other precision demonstration teams. The Royal British and Canadian Air Forces have been invited to participate.

MORE THAN 60 events throughout the week will include class reunions for naval aviators, indoor and outdoor competitions ranging from bridge tournaments to fishing rodeos, water skiing demonstrations, and b[illegible] racing.

Treasure hunts for Fiesta revelers of all ages will be held on the white sands of Pensacola Beach and in the Gulf waters once frequented by pirates in Spanish galleons.

"Miss Golden Anniversary of Naval Aviation" will be chosen from 35 Southern coeds competing in the Fiesta Beauty Pageant. (WUS
